Vishinsky to Answer U.S. Korean Charges

Vishinsky Leads With His Right

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky expresses his views in no uncertain terms at United Nations Political Committee meeting in New York, Feb. 25, as Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb has that "here we go again" look. Vishinsky, answering U. S. chief delegate Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., demanded that North Koreans be invited to attend the UN debate on the Korean dispute. Lodge told the committee that Russia started and is continuing the Korean war.

United Nations, Feb. 26 (AP)—Stung by U. S. charges that Russia is prolonging the Korean war, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky worked today on the reply he will make before the United Nations.

Vishinsky promised he would answer the charges made yesterday by U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. in the Eisenhower administration's first major policy statement to the UN Lodge said the Russians could stop the war at will.

When the sharp-tongued Kremlin lawyer would try to parry the American thrusts was not indicated. But his absence from yesterday's brief afternoon session of the General Assembly Political Committee indicated he already was poring over the 2,000-word Lodge address.

No other speaker chose to follow the opening American blast immediately. Despite pleas by committee president Joao Carlos Muniz of Brazil that delegates of the 60 member nations get on with their work, none had asked for the floor in the meeting first scheduled for the forenoon today and then postponed to 3 p. m.

The diplomats appeared to be waiting for the Soviet Union to make the next move. None indicated any positive new action to propose in the UN.

Lodge declared in his 12-minute speech yesterday the new Republican administration intends to stand by the Indian resolution adopted by the Assembly in the first half of its seventh session last fall as the avenue to peace in Korea.

Past performances by Vishinsky indicate this comparatively brief outline of American policy would produce two hours or better of vitriolic rebuttal. The Soviet foreign minister usually takes his time to work up such replies after conferring with the Kremlin by cable.

Lodge directly challenged Vishinsky to disprove a list of charges that Russia planned and instigated the aggression in Korea, and supplied the North Koreans and Chinese Reds with jet planes, tanks and heavy military equipment.

Lodge said Russia "is actively assisting the aggressor in Korea on a scale which makes possible the continuance of that aggression and determines its scope."

"The rulers of the Soviet Union can stop the war whenever they want to," he said. "And Mr. Vishinsky knows it."

Vishinsky quickly accepted Lodge's challenge and said he would answer after he had studied the verbatin report of the American statement. Red-faced and angry, he shouted "slander" and said the new chief American delegate's first speech was "not encouraging."

The Lodge address also outlined these other policies considered by the Eisenhower administration as essential to building peace:

1. A buildup of collective security in the UN against future aggression.

2. Equal treatment of all people in the world without discrimination as to race, creed or color.

3. Insuring "freedom from the spectre of want."

4. Solution of world problems by "governments which are controlled by the people  countries in which the word 'dictatorship' is a bad word, and not countries in which officials proudly boast of dictatorship and give it the misleading title of "dictatorship of the proletariat.'"

Ohioan Hits Any Powers On Controls

Bricker Views Proposal as Handicap; Prices Increased in Matter of Minutes

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R.-Ohio) today opposed a bi-partisan Senate move to give President Eisenhower broad standby powers to freeze prices, wages and rents during a war or economic emergency.

"They would be more of a handicap than a help," Bricker said in an interview.

Two cabinet members—Secretary of Defense Wilson and Secretary of Commerce Weeks—got a chance to discuss the controls issue at a closed-door session of the Senate Banking Committee today.

Price ceilings were lifted yesterday from another 12 billion dollar annual volume of goods, including cigarettes, nearly all groceries still under control, and coppper and aluminum. As the Office of Price Stabilization predicted, some prices were boosted —within minutes, in fact.

Kennecott Is First

Kennecott Sales Corporation was first, announcing a three cent a pound increase for domestic electrolytic copper to 27½ cents. Phelps Dodge Corporation went to 28½ cents a pound delivered in the Connecticut valley.

Cigarette makers were next, with a three-fourths of a cent hike per package in Lucky Strike, Herbert Tareyton, Pall Mall, Camel and Cavalier. At retail, this was expected to come to at least one cent a pack.

An Aluminum Company of America spokesman said there would be no immediate change in the prices of aluminum or products made from it. In Chicago, President Don R. Grime. of the Independent Grocers Alliance of America said grocery decontrol would not have "any effect whatsoever so far as consumer prices are concerned."

Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. announced an average increase of one-half cent a gallon for gasoline throughout New York and New England. Petroleum products were freed from control in an earlier order.

No Estimate Ventured

OPS officials would not venture an estimate on price boosts expected for copper and aluminum. But they suggested cigarette and grocery prices might go up a quarter-billion dollars a year.

Price-wage-rent control powers expire April 30 and Eisenhower has said he does not want them extended, except for rents in defense critical areas. The President has not asked for standby authority and Secretaries Wilson and Weeks were expected to oppose such legislation.

Chairman Capehart (R.-Ind.) and 11 other members of the Senate Banking Committee, more than enough to approve the bill in committee, joined yesterday in sponsoring it.

Bricker and two other Republicans, Bennett of Utah and Goldwater of Arizona, opposed the standby freeze proposed by their 12 committee colleagues—seven Democrats and five Republicans.

"This is too much like the New Deal proposals," said Goldwater.

Professor Testifies

Robert Gorham Davis, professor of English at Smith College, testifies, Feb. 25, as the first witness in the public phase of the House Un-American Activities Committee's quest for subversives in the education field. Chairman Harold Velde (R.-Ill.) identified Davis as a former member of the Communist party.

Boorstin Declares He Was Member of Communist Cells

Professor, 39, Declares He Has Become Anti-Red; Names Author

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—A 39-year-old university professor told House Red hunters today he was a member of Communist groups at Harvard and Oxford in the 30s.

And he said that in 1939 Harvard hired as a counsellor a man who was widely known as a Communist.

The witness was Daniel J. Boorstin, a dark-haired bespectacled man who now teaches history at the University of Chicago. He was named as a former Communist yesterday by Robert G. Davis, a Smith College English professor who also acknowledged his membership in a Harvard Communist group in the 30s.

Called to Testify

Boorstin was called to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee, which is headed by Rep. Velde (R.-Ill.). The committee probe, Velde has said, is aimed at ferreting Communists out of this nation's educational institutions.

Today's testimony by Boorstin, much of it under committee questioning, brought out these principal points:

1. Boorstin joined a Communist group at Oxford in 1936 and 1937 when he was studying at the British University as a Rhodes scholar.

2. He joined a Communist group at Harvard in 1939 but quilt after "less than a year."

3. He has since become an active anti-Communist.

4. One of the reasons for his joining the Communist group at Harvard was the presence of Granville Hicks, an author and

Dulles Asks U.S. Make No Moves To Aid Despots

President, Stalin May Have Talks

Evidence in Washington Such Reds Must Alter Their Viewpoint on World Affairs

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Premier Stalin may eventually meet at a cold war peace conference, but all evidence here indicates that Soviet world intentions will first have to undergo a clear change.

That was the plain import of Eisenhower's news conference comment yesterday on a possible meeting with the Soviet leader. It is also the word that comes from U. S. diplomatic authorities who may not be named.

Periodic Russian displays of interest in a top level session are regarded here as propaganda moves which could turn into a diplomatic trend if not handled with extreme care.

Two Grave Dangers

To hold a meeting in the absence of prior proof of Soviet sincerity, authorities here feel, would be to court two grave dangers:

1. If the U. S. and allied western powers were committed to make the session successful but Russia was not, then success could be brought only at the price of new concessions to Russia.

2. If on the other hand the U. S. and its allies as well as Russia went into a conference cynically expecting only to make propaganda against the other side, then the resulting failure to realize world hopes for peace would almost certainly increase the danger of a new world war.

In the latter part of his administration, former President Truman habitually replied to questions about a meeting with Stalin by saying he would be glad to see the Soviet Premier in Washington. No one expected Stalin to come here.

Would Go Halfway

Eisenhower's position, as stated yesterday, was that he would be willing to meet Stalin halfway—presumably between Moscow and Washington. In the past, the Russian Premier has shown no willingness to go beyond the limits of Red Army power. Such top level talks have been held at Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam.

Fundamentally the leaders of the Truman Administration believed that until Russia was confronted with impregnable Allied strength, or for other reasons gave up its purpose of communizing the world, no meeting between an American president and the Soviet chieftain would accomplish anything important.

At Eisenhower's news conference a reporter recalled that last Christmas Stalin had written a New York Times newsman that he would regard favorably steps looking toward a meeting with Esienhower. The President was asked for his reaction.

Under Conditions

He said he would meet anyone anywhere provided certain conditions were met: (1) He would have to believe that the meeting would do some good for the cause of peace; (2) it would have to be in keeping with what the American people thought suitable for their chief executive; (3) it would have to be at some reasonable

Is Under Arrest

Mrs. Earl Browder, wife of the former U. S. Communist chief, was placed under house arrest at Yonkers today, because she was too ill to be taken from her apartment. The Russian-born Mrs. Browder was too ill with influenza to be taken away on a deportation action, two public health physicians said. P. S. Esperdy, enforcement officer for the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said Mrs. Browder would be kept under 24-hour guard in her apartment. Her husband reported her ill when immigration officers tried to arrest her yesterday.

Would Skip Any Dispute With Russia

Action Against Starting Controversy Is Aimed at No Discussion of Past Pacts

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles urged Congress today to make clear to the world that the United States "will never be a party to any international deal" fixing "Soviet despotism" upon peoples in Europe and Asia.

Dulles made the plea in a statement prepared for delivery to the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Resolution Considered

The lawmakers are considering an administration resolution which would denounce Russian "perversion" of World War Two agreements.

Dulles advocated avoiding controversy over whether past agreements between the United States and Russia should have been made, and instead taking action which would look to the future liberation of captive countries and stir their faith in freedom.

The "first and indispensable step" toward stimulating a spirit of freedom, Dulles said, is to make clear the following points upon the authority of the President and Congress:

"One, the United States does not countenance the violations by which Soviet leadership has perverted past agreements and understandings into chains of bondage. That is a result which the American people never intended and which they will never accept.

Will Never Trade

"Two, the United States will never be a party to any international 'deal' or 'trade' confirming the rule of Soviet despotism over the alien peoples it dominates in Europe and Asia.

"Three, the United States seeks, as one of its peaceful goals, that these enslaved national groups of Europe and Asia shall recover genuine independence."

Dulles' admonition against controversy was obviously aimed at moves in Congress to rewrite the administration's resolution and strike at Presidents Roosevelt and Truman for making the agreements with Premier Stalin at Yalta, Tehran and Potsdam.

The administration resolution would simply denounce Russia for twisting the understandings "to bring about the subjugation of free peoples."

Non-Ratification Language

Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio) told reporters he thought the Senate would put language into the resolution to make it clear that Congress was not ratifying the pacts, even informally, by adopting the resolution.

Dulles told the House committee that the Soviet satellite peoples "are oppressed by a great fear that at some future time the United States may agree to a partition of the world whereby we would support Soviet dictatorship of alien peoples in the hope of gaining greater security for ourselves."

He said that this fear creates a feeling of hopelessness among those people and that in turn paralyzes "the strivings which could operate peacefully to dissolve the unnatural unity of Soviet despotism and return it to its natural and historic parts."

The resolution, Dulles argued, would be a move toward offsetting this fear and promoting the faith of the satellite peoples in their own liberation.

Clash Occurs Over Wicks' 'Feeler' on Gas Tax Increase

Good Roads Group, Orange Assemblyman View Proposal From Two Points

Albany, Feb. 26 (AP)—The New York Good Roads Association and a Republican foe of Gov. Dewey clashed today on a GOP "feeler" proposal to boost the state's gasoline tax two cents a gallon.

L. Judson Morhouse, executive director of the association, said the proposal to raise additional funds for road building was "long overdue."

GOP Assemblyman Wilson C. Van Duzer of Orange county, who long has feuded with Dewey, said the proposal was "the same old plan to hoodwink the gasoline

Ferry Starting Is Uncertain; Must Go Into Drydock

An inquiry at the office of the New York State Bridge Authority here today, as to when the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry will resume operations, brought the reply that it is not yet in drydock for completion of repairs.

It was indicated that it will not start earlier than in other years despite the advantages of an unusually mild winter, and is expected to resume schedule "sometime in March." It has been idle since Dec. 31.

Van Fleet Sees Need to Use Powerful Allied Onslaught

Allies Raid Lines On Western Front

Missouri Batters Wonsan Positions; Transports Hit by Planes

Seoul, Feb. 26 (AP)—Allied infantrymen knifed into Red lines and killed an estimated 156 Communists in sporadic pre-dawn clashes along the bleak 155-mile Korean battle front today.

There was no concentrated action on the ground or in the air, but heavy artillery barrages roared briefly in the early morning.

Heaviest ground fighting was reported on the western front, where UN troops blasted their way almost to the main Red defense line. The raiders were supported by tanks, artillery and mortars.

Allied raiders killed or wounded 67 Communists in a 45-minute scrap on a low hill position northwest of Korangpo. Sixteen more Reds were killed nearby in a midnight raid.

General Insists Army Could Overcome Stalemate in Far East

San Francisco, Feb. 26 (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet insists — and emphatically — that the powerful United Nations Army could break the military stalemate in Korea, if unleashed.

The retiring U. S. Eighth Army commander, arriving to a hero's welcome after 22 months in Korea, declared:

"My Eighth Army can always advance another step and fire another shot."

The 60-year-old Van Fleet was given a ticker tape greeting as he rode through Market street in downtown San Francisco after a 17-gun harbor salute.

He was feted at a civic luncheon and a reception in which he was presented a gold-crested sword by the city.

Van Fleet told the 1,000 guests "Korea is the front line of freedom * * * a battlefield which, if lost, loses far more than Korea. If Korea is lost, Japan and the rest of Asia would soon follow

Thruway Section Still in Planning

Whiteport-Route 28 Part Will Figure Later in Bid Letting

Plans for the Whiteport-Onteora Trail (Route 28) section of the New York State Thruway are still in the process of completion and will not figure in the March 26 letting of thruway contracts, a spokesman for the state public works department said today.

The State Thruway Authority plans, however, to have all thruway contracts under way by May 1, he said, and it is expected that the Whiteport-Route 28 section, will be up for letting soon after March 26.

Another state source indicated that a section from Plattekill to a point near Ohioville is expected to be ready for the advertising for bids within the next five or six weeks.

To Be Included

Other sections between Newburgh and New Paltz are expected to be included within the next two or three lettings, and a section further down below the Newburgh area scheduled for early letting is that between Harriman and Sloatsburg.

Work is progressing, meanwhile along the southern end of the route in the vicinity of Nyack where footings are being built in the Hudson river for the Tappan Zee bridge.

Most of the thruway sections to figure in a March 5 letting are for sections in the upper part of the state.

Death 'Probably' Suicide

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Richmond county medical examiner's office says suspended Police Capt. John M. Bou's death from carbon monoxide poisoning was "probably suicidal." Bou, 43, was one of 30 police suspended and given a departmental trial after being accused of receiving payoffs from jailed bookie Harry Gross. He was found dead last month in the garage of his Staten Island home. At that time, an assistant district attorney said there was "no evidence to indicate suicide." The medical examiner's report, issued yesterday, made no reference to the earlier statement and did not elaborate on the verdict of probable suicide.

Eisenhower May Put Brakes On McCarthy Investigation

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration may be getting ready to try throwing the brakes on Sen. McCarthy's (R.-Wis.) investigation of the State Department.

Administration officials saw signs of this today in several recent moves, particularly the appointment of Robert W. S. McLeod, former FBI agent, as the department's "boss of security" with new policing powers.

In announcing McLeod's appointment yesterday, Assistant Secretary of State Carl W. McCardle pointedly called attention to President Eisenhower's remark in his State of the Union Message that:

"The primary responsibility for keeping out the disloyal and dangerous rests squarely upon the executive branch. When this branch so conducts itself as to require policing by another branch of the government it invites disorder and confusion."

Administration sources privately said McCardle's action appeared to be indirect notice that Secretary of State Dulles and his aides are ready now to handle whatever investigation and house cleaning is needed in the State Department.

There have been reports on Capitol Hill that Eisenhower is not too happy about the inquiry being conducted by McCarthy's Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

Eisenhower was asked at his news conference yesterday whether he thought the investigation was helping the "Voice of America," its prime target. The President said he could not answer without having more information.

McCarthy praised that as "a good sensible answer."

Two other developments were seen as significant:

1. Eisenhower's appointment of President Robert L. Johnson of Temple University as acting chief of the department's International Information Administration (IIA).

2. The reinstatement of Alfred H. Morton, after a one-day suspension, as director of the department's National Broadcasting Service, which runs the "Voice."

Johnson will be America's chief overseas propagandist as head of the semi-independent information agency which handles the "Voice" and other overseas outlets for the State Department.

Morton was officially cleared of any insubordination charges when restored to his job as number two boss of the "Voice" last night. But a public rebuke went along with the reinstatement and he still is facing Senate investigation.

Walter Bedell Smith, under secretary of state, blamed Morton for "lack of administrative control within your organization which made it possible for a message to be sent in your name which on its face indicated an intention on your part to disobey an order."

The order was one forbidding "Voice" broadcasts of writings by Soviet-endorsed writers which reflect credit on American life. The order was issued last week after the Senate investigations subcommittee had denounced the use of such writings in the broadcasts.

Mount Pleasant Resident Is Found Safe by Searchers

Miss Ruth Weber, 20, was found apparently unharmed on Mount Pleasant last night after a four-hour search by 50 to 70 volunteers.

Miss Weber left her residence at Mt. Pleasant hamlet about 4:30 p. m. and apparently became lost in the woods, according to a report made to State Police Cpl. Ray Dunn a half-hour later.

Cpl. Dunn, after a preliminary check, requested aid from Chief Mervale C. Jones of the Phoenicia Fire Department and Chief Clyde Smith of the Mt. Tremper department. The Phoenicia siren was sounded, and the two departments mustered more than 50 men, who joined the search.

Chief Jones also contacted County Identification Officer Earl Conro of the sheriff's office, who joined the search. Conro notified the sheriff's office, and Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburg, Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Deputy Chester A. Wolven went from Kingston with floodlights to join the search.

Shortly after 9 p. m., Miss Weber was located by members of the party on Mount Pleasant about three miles from her home, where she had been staying with her mother, Mrs. Wanda Weber Radcliff, and sister. They are former Jamaica, L. I., residents who moved here within the past two weeks.

Mexican Actress Arrested By Immigration Officers

Silver City, N. M., Feb. 26 (AP)—Rosaura Revueltas, Mexican film actress starring in a movie being made by the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, was arrested last night.

Immigration officers took her in custody in the lobby of the hotel in which she was staying.

Miss Revueltas immediately claimed the arrest had no basis and that she entered the country legally.

She is starring in "Salt of the Earth," the movie being filmed by the union with the cooperation of several Hollywood artists who have refused to tell congressional investigators if they were Communists.

Morris Wright of Denver, editor of the Mine-Mill newspaper, "The Union," said Miss Revueltas had acted on the advice of legal counsel in refusing to leave the country.

Wright said immigration officials gave Miss Revueltas the choice of leaving the U. S. voluntarily or being placed under arrest.

"Her lawyer told her she was not in the country illegally and advised her to stay," Wright said.

Gets 30 Years

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—John Kerringer, 33, a former defense plant worker, who stabbed two women to death, was sentenced today to 30 years to life in state prison. Bronx County Judge Samuel Joseph excoriated the jury which found Kerringer guilty of second degree murder and first degree manslaughter. Joseph said the evidence "would have fully justified first degree murder verdicts." The victims were Mrs. Jean Mitchell, 36, and Mrs. Frances Castello, 59, both of the Bronx.

Mrs. Earl Browder, wife of the former U. S. Communist chief, was placed under house arrest at Yonkers today, because she was too ill to be taken from her apartment. The Russian-born Mrs. Browder was too ill with influenza to be taken away on a deportation action, two public health physicians said. P. S. Esperdy, enforcement officer for the Immigration and Naturalization Service, said Mrs. Browder would be kept under 24-hour guard in her apartment. Her husband reported her ill when immigration officers tried to arrest her yesterday.

Would Skip Any Dispute With Russia

Action Against Starting Controversy Is Aimed at No Discussion of Past Pacts

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles urged Congress today to make clear to the world that the United States "will never be a party to any international deal" fixing "Soviet despotism" upon peoples in Europe and Asia.

Dulles made the plea in a statement prepared for delivery to the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Resolution Considered

The lawmakers are considering an administration resolution which would denounce Russian "perversion" of World War Two agreements.

Dulles advocated avoiding controversy over whether past agreements between the United States and Russia should have been made, and instead taking action which would look to the future liberation of captive countries and stir their faith in freedom.

The "first and indispensable step" toward stimulating a spirit of freedom, Dulles said, is to make clear the following points upon the authority of the President and Congress:

"One, the United States does not countenance the violations by which Soviet leadership has perverted past agreements and understandings into chains of bondage. That is a result which the American people never intended and which they will never accept.

Will Never Trade

"Two, the United States will never be a party to any international 'deal' or 'trade' confirming the rule of Soviet despotism over the alien peoples it dominates in Europe and Asia.

"Three, the United States seeks, as one of its peaceful goals, that these enslaved national groups of Europe and Asia shall recover genuine independence."

Dulles' admonition against controversy was obviously aimed at moves in Congress to rewrite the administration's resolution and strike at Presidents Roosevelt and Truman for making the agreements with Premier Stalin at Yalta, Tehran and Potsdam.

The administration resolution would simply denounce Russia for twisting the understandings "to bring about the subjugation of free peoples."

Non-Ratification Language

Sen. Taft (R.-Ohio) told reporters he thought the Senate would put language into the resolution to make it clear that Congress was not ratifying the pacts, even informally, by adopting the resolution.

Dulles told the House committee that the Soviet satellite peoples "are oppressed by a great tear that at some future time the United States may agree to a partition of the world whereby we would support Soviet dictatorship of alien peoples in the hope of gaining greater seecurity for ourselves."

He said that this fear creates a feeling of hopelessness among those people and that in turn paralyzes "the strivings which could operate peacefully to dissolve the unnatural unity of Soviet despotism and return it to its natural and historic parts."

The resolution, Dulles argued, would be a move toward offsetting this fear and promoting the faith of the satellite peoples in their own liberation.

Clash Occurs Over Wicks' 'Feeler' on Gas Tax Increase

Good Roads Group, Orange Assemblyman View Proposal From Two Points

Albany, Feb. 26 (AP)—The New York Good Roads Association and a Republican foe of Gov. Dewey clashed today on a GOP "feeler" proposal to boost the state's gasoline tax two cents a gallon.

L. Judson Morhouse, executive director of the association, said the proposal to raise additional funds for road building was "long overdue."

GOP Assemblyman Wilson C. Van Duzer of Orange county, who long has feuded with Dewey, said the proposal was "the same old plan to hoodwink the gasoline

Ferry Starting Is Uncertain; Must Go Into Drydock

An inquiry at the office of the New York State Bridge Authority here today, as to when the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry will resume operations, brought the reply that it is not yet in drydock for completion of repairs.

It was indicated that it will not start earlier than in other years despite the advantages of an unusually mild winter, and is expected to resume schedule "sometime in March." It has been idle since Dec. 31.

Van Fleet Sees Need to Use Powerful Allied Onslaught

Allies Raid Lines On Western Front

Missouri Batters Wonsan Positions; Transports Hit by Planes

Seoul, Feb. 26 (AP)—Allied infantrymen knifed into Red lines and killed an estimated 156 Communists in sporadic pre-dawn clashes along the bleak 155-mile Korean battle front today.

There was no concentrated action on the ground or in the air, but heavy artillery barrages roared briefly in the early morning.

Heaviest ground fighting was reported on the western front, where UN troops blasted their way almost to the main Red defense line. The raiders were supported by tanks, artillery and mortars.

Allied raiders killed or wounded 67 Communists in a 45-minute scrap on a low hill position northwest of Korangpo. Sixteen more Reds were killed nearby in a midnight raid.

General Insists Army Could Overcome Stalemate in Far East

San Francisco, Feb. 26 (AP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet insists — and emphatically — that the powerful United Nations Army could break the military stalemate in Korea, if unleashed.

The retiring U. S. Eighth Army commander, arriving to a hero's welcome after 22 months in Korea, declared:

"My Eighth Army can always advance another step and fire another shot."

The 60-year-old Van Fleet was given a ticker tape greeting as he rode through Market street in downtown San Francisco after a 17-gun harbor salute.

He was feted at a civic luncheon and a reception in which he was presented a gold-crested sword by the city.

Van Fleet told the 1,000 guests "Korea is the front line of freedom * * * a battlefield which, if lost, loses far more than Korea. If Korea is lost, Japan and the rest of Asia would soon follow

Thruway Section Still in Planning

Whiteport-Route 28 Part Will Figure Later in Bid Letting

Plans for the Whiteport-Onteora Trail (Route 28) section of the New York State Thruway are still in the process of completion and will not figure in the March 26 letting of thruway contracts, a spokesman for the state public works department said today.

The State Thruway Authority plans, however, to have all thruway contracts under way by May 1, he said, and it is expected that the Whiteport-Route 28 section, will be up for letting soon after March 26.

Another state source indicated that a section from Plattekill to a point near Ohioville is expected to be ready for the advertising for bids within the next five or six weeks.

To Be Included

Other sections between Newburgh and New Paltz are expected to be included within the next two or three lettings, and a section further down below the Newburgh area scheduled for early letting is that between Harriman and Sloatsburg.

Work is progressing, meanwhile along the southern end of the route in the vicinity of Nyack where footings are being built in the Hudson river for the Tappan Zee bridge.

Most of the thruway sections to figure in a March 5 letting are for sections in the upper part of the state.

Death 'Probably' Suicide

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Richmond county medical examiner's office says suspended Police Capt. John M. Bou's death from carbon monoxide poisoning was "probably suicidal." Bou, 43, was one of 30 police suspended and given a departmental trial after being accused of receiving payoffs from jailed bookie Harry Gross. He was found dead last month in the garage of his Staten Island home. At that time, an assistant district attorney said there was "no evidence to indicate suicide." The medical examiner's report, issued yesterday, made no reference to the earlier statement and did not elaborate on the verdict of probable suicide.

Eisenhower May Put Brakes On McCarthy Investigation

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration may be getting ready to try throwing the brakes on Sen. McCarthy's (R.-Wis.) investigation of the State Department.

Administration officials saw signs of this today in several recent moves, particularly the appointment of Robert W. S. McLeod, former FBI agent, as the department's "boss of security" with new policing powers.

In announcing McLeod's appointment yesterday, Assistant Secretary of State Carl W. McCardle pointedly called attention to President Eisenhower's remark in his State of the Union Message that:

"The primary responsibility for keeping out the disloyal and dangerous rests squarely upon the executive branch. When this branch so conducts itself as to require policing by another branch of the government it invites disorder and confusion."

Administration sources privately said McCardle's action appeared to be indirect notice that Secretary of State Dulles and his aides are ready now to handle whatever investigation and house cleaning is needed in the State Department.

There have been reports on Capitol Hill that Eisenhower is not too happy about the inquiry being conducted by McCarthy's Senate Investigations Subcommittee.

Eisenhower was asked at his news conference yesterday whether he thought the investigation was helping the "Voice of America," its prime target. The President said he could not answer without having more information.

McCarthy praised that as "a good sensible answer."

Two other developments were seen as significant:

1. Eisenhower's appointment of President Robert L. Johnson of Temple University as acting chief of the department's International Information Administration (IIA).

2. The reinstatement of Alfred H. Morton, after a one-day suspension, as director of the department's National Broadcasting Service, which runs the "Voice."

Johnson will be America's chief overseas propagandist as head of the semi-independent information agency which handles the "Voice" and other overseas outlets for the State Department.

Morton was officially cleared of any insubordination charges when restored to his job as number two boss of the "Voice" last night. But a public rebuke went along with the reinstatement and he still is facing Senate investigation.

Walter Bedell Smith, under secretary of state, blamed Morton for "lack of administrative control within your organization which made it possible for a message to be sent in your name which on its face indicated an intention on your part to disobey an order."

The order was one forbidding "Voice" broadcasts of writings by Soviet-endorsed writers which reflect credit on American life. The order was issued last week after the Senate investigations subcommittee had denounced the use of such writings in the broadcasts.

Mount Pleasant Resident Is Found Safe by Searchers

Miss Ruth Weber, 20, was found apparently unharmed on Mount Pleasant last night after a four-hour search by 50 to 70 volunteers.

Miss Weber left her residence at Mt. Pleasant hamlet about 4:30 p. m. and apparently became lost in the woods, according to a report made to State Police Cpl. Ray Dunn a half-hour later.

Cpl. Dunn, after a preliminary check, requested aid from Chief Mervale C. Jones of the Phoenicia Fire Department and Chief Clyde Smith of the Mt. Tremper department. The Phoenicia siren was sounded, and the two departments mustered more than 50 men, who joined the search.

Chief Jones also contacted County Identification Officer Earl Conro of the sheriff's office, who joined the search. Conro notified the sheriff's office, and Under Sheriff Clayton W. Vredenburg, Investigator Arthur H. Brown and Deputy Chester A. Wolven went from Kingston with floodlights to join the search.

Shortly after 9 p. m., Miss Weber was located by members of the party on Mount Pleasant about three miles from her home, where she had been staying with her mother, Mrs. Wanda Weber Radcliff, and sister. They are former Jamaica, L. I., residents who moved here within the past two weeks.

Mexican Actress Arrested By Immigration Officers

Silver City, N. M., Feb. 26 (AP)—Rosaura Revueltas, Mexican film actress starring in a movie being made by the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, was arrested last night.

Immigration officers took her in custody in the lobby of the hotel in which she was staying.

Miss Revueltas immediately claimed the arrest had no basis and that she entered the country legally.

She is starring in "Salt of the Earth," the movie being filmed by the union with the cooperation of several Hollywood artists who have refused to tell congressional investigators if they were Communists.

Morris Wright of Denver, editor of the Mine-Mill newspaper, "The Union," said Miss Revueltas had acted on the advice of legal counsel in refusing to leave the country.

Wright said immigration officials gave Miss Revueltas the choice of leaving the U. S. voluntarily or being placed under arrest.

"Her lawyer told her she was not in the country illegally and advised her to stay," Wright said.

Gets 30 Years

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—John Kerringer, 33, a former defense plant worker, who stabbed two women to death, was sentenced today to 30 years to life in state prison. Bronx County Judge Samuel Joseph excoriated the jury which found Kerringer guilty of second degree murder and first degree manslaughter. Joseph said the evidence "would have fully justified first degree murder verdicts." The victims were Mrs. Jean Mitchell, 36, and Mrs. Frances Castello, 59, both of the Bronx.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)

Housewives are paying higher prices for eggs in most parts of the country this week.

With the big chains and supermarkets setting the pace, many retail grocers across the nation have upped their prices by about two cents a dozen over last week's levels. In most instances the increases apply equally to all sizes ranging from pullet eggs to large Grade "A" whites. The boosts reflect a firmer tone in wholesale markets, attributed mostly to stepped-up buying on the part of midwestern processing companies which supply frozen eggs to bakeries and other large industrial consumers.

Beef continued an excellent buy this week with prices mostly unchanged or slightly lower. Chain stores in some cities featured beef rib roasts, ground beef and sirloin and porterhouse steaks as weekend specials. Other bargains were offered in leg of lamb, loin lamb chops and veal. Pork prices held firm or turned higher, with loin pork chops advancing as much as ten cents a pound in one eastern city. Frying chickens, still in abundant supply, showed little change in price. Haddock, swordfish and smoked and frozen cod fillets were featured in many stores as Lenten specials.

Plenty of Good Buys

There were plenty of good buys to choose from on the produce counter. The weekly list of best bargains recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture included potatoes, escarole, endive, carrots and green cabbage. Carrots were heavily featured in many produce stores, and market sources described them as the best food bargain of the week in view of currently large arrivals of high-quality carrots from California, Arizona and Texas.

Also plentiful and moderate in price were oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, Emperor grapes and rhubarb. Increased shipments of Winesap apples from western growing areas were reported at some produce markets. Improved weather in Florida brought larger shipments of string beans at slightly lower prices, but many other Florida produce items continued to show the adverse effects of previous wind and rain storms. Cucumbers and egg plant continued scarce and expensive.

Butter Dealers Worry

Butter dealers continued to worry about overproduction and the likely impact to be expected from any sudden change in government price support policies. They noted that the government right now is buying surplus butter at the rate of two million pounds a day. This factor alone, they said, is preventing a break in prices. At the retail level, butter prices showed little change, and dealers said they expected no change, unless the government support program is revised.

The situation reached a point this week where leaders in the butter industry felt it necessary to offer Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson their help in finding new ways of increasing butter consumption. Butter merchandisers from every large consuming area in the country wired the secretary that they were willing to sit down with him and help develop a marketing program.

Joseph Woglom of Fairmont Foods Co., chairman of the voluntary committee, said that while the government was buying vast amounts of surplus butter, consumption had fallen from nearly 16 pounds per person in 1942 to less than 9 pounds per person last year.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, Feb. 26—The Community Association of Mt. Tremper and Mt. Pleasant, Inc., celebrated the opening of its new headquarters with a party on Sunday evening. A buffet supper was served in the former Mt. Tremper schoolhouse, which was acquired by the association at a board of education disposal meeting. The supper was well-attended.

Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Heller and son Richard have returned to Brooklyn after spending the holiday weekend at their home on the Wittenberg road.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Hasbrouck, former village residents, were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Lane and family.

His mother, Mrs. James Pymm, reports that Elwyn Slocum is about to be released from the army hospital at Fort Campbell, Ky., and should be home about the first of March. Paratrooper Slocum was injured in a parachute jump last summer and is still using crutches as the result of a compound fracture of the leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Winne, Jr., and baby son Bert III will move shortly into their newly-completed home. Mr. Winne built the house in his spare time, with practically no outside help. It took him two years to finish it, but now it is complete in every detail.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burns, Jr., of Brooklyn spent the holiday weekend visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity. Mr. Burns is the brother of Mrs. Robert Hudler. Mrs. Burns is the former Larraine Schuhose of Mt. Tremper.

James Hoyt has received his honorable discharge from the army and is back home with his parents Mr. and Mrs. R. Carlton Hoyt.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steixner of New York spent the holiday at the home of his mother Mrs. Rose Steixner.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boice recently purchased a new, two-toned car.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman North visited friends in the village Sunday. They spent the weekend at the home of his parents in West Shokan. Mrs. North is the former Barbara Odenwald of Mt. Tremper and Brooklyn.

Dick Kahil is co-chairman of a hunting and fishing booth at the Sportsman's Show, which is now taking place at Grand Central Palace in New York. Dick will be there for the full run of the show.

The next regular meeting of Onteora Hose Company will take place in the former schoolhouse on Monday, March 2, at 8 p .m. At that time, plans will be discussed for the building and financing of a firehouse on the land which was recently donated by Mrs. Mabel Hudler. All volunteer firemen and those interested in the company are urged to attend this important meeting.

'Teenicide' Is New Word

Chicago, (AP) — "Teenicide," is a new word used to cover teenage suicide by automobile. When Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Co. translated it into Japanese for its safety film, "Last Date," it came out jidosha ni yoru miseinensha no jisatu. The Japanese translation says — "automobile by minors of killing self."

The boosts reflect a firmer tone in wholesale markets, attributed mostly to stepped-up buying on the part of midwestern processing companies which supply frozen eggs to bakeries and other large industrial consumers.

Beef continued an excellent buy this week with prices mostly unchanged or slightly lower. Chain stores in some cities featured beef rib roasts, ground beef and sirloin and porterhouse steaks as weekend specials. Other bargains were offered in leg of lamb, loin lamb chops and veal. Pork prices held firm or turned higher, with loin pork chops advancing as much as ten cents a pound in one eastern city. Frying chickens, still in abundant supply, showed little change in price. Haddock, swordfish and smoked and frozen cod fillets were featured in many stores as Lenten specials.

Plenty of Good Buys

There were plenty of good buys to choose from on the produce counter. The weekly list of best bargains recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture included potatoes, escarole, endive, carrots and green cabbage. Carrots were heavily featured in many produce stores, and market sources described them as the best food bargain of the week in view of currently large arrivals of high-quality carrots from California, Arizona and Texas.

Also plentiful and moderate in price were oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, Emperor grapes and rhubarb. Increased shipments of Winesap apples from western growing areas were reported at some produce markets. Improved weather in Florida brought larger shipments of string beans at slightly lower prices, but many other Florida produce items continued to show the adverse effects of previous wind and rain storms. Cucumbers and egg plant continued scarce and expensive.

Butter Dealers Worry

Butter dealers continued to worry about overproduction and the likely impact to be expected from any sudden change in government price support policies. They noted that the government right now is buying surplus butter at the rate of two million pounds a day. This factor alone, they said, is preventing a break in prices. At the retail level, butter prices showed little change, and dealers said they expected no change, unless the government support program is revised.

The situation reached a point this week where leaders in the butter industry felt it necessary to offer Agriculture Secretary Ezra Benson their help in finding new ways of increasing butter consumption. Butter merchandisers from every large consuming area in the country wired the secretary that they were willing to sit down with him and help develop a marketing program.

Joseph Woglom of Fairmont Foods Co., chairman of the voluntary committee, said that while the government was buying vast amounts of surplus butter, consumption had fallen from nearly 16 pounds per person in 1942 to less than 9 pounds per person last year.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, Feb. 26—The Community Association of Mt. Tremper and Mt. Pleasant, Inc., celebrated the opening of its new headquarters with a party on Sunday evening. A buffet supper was served in the former Mt. Tremper schoolhouse, which was acquired by the association at a board of education disposal meeting. The supper was well-attended.

Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Heller and son Richard have returned to Brooklyn after spending the holiday weekend at their home on the Wittenberg road.

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Hasbrouck, former village residents, were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Lane and family.

His mother, Mrs. James Pymm, reports that Elwyn Slocum is about to be released from the army hospital at Fort Campbell, Ky., and should be home about the first of March. Paratrooper Slocum was injured in a parachute jump last summer and is still using crutches as the result of a compound fracture of the leg.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Winne, Jr., and baby son Bert III will move shortly into their newly-completed home. Mr. Winne built the house in his spare time, with practically no outside help. It took him two years to finish it, but now it is complete in every detail.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Burns, Jr., of Brooklyn spent the holiday weekend visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity. Mr. Burns is the brother of Mrs. Robert Hudler. Mrs. Burns is the former Larraine Schuhose of Mt. Tremper.

James Hoyt has received his honorable discharge from the army and is back home with his parents Mr. and Mrs. R. Carlton Hoyt.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steixner of New York spent the holiday at the home of his mother Mrs. Rose Steixner.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boice recently purchased a new, two-toned car.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman North visited friends in the village Sunday. They spent the weekend at the home of his parents in West Shokan. Mrs. North is the former Barbara Odenwald of Mt. Tremper and Brooklyn.

Dick Kahil is co-chairman of a hunting and fishing booth at the Sportsman's Show, which is now taking place at Grand Central Palace in New York. Dick will be there for the full run of the show.

The next regular meeting of Onteora Hose Company will take place in the former schoolhouse on Monday, March 2, at 8 p .m. At that time, plans will be discussed for the building and financing of a firehouse on the land which was recently donated by Mrs. Mabel Hudler. All volunteer firemen and those interested in the company are urged to attend this important meeting.

'Teenicide' Is New Word

Chicago, (AP) — "Teenicide," is a new word used to cover teenage suicide by automobile. When Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty Co. translated it into Japanese for its safety film, "Last Date," it came out jidosha ni yoru miseinensha no jisatu. The Japanese translation says — "automobile by minors of killing self."

Many Executives See Bright Picture Of Spring Business

By SAM DAWSON

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—Bright spring prospects are heralded today by many business executives.

The chorus has some conspicuously missing voices. And many business leaders are squinting nervously at the future, trying to guess if the year will end as prosperously as it has begun.

But here are a few of those saying today that prospects for their companies just now are particularly bright:

Sales of shoes for the spring season are running 22 per cent above those for a year ago, Edgar E. Rand, president of International Shoe Co., tells stockholders at their St. Louis annual meeting.

The Tanners' Council of America chimes in with the estimate that shoe production by the industry this month will top last February by nearly 5 per cent. January output beat the year ago figure by 6.5 per cent.

Detroit Is Optimistic

Detroit is bursting with optimism, too. A Ford Motor Co. sales manager predicts the company will make—and sell—more than a million Fords this year, against 777,000 last year. Postwar peak year was 1950 with nearly 1¼ million cars.

International Business Machines Corp. is working on the biggest backlog of orders in its history, Board Chairman Thomas J. Watson reports. This follows its record sales year of 1952.

Highest backlog of orders since the World War 2 peak period is reported by Donald W. Douglas, president and chairman of the Douglas Aircraft Co. There are enough orders to keep the plants going for two years or more.

New orders booked in November, December and January by the Carrier Corp., electric appliance maker, ran 34 per cent above the same period the year before, President Cloud Wampler tells stockholders at their Syracuse annual meeting. He thinks the trend will continue with 1953 setting new high production records.

Insurance Policies Gain

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. started 1953 with 300,000 more policy holders than a year ago, President Charles G. Taylor, Jr., reports. The company has a record total of life insurance in force.

Du Pont, looking farther ahead than the others, predicts today that one of its newest synthetic fibers, orlon, will have its biggest season in the coming fall. The new orlon plant at Camden, S. C., is now operating at full capacity, and du Pont says 120 clothing manufacturers will use orlon in men's and boys' fall suits and slacks.

Du Pont also says it's so pleased with prospects for another synthetic, dacron, that it's thinking of putting up another plant. A big one under way at Kinston, N. C., will be completed this fall.

For an over-all picture of the economy, the Department of Commerce reports today that 1953 started with total production of goods and services at an all-time peak. It gained 5 per cent in dollar volume last year. Making allowances for higher prices, however, pares this down to a 2½ per cent gain in unit volume. Total sales by all manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers rose to 546 billion dollars, compared with 533 billion dollars in 1951.

But a peak at the future by Roy A. Foulke, vice president of Dun & Bradstreet, today brings this sobering note: "We are entering a competitive period when value and prices will again play their part after 12 years of a seller's market."

Modena

Modena, Feb. 25 —The February meeting of Clintondale-Modena Home Bureau Unit was held all day February 19 in Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Mrs. Charles Stantial of Kingston, assistant home demonstration agent, was in charge of the food lesson, instead of Mrs. Roy Jensen as planned. Mrs. Frank M. Coy showed slides of hooked rugs and mats, and the chairman of the unit, Mrs. Egbert Harcourt was in charge of the cake decorating demonstration. The business session was also conducted by the chairman. The March meeting will be held at Clintondale Grange Hall, when Mrs. Stantial is expected to be present and speak on What to Look for in Buying Ready-Mades. During the afternoon session, Mrs. Frank Coy will speak on Good Grooming.

The next meeting of Plattekill Township Civic Association will be held Friday evening, March 20, at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall.

Cpl. Charles Smith left for LaGuardia Field, L. I., Sunday for the west coast, after spending a furlough with relatives in Poughkeepsie, Plattekill and this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester A. Wager Sr., visited relatives in Highland Sunday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Anna Tonnesen was a recent visitor in Staten Island.

Mrs. Earl B. DeWitt, Sr., accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Richard Schoonmaker to Poughkeepsie on Saturday, where they visited relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Baranski of Wallkill and relatives from Long Island visited Mr. and Mrs. Lester A. Wager, Jr., Sunday.

Mrs. Myron L. Shultis entertained a number of dinner guests at her home Sunday.

Word has been received of the birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Matheisen of Passaic, N. J., Sunday, Feb. 22.

Attempt to Make Gold

The belief that all substances are composed of one primitive matter led to the development of alchemy which was the attempt to make gold out of baser metals.

Wallkill

Wallkill, Feb. 25—Mrs. C. E. Penney, Wallkill Womans Club president, announces that the club has been invited to make a trip to New York with members of the Wallkill Home Bureau unit, March 10. The bus will leave the bus station at 8 a. m. and will return from Dixie Hotel at 9 p. m. Anyone wishing to make the trip may notify Mrs. Rudolph Grill or Mrs. Walter Wigand before March 3. Further particulars may be obtained from Mrs. Penney.

The Rosary and Altar Society of St. Benedict's Church will hold a food sale at the town clerk's office on Friday beginning at 10 a. m.

Ivanhoe Lodge, Knights of Pythias, will hold a monthly card party Friday at 8 p. m. in the lodge rooms. Refreshments will be served.

There will be an executive meeting of the Ulster Educators at Wallkill Central School at 7:30 p. m. on Thursday. The committee chairmen have been notified to attend. Plans are almost completed for the spring conference of the Ulster Educators, which will be held at New Paltz April 20, according to Regina Zimmerman, chairman of the public relations committee. Included in the Ulster Educators are teachers and school administrators from Highland, Marlborough, New Paltz, and Wallkill.

Members of the Wallkill Missionary Society of the Wallkill Reformed Church will attend the first Lenten service of the Women's Missionary Federation on Friday, at 2:30 in Calvary Presbyterian Church, Newburgh. Anyone desiring to go and needing transportation may contact Mrs. Daniel DuBois.

Miss Alma Brown was tendered a surprise shower February 13 at her home. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. George Brach, Mrs. Lillian Beardsley, and Mrs. Jack Ross, Jr. Attending were Mrs. Fred Meredith, Mrs. Herbert S. DuBois, Mrs. Elmer Van Wyck, Mrs. Kenneth Carr, Mrs. Clyde Decker, Mrs. Jack Ross, Mrs. Charles White, Mrs. Lillian Beardsley, Mrs. John Wilson, Mrs. George Brach, Mrs. Walter Harris, Mrs. John Neuwirth, Mrs. Ira V. DeVoe, Jr., Mrs. Vesta Wood, Miss Esther Meredith, Miss Janice Meredith of Wallkill and Mrs. Elmer Fries of St. Andrews.

DECLINE IN FARM PRICES

At the moment the decline in farm prices is just about the hottest issue confronting the Eisenhower administration. By their steady clamor in Congress, both Republicans and Democrats have shown they appreciate its political potency for 1954 and 1956.

For the record it ought to be made clear that this slide began long before President Eisenhower took over. He simply inherits the problem and must decide what to do about it.

Both the President and Secretary of Agriculture Benson obviously intend to observe strictly the law providing price supports for basic commodities until December, 1954.

What they want beyond that is a new law which, in the President's own words, will represent the thinking not only of farmers but of consuming Americans who must foot the grocery bills.

This is not an easy order. The farmer deserves protection against what Mr. Eisenhower calls the special difficulties of his industry — the factors beyond his control. These include the vagaries of weather and the unpredictable ups-and-downs of the market.

Producing corn or wheat is not like making nuts and bolts. If the market for the latter diminishes, you can shut off production or reduce it. But land once seeded to a particular crop can't practically or profitably be turned to other use in mid-season.

On the other hand, the farmer's protection should not be of such character as to encourage him to produce unwanted surpluses (by the lure of high support prices). A support law that operates thus will at once price the farmer out of the market and leave him producing ultimately for the government alone.

In this connection, the meaning of protection ought to be made clearer. There is no automatic virtue for the farmer in a high price. The aim of the government is to assure him his fair share of the national income, relative to other producing groups. If he gets this, it should not matter whether the price of wheat is $2.75 a bushel or $2.30.

To listen to some would-be friends of the farmer, you would gather that the goal is to push farm prices to record heights and then guarantee that they will never get any lower. Where this leaves the consumer is difficult to see.

Secretary Benson probably erred in stressing the notion that the farmer should have only "disaster insurance." The word "disaster" is inevitably construed too narrowly to cover all the difficulties against which the farmer can legitimately ask protection.

But his and the President's general objective is good: To safeguard both the farmer and the consumer, and, as much as possible, to keep the farm structure free of federal interference and subject to the play of natural market forces which will lead to the output of the kinds and amounts of farm products we need and our friends abroad need from us.

RUSSIA'S MINERALS

Not for at least 10 years will Russian mineral resources approach those of the United States, says D. B. Shimkin, author of the newly published "Minerals, a Key to Soviet Power." Fully as much mineral wealth must lie under the Russian soil as under our own, but the geological investigation has hardly more than begun. In time this defect will be remedied. Meanwhile there is a serious shortage, compared with what we have, in uranium, zinc, lead, and cobalt; also in molybdenum, needed for hardening steel.

No doubt Moscow is straining every effort to make good the nation's deficiencies. The Russians labor under the handicap, however, that the first requirement of every scientist is to be a completely orthodox Marxist. His technical qualifications come second. Till they abandon this attitude, the Communists will do their scientific work only under difficulties.

Griping is an old American habit—and a healthy one. We can kick and complain without fear when we disagree, and we still hold the world's highest standard of living. In many countries, however, there are no complaints, and the gains there are only what might have been.

FAR EASTERN TERMS AT YALTA

If the question of secret agreements at Yalta is ever brought into the open, it will be made clear that the United States paid a heavy price for a promise that Soviet Russia would enter the Far Eastern War two or three months after the German surrender. The heaviest price of all is the present Korean War, which has already cost us 130,000 casualties with no end in sight.

In effect, Russia demanded Chinese and Japanese territory at Yalta and got it. Russian thinking on the subject is obvious. Stalin demanded everything returned to Russia that the Czarist government lost to Japan, plus Mongolia and the Kurile Islands. It meant for Soviet Russia ownership of Manchuria and therefore the physical ability to conquer China, Korea and possibly Japan.

Stalin was our ally in the European War; he was neutral in the Far Eastern War. In 1942, he assured Averell Harriman that he would come into the Far Eastern War; this assurance he subsequently repeated to Pat Hurley and Secretary of State Cordell Hull. According to Robert Sherwood (in his book on Roosevelt and Hopkins), it was Roosevelt who at Teheran in 1943 suggested to Stalin that if he entered the Far Eastern War, Russia might get Dairen, which would give Stalin Manchuria. At first, Stalin was fearful of complications but he took to the idea and developed it into a formula for going back to the Treaty of Portsmouth (1905) and claiming everything.

Stalin undoubtedly overestimated Japanese power or he would not have missed the opportunity available in 1944 or early in 1945 of capturing parts of Japan itself. At any rate, Russia was so strictly neutral that even while we were allies in the European War, American airmen who flew over Japan into Siberia were interned in Siberia and the United States was refused air bases in Russian territory to be used against Japan. This was Russia's attitude while the United States was providing Stalin with $11,000,000,000 of war aid.

So fantastic is this situation that it is hardly believable even today; yet it can be fully documented. Perhaps if Senator Homer Ferguson ever got into the State Department files and the still secret Roosevelt files at Hyde Park, he could discover much about all this that we do not know.

It can be established from many sources that the Japanese did not want to go to war with us. The evidence has been collected by Professor Charles Callan Tansill and appears in his book, "Back Door to War."

It was clear prior to Yalta that Japan was already defeated. A report made by the United States Strategic Bombing Survey shows that Japan, by August 1944, half a year before Yalta, had lost 5,000,000 tons of shipping and was in no position to provide for the war economy of the Japanese people. It was shown that by V-J Day, Japan had only 1,500,000 tons of merchant shipping, which was "practically useless."

Yet in spite of this, at Yalta the United States paid such an enormous price to get Russia into the Far Eastern War. Admiral Leahy has stated that it was his opinion "that we could defeat Japan without Russian assistance." General MacArthur and Admiral Nimitz had worked out their fundamental strategy for the defeat of Japan without including Russian participation in the Far Eastern War.

It is difficult to discover who counselled Roosevelt to agree to Stalin's excessive demands. We know that Admiral Leahy and others among our staff officers opposed them. We know that General George Marshall said before the Russell Committee that he knew nothing about them, although from the Leahy and Stettinius memoirs on the subject it would appear that Roosevelt was in constant conference at Yalta with Marshall on the military phases of the Yalta Agreement. We know from General Leslie R. Groves that he had informed Roosevelt that the atomic bomb would be ready in August, 1945.

From this point on, as I go through the material, it becomes full of unbelievable contradictions. On February 21, 1946, I wrote:

"Is it possible that what I knew on March 2, 1945, the Secretary of State of the United States did not know in January of 1946?"

I was writing on this subject then. My point then was that our honor was at stake. My point now is that we have suffered 130,000 casualties in Korea with more than 23,000 dead because of these errors.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

CANCER OF THE LUNG INCREASING

The cause of cancer has not yet been discovered, despite the millions spent yearly trying to do so and thus remove this menace to man. Fortunately, if discovered early, cancer is curable, but unfortunately it is often found too late to save life. The three main methods of treatment—X-ray, radium, surgery—are saving thousands of lives yearly throughout the civilized world.

One of the organs attacked by cancer that is slow in being recognized by patient and physician is cancer of the lung. This delay in recognition is due mostly to the slow and silent symptoms that gradually call attention to it and immediate treatment may save life. A wheezing cough is often the only symptom.

In Modern Medicine of Canada, Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, editor, Senior Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, states that every physician knows that the number of cases of cancer of the lung has been increasing at an alarming rate whereas cancer in other parts of the body has been increasing slightly, one type of cancer of the lung has gone from sixth to seventh place in 1900 to perhaps first place today.

While this great increase may be, in part, because cancer of the lung is now more often suspected, nevertheless the great increase is an actual fact.

That tobacco smoking may be a factor is suspected as one type of cancer affects the superficial or top cells of the bronchial tubes and lung cells, but there is another type of lung cancer which affects non-smokers as well as smokers, and the increase of cancer of this type is not so large.

As cancer attacks all kinds and conditions of men and women, and even children, Dr. Alvarez gives some useful advice.

"In view of the present day great frequency of cancer (carcinoma) of the lung, every man or woman past middle age who comes in complaining of chronic cough should immediately have a film made of the chest and, if any suspicious shadow is found, it must be studied and watched with the greatest care. Often examinations by the bronchoscope must be made and sometimes it is helpful to have sputum examined for cancer cells."

Unfortunately, while coughing helps to remove mucus, the cough syrups or quieting drugs ease a chronic cough, are used for months, and cancer gets a firmer hold.

Fortunately, the use of the usual treatment for cancer, particularly surgery where the whole lobe of the lung is removed, saves many lives.

Winter Landscape

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — President Eisenhower's first press conference expression of faith that American business and American labor would not try to gouge after the removal of price and wage controls will apparently be put to an early test.

This test may come from labor before it comes from business. Both the CIO and the United Mine Workers leaders urged the President to remove wage controls before he took them off.

This presages new wage demands from these unions even though John L. Lewis won a $1.90 wage increase for his miners last fall. The agreement runs out Oct. 1, 1953.

CIO President Walter Reuther wants to reopen his United Auto Workers contract with General Motors even though it has several years to run.

And the American Federation of Labor's executive committee, at its recent midwinter meeting in Miami, announced a drive for general wage increases "to prevent major depression in 1954 and 1955."

So the outlook for the coming year is one of demands for another round of wage increases. The AFL, incidentally, will base its demands on the assertion that productivity of labor has gone up faster than wage increases. This will at least have the merit of novelty, and differ from the old line that the cost of living has gone up faster than wages.

As for the price level, Economic Stabilization Director Joe Freehill predicts that the removal of all controls will increase prices by as much as $3 billion a year. A four per cent rise in prices will increase defense costs by $1 billion, so he says.

Hope Ike's Plan Will Work

President Eisenhower says he could have no greater disappointment than to be forced to go back to Congress and say that the removal of controls had not worked. He anticipates that with controls removed, some prices may go up, and some down. But the natural working of the economic laws will keep prices in line, he believes. And in addition, government interference will have been removed.

If the President's plan succeeds —and nearly everyone hopes it will—it will provide a perfect example of how emergency controls are supposed to work. In 1951 Eric Johnston, a practicing Republican who was the second economic stabilization director in this Korean war period, outlined a two-year plan to stabilize the economy.

It was a program for allocating scarce materials to get defense production rolling and for economic controls to prevent prices and wages from skyrocketing. "When we have safely reached the point where we can eliminate controls," said Mr. Johnston, "I will be the first to recommend their removal."

Mr. Johnston didn't last long enough on the job to carry out his plan. Those who came after him weren't permitted to carry it out very well, either. But to a degree, it carried itself out.

Supply in many lines caught up with demand. Prices dropped below ceilings on the items in oversupply—like meat and cotton. And so it became safe to take off the controls.

The successful working out of this theory—whether it was intentional or accidental — raises immediately the question of whether stand-by controls should be maintained for future emergency use.

Disagrees on Stand-By Controls

President Eisenhower says he does not intend to ask for stand-by authority. But he admits he can't foresee conditions three to six months away. And if what he is now trying to do cannot accommodate the present situation, he will go right back to Congress.

At this point the President runs into a difference of opinion with Indiana's GOP senator, Homer Capehart. As chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, Senator Capehart has introduced a new Economic Stabilization bill which would continue stand-by price and wage controls.

Coming from the author of the Capehart amendment of 1951, which was widely acclaimed for guaranteeing built-in inflation by law, this is really something. Admitting that his behavior may seem somewhat paradoxical, Senator Capehart explains it this way:

"Just as surely as Congress voted for the Emergency Price Control act of 1942 after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor and again in 1950 after the North Koreans crossed the 38th parallel, just as surely shall we—much as we detest controls over our economic life—do the very same thing again."

It's impossible for Congress to pass a good control law in less than three months and for the government to get it working in less than seven or eight months, says the Hoosier senator. Inflation would run away again in that time if some new emergency arose, he says.

This time all the experience, evidence and arguments seem to be on his side. When it was suggested this made Senator Capehart something of a liberal, he said, "Yeah! I'm a liberal."

America Has Begun to Use Moral Force Unrestrainedly in UN to Win Men's Minds

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 26 — The psychological war to win the support of men's minds everywhere has begun in earnest. Moral force —the most powerful weapon the world has ever known because it eventually overturns rulers and oligarchies no matter how strong their dictatorship—has been unleashed by America in the United Nations with an uninhibited fury.

For the first time since the Korean war broke out, the United States Government has formally and openly and unequivocally accused Soviet Russia not only of having instigated the Far Eastern conflict, which now has caused hundreds of thousands of casualties, but of supplying arms and ammunition to the North Korean and Communist Chinese armies to keep the war going.

There have been hints of this before in speeches by American representatives of the Truman administration at the UN, but the comprehensive charges and forthright declarations by former Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, now the U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, climaxes a long pent-up feeling that must inevitably shape the thinking of the free world along new lines of action.

For the debate is more significant than mere speech-making and rebuttals. It is the forerunner of an inevitable series of steps that may either build the UN to the strongest international organization to enforce peace that the world has ever known or shatter it to pieces—wrecked by the treasonable action of one of its foremost members, Soviet Russia.

For the bill of particulars just given by Ambassador Lodge constitutes a charge that Soviet Russia has betrayed her membership in the UN and shown herself faithless to her obligations. She has furnished military support to an aggressor, despite the formal resolution of the UN of October, 1950, calling on all member nations to refrain from aiding the aggressor countries.

No international body can survive if any of its members enters into a secret alliance to thwart the will of the majority by military means.

Looking into the future, the new turn of American policy means that the foundations are being laid for a challenge to Soviet Russia in which the free world must take sides. Here is no question of the merits of the Korean war itself or of the issues which surround it, but a simple question of fidelity to an international charter. If Soviet Russia does not withdraw her military support from Communist China and North Korea, then there is only one course left to the free nations—to expel Soviet Russia from the United Nations, just as the League of Nations saw fit to do when an analogous situation arose in the '30's and Russia broke faith.

Once the free world unites on the proposition that aggression will not be rewarded or condoned, the whole face of things will in due time change in Asia. Countries like India and the Arab nations, for example, cannot afford to be counted as either ignoring aggression or as looking the other way when the principle of collective security is sabotaged. They, also, may face aggressors some day and the United States is capable of looking the other way, too—if collective security breaks down.

The American ambassador's speech is known to have been the result of high-level conferences here, and it will not fade away into a mere exchange of indignant addresses. For the United States is being asked to accept the responsibility of world leadership and not only to send its youth to do battle in Korea but to send billions of dollars of taxpayers' money to bolster up the economic structures of many free nations. It now will be interesting to see how many friends America will find at her side in the United Nations and what the attitude of other governments will be toward the natural follow-up steps which must come when Soviet Russia is put on trial for her flagrant action in breaking the peace of the world through her instigation of the Korean aggression.

The UN is today supported by American public opinion despite the many vicissitudes of its brief existence, but the UN will die the same death as the League if the free nations forfeit their opportunity to mobilize the moral force of the world behind the drive that must some day penetrate to the peoples behind the Iron Curtain as they learn the tragic truth. For, after the bloody years of World War 2, the Moscow government is creating a situation that will drag its innocent people into war once more by such dangerous adventures as now have been disclosed in the Far East.

The term "psychological warfare" has been variously described, but its best meaning is the use of moral force to unite the minds of people on both sides of the Iron Curtain in a single thought—to eliminate any group of men in any regime which insists on plunging its people into war. And the case against the Moscow regime is only now beginning to be made as it should have been months ago.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I present herewith a short and simple annal of a poor, weary and somewhat broken-down Florida schoolteacher, to make a contrast with the disgraceful waste of tons of money wrung from the likes of her on the wanton frivolities and subsidies of a corrupt government.

Listen:

"May I present a problem? It is entirely true. I still must find some way to raise money for my income taxes for this past year and I still must keep on trying to find something to do in order to be able to live.

"I was born in Florida and have worked here most of my life. Beginning in June, 1914, I taught 35 years in the Florida public schools. In 1949, I reached the age of 60 and, since I had been overloaded in the classrooms for years, I felt that I must retire before my health completely gave way. Indeed, I was unable to work for several months.

"My salary had run from $45 a month for seven or eight months a year to $2,500 yearly the last year that I taught. Now my pension under the Florida teachers' pension system is $100 a month and is taxable.

"The four-year bed-illness of a sister, which ended in her death, left me heavily in debt. Therefore, when internal revenue notified me in December, 1950 that I owed $195 income tax, plus $33.33 interest on my 1947 returns, due to errors in the returns, I was in no position to pay it. They had made no effort to tell me about it before. In other words, they had got around to notifying me three years late."

This is a familiar abuse of the citizen. Parasites of civil service loaf on the job, whistle-jumping and stalling in the washrooms to the extent of millions of paid hours a year and tot up their "rights" and "benefits" at the expense of this wretched woman multiplied by millions. By inattention and sloth they fall years behind in their work. Meanwhile, compound interest at six per cent piles up against unsuspecting and morally innocent citizens who pay their salaries. In the end, the little people, the weak and friendless millions for whom the Roosevelts and Truman and their evil cult expressed such mournful pity while they grabbed every dollar within their greedy reach, always are held to the literal figures rigged against them by expert professional tormenters. For contrast the record of the last two years of the Truman debauch disclosed hundreds of cases in which actual cheats and thieves were "forgiven" tax debts of millions on the corrupt proposition that it were better to collect a little money than to jail a rogue with a friend in the White House or a lawyer late of the treasury staff.

Our schoolteacher's letter continues:

"I explained the circumstances and asked for time to pay it in instalments. I was told that this was not Uncle Sam's way. I must send a check immediately for the full amount. That was the first of several such letters.

"In June, 1951, while I was still trying to raise the whole amount, the case was placed in the hands of the local (Lakeland) office. After being summoned and having appeared before the local officer for several lengthy sessions, he suggested that I go to the bank and borrow $40, pay 25 cents for a certified check and offer it in compromise. I did. Months later, I was notified that my offer was not accepted. I was then advised to add ten more dollars and make a second offer of compromise. I did and waited several months more.

"On October 15, 1951, I went to work teaching in Georgia. My salary for the remainder of the school year ending in September, 1952 was around $1500, before taxes. My expenses, board, etc., were heavy and I was paying on other debts. In May, 1952, just before school closed, and without notifying me that my $50 offer had been rejected, the Georgia tax office seized $245 of my summer salary, which was most of it.

"Now the old debt was paid but the Internal Revenue still had the $50 I had sent in offer of compromise. Although I wrote them several times asking for it and stressing my real need, they did not get around to sending it until this January, 1953. I endorsed it and handed it back to them in the tax office here (Lakeland) and they wanted me to have it cashed and buy another certified check which would have cost around 65 cents. But they did finally accept it. But they had kept it over a year but gave me no interest although they had charged me more than $50 interest and penalties on the $195 I owed them."

This cruel experience irresistibly reminds me of the braggart announcement of a character known as Leigh Dannenberg, a devotee and personal friend of Eleanor Roosevelt, for many years the publisher of a weekly scandal sheet at Bridgeport, Conn., that he was recently back after four months in New Delhi,

If the question of secret agreements at Yalta is ever brought into the open, it will be made clear that the United States paid a heavy price for a promise that Soviet Russia would enter the Far Eastern War two or three months after the German surrender. The heaviest price of all is the present Korean War, which has already cost us 130,000 casualties with no end in sight.

In effect, Russia demanded Chinese and Japanese territory at Yalta and got it. Russian thinking on the subject is obvious. Stalin demanded everything returned to Russia that the Czarist government lost to Japan, plus Mongolia and the Kurile Islands. It meant for Soviet Russia ownership of Manchuria and therefore the physical ability to conquer China, Korea and possibly Japan.

Stalin was our ally in the European War; he was neutral in the Far Eastern War. In 1942, he assured Averell Harriman that he would come into the Far Eastern War; this assurance he subsequently repeated to Pat Hurley and Secretary of State Cordell Hull. According to Robert Sherwood (in his book on Roosevelt and Hopkins), it was Roosevelt who at Teheran in 1943 suggested to Stalin that if he entered the Far Eastern War, Russia might get Dairen, which would give Stalin Manchuria. At first, Stalin was fearful of complications but he took to the idea and developed it into a formula for going back to the Treaty of Portsmouth (1905) and claiming everything.

Stalin undoubtedly overestimated Japanese power or he would not have missed the opportunity available in 1944 or early in 1945 of capturing parts of Japan itself. At any rate, Russia was so strictly neutral that even while we were allies in the European War, American airmen who flew over Japan into Siberia were interned in Siberia and the United States was refused air bases in Russian territory to be used against Japan. This was Russia's attitude while the United States was providing Stalin with $11,000,000,000 of war aid.

So fantastic is this situation that it is hardly believable even today; yet it can be fully documented. Perhaps if Senator Homer Ferguson ever got into the State Department files and the still secret Roosevelt files at Hyde Park, he could discover much about all this that we do not know.

It can be established from many sources that the Japanese did not want to go to war with us. The evidence has been collected by Professor Charles Callan Tansill and appears in his book, "Back Door to War."

It was clear prior to Yalta that Japan was already defeated. A report made by the United States Strategic Bombing Survey shows that Japan, by August 1944, half a year before Yalta, had lost 5,000,000 tons of shipping and was in no position to provide for the war economy of the Japanese people. It was shown that by V-J Day, Japan had only 1,500,000 tons of merchant shipping, which was "practically useless."

Yet in spite of this, at Yalta the United States paid such an enormous price to get Russia into the Far Eastern War. Admiral Leahy has stated that it was his opinion "that we could defeat Japan without Russian assistance." General MacArthur and Admiral Nimitz had worked out their fundamental strategy for the defeat of Japan without including Russian participation in the Far Eastern War.

It is difficult to discover who counselled Roosevelt to agree to Stalin's excessive demands. We know that Admiral Leahy and others among our staff officers opposed them. We know that General George Marshall said before the Russell Committee that he knew nothing about them, although from the Leahy and Stettinius memoirs on the subject it would appear that Roosevelt was in constant conference at Yalta with Marshall on the military phases of the Yalta Agreement. We know from General Leslie R. Groves that he had informed Roosevelt that the atomic bomb would be ready in August, 1945.

From this point on, as I go through the material, it becomes full of unbelievable contradictions. On February 21, 1946, I wrote:

"Is it possible that what I knew on March 2, 1945, the Secretary of State of the United States did not know in January of 1946?"

I was writing on this subject then. My point then was that our honor was at stake. My point now is that we have suffered 130,000 casualties in Korea with more than 23,000 dead because of these errors.

That Body of Yours

CANCER OF THE LUNG INCREASING

The cause of cancer has not yet been discovered, despite the millions spent yearly trying to do so and thus remove this menace to man. Fortunately, if discovered early, cancer is curable, but unfortunately it is often found too late to save life. The three main methods of treatment—X-ray, radium, surgery—are saving thousands of lives yearly throughout the civilized world.

One of the organs attacked by cancer that is slow in being recognized by patient and physician is cancer of the lung. This delay in recognition is due mostly to the slow and silent symptoms that gradually call attention to it and immediate treatment may save life. A wheezing cough is often the only symptom.

In Modern Medicine of Canada, Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, editor, Senior Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, states that every physician knows that the number of cases of cancer of the lung has been increasing at an alarming rate whereas cancer in other parts of the body has been increasing slightly, one type of cancer of the lung has gone from sixth to seventh place in 1900 to perhaps first place today.

While this great increase may be, in part, because cancer of the lung is now more often suspected, nevertheless the great increase is an actual fact.

That tobacco smoking may be a factor is suspected as one type of cancer affects the superficial or top cells of the bronchial tubes and lung cells, but there is another type of lung cancer which affects non-smokers as well as smokers, and the increase of cancer of this type is not so large.

As cancer attacks all kinds and conditions of men and women, and even children, Dr. Alvarez gives some useful advice.

"In view of the present day great frequency of cancer (carcinoma) of the lung, every man or woman past middle age who comes in complaining of chronic cough should immediately have a film made of the chest and, if any suspicious shadow is found, it must be studied and watched with the greatest care. Often examinations by the bronchoscope must be made and sometimes it is helpful to have sputum examined for cancer cells."

Unfortunately, while coughing helps to remove mucus, the cough syrups or quieting drugs ease a chronic cough, are used for months, and cancer gets a firmer hold.

Fortunately, the use of the usual treatment for cancer, particularly surgery where the whole lobe of the lung is removed, saves many lives.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington — (NEA) — President Eisenhower's first press conference expression of faith that American business and American labor would not try to gouge after the removal of price and wage controls will apparently be put to an early test.

This test may come from labor before it comes from business. Both the CIO and the United Mine Workers leaders urged the President to remove wage controls before he took them off.

This presages new wage demands from these unions even though John L. Lewis won a $1.90 wage increase for his miners last fall. The agreement runs out Oct. 1, 1953.

CIO President Walter Reuther wants to reopen his United Auto Workers contract with General Motors even though it has several years to run.

And the American Federation of Labor's executive committee, at its recent midwinter meeting in Miami, announced a drive for general wage increases "to prevent major depression in 1954 and 1955."

So the outlook for the coming year is one of demands for another round of wage increases. The AFL, incidentally, will base its demands on the assertion that productivity of labor has gone up faster than wage increases. This will at least have the merit of novelty, and differ from the old line that the cost of living has gone up faster than wages.

As for the price level, Economic Stabilization Director Joe Freehill predicts that the removal of all controls will increase prices by as much as $3 billion a year. A four per cent rise in prices will increase defense costs by $1 billion, so he says.

Hope Ike's Plan Will Work

President Eisenhower says he could have no greater disappointment than to be forced to go back to Congress and say that the removal of controls had not worked. He anticipates that with controls removed, some prices may go up, and some down. But the natural working of the economic laws will keep prices in line, he believes. And in addition, government interference will have been removed.

If the President's plan succeeds —and nearly everyone hopes it will—it will provide a perfect example of how emergency controls are supposed to work. In 1951 Eric Johnston, a practicing Republican who was the second economic stabilization director in this Korean war period, outlined a two-year plan to stabilize the economy.

It was a program for allocating scarce materials to get defense production rolling and for economic controls to prevent prices and wages from skyrocketing. "When we have safely reached the point where we can eliminate controls," said Mr. Johnston, "I will be the first to recommend their removal."

Mr. Johnston didn't last long enough on the job to carry out his plan. Those who came after him weren't permitted to carry it out very well, either. But to a degree, it carried itself out.

Supply in many lines caught up with demand. Prices dropped below ceilings on the items in oversupply—like meat and cotton. And so it became safe to take off the controls.

The successful working out of this theory—whether it was intentional or accidental — raises immediately the question of whether stand-by controls should be maintained for future emergency use.

Disagrees on Stand-By Controls

President Eisenhower says he does not intend to ask for stand-by authority. But he admits he can't foresee conditions three to six months away. And if what he is now trying to do cannot accommodate the present situation, he will go right back to Congress.

At this point the President runs into a difference of opinion with Indiana's GOP senator, Homer Capehart. As chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, Senator Capehart has introduced a new Economic Stabilization bill which would continue stand-by price and wage controls.

Coming from the author of the Capehart amendment of 1951, which was widely acclaimed for guaranteeing built-in inflation by law, this is really something. Admitting that his behavior may seem somewhat paradoxical, Senator Capehart explains it this way:

"Just as surely as Congress voted for the Emergency Price Control act of 1942 after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor and again in 1950 after the North Koreans crossed the 38th parallel, just as surely shall we—much as we detest controls over our economic life—do the very same thing again."

It's impossible for Congress to pass a good control law in less than three months and for the government to get it working in less than seven or eight months, says the Hoosier senator. Inflation would run away again in that time if some new emergency arose, he says.

This time all the experience, evidence and arguments seem to be on his side. When it was suggested this made Senator Capehart something of a liberal, he said, "Yeah! I'm a liberal."

America Has Begun to Use Moral Force Unrestrainedly in UN to Win Men's Minds

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 26 — The psychological war to win the support of men's minds everywhere has begun in earnest. Moral force —the most powerful weapon the world has ever known because it eventually overturns rulers and oligarchies no matter how strong their dictatorship—has been unleashed by America in the United Nations with an uninhibited fury.

For the first time since the Korean war broke out, the United States Government has formally and openly and unequivocally accused Soviet Russia not only of having instigated the Far Eastern conflict, which now has caused hundreds of thousands of casualties, but of supplying arms and ammunition to the North Korean and Communist Chinese armies to keep the war going.

There have been hints of this before in speeches by American representatives of the Truman administration at the UN, but the comprehensive charges and forthright declarations by former Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, now the U. S. ambassador to the United Nations, climaxes a long pent-up feeling that must inevitably shape the thinking of the free world along new lines of action.

For the debate is more significant than mere speech-making and rebuttals. It is the forerunner of an inevitable series of steps that may either build the UN to the strongest international organization to enforce peace that the world has ever known or shatter it to pieces—wrecked by the treasonable action of one of its foremost members, Soviet Russia.

For the bill of particulars just given by Ambassador Lodge constitutes a charge that Soviet Russia has betrayed her membership in the UN and shown herself faithless to her obligations. She has furnished military support to an aggressor, despite the formal resolution of the UN of October, 1950, calling on all member nations to refrain from aiding the aggressor countries.

No international body can survive if any of its members enters into a secret alliance to thwart the will of the majority by military means.

Looking into the future, the new turn of American policy means that the foundations are being laid for a challenge to Soviet Russia in which the free world must take sides. Here is no question of the merits of the Korean war itself or of the issues which surround it, but a simple question of fidelity to an international charter. If Soviet Russia does not withdraw her military support from Communist China and North Korea, then there is only one course left to the free nations—to expel Soviet Russia from the United Nations, just as the League of Nations saw fit to do when an analogous situation arose in the '30's and Russia broke faith.

Once the free world unites on the proposition that aggression will not be rewarded or condoned, the whole face of things will in due time change in Asia. Countries like India and the Arab nations, for example, cannot afford to be counted as either ignoring aggression or as looking the other way when the principle of collective security is sabotaged. They, also, may face aggressors some day and the United States is capable of looking the other way, too—if collective security breaks down.

The American ambassador's speech is known to have been the result of high-level conferences here, and it will not fade away into a mere exchange of indignant addresses. For the United States is being asked to accept the responsibility of world leadership and not only to send its youth to do battle in Korea but to send billions of dollars of taxpayers' money to bolster up the economic structures of many free nations. It now will be interesting to see how many friends America will find at her side in the United Nations and what the attitude of other governments will be toward the natural follow-up steps which must come when Soviet Russia is put on trial for her flagrant action in breaking the peace of the world through her instigation of the Korean aggression.

The UN is today supported by American public opinion despite the many vicissitudes of its brief existence, but the UN will die the same death as the League if the free nations forfeit their opportunity to mobilize the moral force of the world behind the drive that must some day penetrate to the peoples behind the Iron Curtain as they learn the tragic truth. For, after the bloody years of World War 2, the Moscow government is creating a situation that will drag its innocent people into war once more by such dangerous adventures as now have been disclosed in the Far East.

The term "psychological warfare" has been variously described, but its best meaning is the use of moral force to unite the minds of people on both sides of the Iron Curtain in a single thought—to eliminate any group of men in any regime which insists on plunging its people into war. And the case against the Moscow regime is only now beginning to be made as it should have been months ago.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

I present herewith a short and simple annal of a poor, weary and somewhat broken-down Florida schoolteacher, to make a contrast with the disgraceful waste of tons of money wrung from the likes of her on the wanton frivolities and subsidies of a corrupt government.

Listen:

"May I present a problem? It is entirely true. I still must find some way to raise money for my income taxes for this past year and I still must keep on trying to find something to do in order to be able to live.

"I was born in Florida and have worked here most of my life. Beginning in June, 1914, I taught 35 years in the Florida public schools. In 1949, I reached the age of 60 and, since I had been overloaded in the classrooms for years, I felt that I must retire before my health completely gave way. Indeed, I was unable to work for several months.

"My salary had run from $45 a month for seven or eight months a year to $2,500 yearly the last year that I taught. Now my pension under the Florida teachers' pension system is $100 a month and is taxable.

"The four-year bed-illness of a sister, which ended in her death, left me heavily in debt. Therefore, when internal revenue notified me in December, 1950 that I owed $195 income tax, plus $33.33 interest on my 1947 returns, due to errors in the returns, I was in no position to pay it. They had made no effort to tell me about it before. In other words, they had got around to notifying me three years late."

This is a familiar abuse of the citizen. Parasites of civil service loaf on the job, whistle-jumping and stalling in the washrooms to the extent of millions of paid hours a year and tot up their "rights" and "benefits" at the expense of this wretched woman multiplied by millions. By inattention and sloth they fall years behind in their work. Meanwhile, compound interest at six per cent piles up against unsuspecting and morally innocent citizens who pay their salaries. In the end, the little people, the weak and friendless millions for whom the Roosevelts and Truman and their evil cult expressed such mournful pity while they grabbed every dollar within their greedy reach, always are held to the literal figures rigged against them by expert professional tormenters. For contrast the record of the last two years of the Truman debauch disclosed hundreds of cases in which actual cheats and thieves were "forgiven" tax debts of millions on the corrupt proposition that it were better to collect a little money than to jail a rogue with a friend in the White House or a lawyer late of the treasury staff.

Our schoolteacher's letter continues:

"I explained the circumstances and asked for time to pay it in instalments. I was told that this was not Uncle Sam's way. I must send a check immediately for the full amount. That was the first of several such letters.

"In June, 1951, while I was still trying to raise the whole amount, the case was placed in the hands of the local (Lakeland) office. After being summoned and having appeared before the local officer for several lengthy sessions, he suggested that I go to the bank and borrow $40, pay 25 cents for a certified check and offer it in compromise. I did. Months later, I was notified that my offer was not accepted. I was then advised to add ten more dollars and make a second offer of compromise. I did and waited several months more.

"On October 15, 1951, I went to work teaching in Georgia. My salary for the remainder of the school year ending in September, 1952 was around $1500, before taxes. My expenses, board, etc., were heavy and I was paying on other debts. In May, 1952, just before school closed, and without notifying me that my $50 offer had been rejected, the Georgia tax office seized $245 of my summer salary, which was most of it.

"Now the old debt was paid but the Internal Revenue still had the $50 I had sent in offer of compromise. Although I wrote them several times asking for it and stressing my real need, they did not get around to sending it until this January, 1953. I endorsed it and handed it back to them in the tax office here (Lakeland) and they wanted me to have it cashed and buy another certified check which would have cost around 65 cents. But they did finally accept it. But they had kept it over a year but gave me no interest although they had charged me more than $50 interest and penalties on the $195 I owed them."

This cruel experience irresistibly reminds me of the braggart announcement of a character known as Leigh Dannenberg, a devotee and personal friend of Eleanor Roosevelt, for many years the publisher of a weekly scandal sheet at Bridgeport, Conn., that he was recently back after four months in New Delhi,

Van Fleet Sees

suit, and the Pacific ocean would be a Communist highway."

Answer Is 'Certainly'

Then at a press conference, Van Fleet repeated the question —and his answer—which aroused so much Washington interest.

It was the question put to him by John Randolph, Associated Press correspondent in Seoul—whether a major offensive could break the military deadlock in Korea?

His answer yesterday, as it was in Tokyo, was the emphatic one word:

"Certainly."

"I hope I have made that clear for all time," he added.

"Any offensive would break the military deadlock which is of our choosing and not imposed by the enemy."

He gave no hint what recommendations he may make when he sees President Eisenhower and congressional leaders Tuesday in Washington.

He said only that he is going to Washington as "a humble and modest commander to give such information as the President and Congress may want—to the best of my ability."

Sees No Surprise Ahead

Asked about possible Communist moves in Korea, Van Fleet said:

"I don't believe they will surprise the Eighth Army. I don't think they are that good."

Throughout, Van Fleet repeated:

"Korea is the front line of freedom."

He backed this up with five gains which he termed outstanding from the fighting there:

"1. We are still there defending freedom in spite of the Chinese Communists.

"2. The Eighth Army is the most powerful field army ever committed to battle by any nation or group of nations in history.

"3. The UN team . . . is a concrete indication of the ability of diverse nationalities to fight together for a common cause.

"4. The Republic of Korea Army is the largest and most modern military force we have in Asia.

"5. Militant communism — communism by bloodshed—has been dealt a stinging blow."

Van Fleet Sees

suit, and the Pacific ocean would be a Communist highway."

Answer Is 'Certainly'

Then at a press conference, Van Fleet repeated the question—and his answer—which aroused so much Washington interest.

It was the question put to him by John Randolph, Associated Press correspondent in Seoul—whether a major offensive could break the military deadlock in Korea?

His answer yesterday, as it was in Tokyo, was the emphatic one word:

"Certainly."

"I hope I have made that clear for all time," he added.

"Any offensive would break the military deadlock which is of our choosing and not imposed by the enemy."

He gave no hint what recommendations he may make when he sees President Eisenhower and congressional leaders Tuesday in Washington.

He said only that he is going to Washington as "a humble and modest commander to give such information as the President and Congress may want—to the best of my ability."

Sees No Surprise Ahead

Asked about possible Communist moves in Korea, Van Fleet said:

"I don't believe they will surprise the Eighth Army. I don't think they are that good."

Throughout, Van Fleet repeated:

"Korea is the front line of freedom."

He backed this up with five gains which he termed outstanding from the fighting there:

"1. We are still there defending freedom in spite of the Chinese Communists.

"2. The Eighth Army is the most powerful field army ever committed to battle by any nation or group of nations in history.

"3. The UN team . . . is a concrete indication of the ability of diverse nationalities to fight together for a common cause.

"4. The Republic of Korea Army is the largest and most modern military force we have in Asia.

"5. Militant communism — communism by bloodshed—has been dealt a stinging blow."

A competitive examination of candidates for the state scholarships in Cornell University, falling to the County of Ulster, will be held on March 4-5, 1953 at each secondary school in the county where Regents examinations are regularly held.

These scholarships provide a reduction of $200 from the annual tuition fee charged by the University.

Candidates must be at least 16 years of age and of six months' standing in the common schools or academies of the State during the year immediately preceding this examination, and must be legal residents of New York State and citizens of the United States.

The examination will be in three parts. The first two parts of the examination will be given Wednesday morning and afternoon; the third part will be given Thursday morning.

As previously, the examination will be based upon materials selected from those subjects or studies common to the school experience of all pupils.

There will be as many candidates appointed from this county as there are assembly districts in this county. Candidates will become entitled to the scholarships in the order of their merit.

Wife—I'll meet you half-way. I'll admit I'm wrong if you'll admit I'm right.

A talkative barber had recommended several remedies to the man in the chair, but all in vain. The customer maintained that he didn't need a massage, a manicure, or a shave—merely a haircut.

The barber, after a moment's silence, said:

Barber—Your hair is turning gray, sir.

Customer — I'm not surprised. Why don't you work a little faster.

She—When I hit a fellow he thinks twice about annoying me again.

He—When I hit a fellow he isn't in a position to think anymore.

Mrs. Smith met her neighbor on the street and said:

Mrs. Smith—I hear your daughter has a real genius for reciting.

Neighbor — Oh, yes, all she wants, her teachers says, is a course in electrocution to finish her off properly.

If at first you don't succeed, take a page from Jersey Joe Walcott's book.

Friend—Where did you get that derby hat?

Man—A surprise from my wife.

Friend—Surprise?

Man—Yes, I came home the other night unexpected and found it on the table.

Bernard Baruch, as a young man, once made a proposal to J. P. Morgan for partnership in a Texas sulphur dome. Morgan was interested until Baruch said, "You've taken bigger gambles than this." With ice in his voice, the financier replied, "I never gamble." The interview was over. Saying he had gambled had cut across the churchman's self-esteem. Truckers Advised About Painting Weights on Sides

The necessity for having displayed on auto trucks, agricultural trucks, light delivery cars and trailers the unladen weight of the vehicle, the maximum load capacity and the maximum gross weight of the vehicle, is called to the attention of truckers by County Clerk Harry D. Sutton.

Under provision of the Vehicle and Traffic Law, as amended by the laws of 1953, it is necessary upon registration of any truck, light delivery car or trailer to have painted or otherwise displayed thereon the three weights. The form, which must be substantially followed, is as follows:

"N.Y.U.W." (in pounds).
"N.Y.M.L." (in pounds).
"N.Y.M.G.W." (in pounds).

Positions Specified

On auto trucks, agricultural trucks or light delivery cars this weight table must be displayed on the left side of the cab or engine hood (driver's side). On a trailer, on the front portion of the left side of the trailer.

Lettering and numerals of such markings must be on a contrasting background and at least three inches in height.

Such unladen weight, maximum load and maximum gross weight must correspond with the weights stated on the application for registration of the particular vehicle.

The display of the weight provided a quick method of weighing station operators to check the registered load capacity of a vehicle when it approaches a weighing station.

Plans Surprise

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower is cooking up a surprise dealing with the portrait of Bobby Jones he painted. Murray Snyder, a White House press secretary, was asked whether the President was planning to take the oil painting of Jones—one of golf's immortals—with him to Augusta, Ga., today. Eisenhower was scheduled to fly there for a weekend of golf. At the Augusta National Golf Club Eisenhower will stay at Jones' cottage, which fronts on the 18th green. Snyder replied that "the President's plans regarding the portrait of Bobby Jones are in the nature of a surprise." He declined to say whether Eisenhower intended to present the painting to Jones, who will be on hand in Augusta.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband, Asa Clearwater, who died one year ago today.

But one year ago today you left me,
And my home seems sad and bare;
You left me broken-hearted and a lonely empty chair.
Your smile I miss so much and your voice seems so far away,
I am waiting for the coming of a bright and better day.
For I know your journey's ended
But I know I shall be united with you at the last
My loving husband.

Your wife,
MRS. ASA CLEARWATER

Memoriam

In loving memory of a devoted husband and father, Arthur Grossbohlin, who passed away one year ago today, Feb. 26th, 1952.

What we would give to see your smile,
And sit with you and talk awhile.
Day and night we think of you,
The things you used to say and do.
Your memories are as dear today as in the hour you passed away.

Good Roads, Not Wicks, Asks Gas Tax Boost, Hatfield Says

Poughkeepsie, Feb. 26 (AP)—Two Dutchess county legislators, the Poughkeepsie Chamber of Commerce and gasoline dealers today voiced opposition to any increase in the state gasoline tax.

State Sen. Ernest I. Hatfield, Republican, said there was a false impression that the move for an increase of two cents a gallon in the state tax was started by Sen. Arthur Wicks, Kingston, Republican majority leader.

Hatfield said the move for the additional tax was started by organizations such as the Good Roads Association, which advocated bigger and better highways.

Doubts Source Good

"I don't think this (the tax increase) is the proper source for obtaining greater highway funds," Hatfield said.

Assemblyman R. Watson Pomeroy, Dutchess Republican, said "I certainly do not intend to vote for any new tax on gasoline during this session of the Legislature.

The Poughkeepsie Chamber of Commerce sent telegrams to the governor and legislators from Dutchess county terming the proposed increase unfair to motorists.

The Dutchess county petroleum industry, made up of representatives of gasoline dealers, said a two-cent increase in the gasoline tax would cost Dutchess county motorists $1,200,000 more a year in state taxes.

Approval Is Forecast

Albany, Feb. 26 (AP)—Assembly approval was forecast today for a bill that would permit the State Racing Commission to impose a $5,000 civil penalty, instead of a $200 fine, on violators of the racing law or regulations. The measure, approved by the Senate yesterday, also would give the commission power to impose the penalties on track operators. It now may fine only horse owners, trainers, jockeys and grooms. The bill also provides that each day a violation continues may be considered by the commission a separate violation in assessing the civil penalty.

Predicts Deep Cut

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) predicted today Congress will cut deeply into military spending in an effort to balance the budget—a task President Eisenhower has described as terrifically difficult. The Ohioan, the Senate's Republican leader, told reporters he doesn't believe the military can claim exemption from some sharp budget cuts in the year beginning July 1. Sens. Byrd (D-Va.), Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Dirksen (R-Ill.) agreed on that score.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—A great deal of difficulty was encountered by the stock market today as it inches its way forward.

With only a few exceptions, price changes were confined to fractions. Occasional changes of around a point were noted with one or two plus signs in the neighborhood of 2 points.

Right at the start of trading, low priced shares flashed on to the tape frequently. AVCO opened on a block of 11,000 shares unchanged at 8½, Pepsi-Cola 3,300 shares unchanged at 13⅞, and Willys-Overland 6,000 shares up ⅛ at 13¼.

Higher prices posted by the tobacco companies for cigarettes brought modest increases in tobacco company stocks without much activity. Coppers, well ahead yesterday after the two leading American producers raised their prices, were up small fractions in quiet trading. The price increases came on the heels of decontrol orders from Washington.

Today 50th Anniversary Of Farm Extension

Today has been proclaimed Agricultural Extension Day in New York state by Governor Thomas E. Dewey. The day marks the 50th anniversary of the first farm demonstration work in the state.

The first demonstration work, begun in 1903, has developed into the present agricultural extension service which seeks to instruct farmers in best methods and latest developments in crop raising. The first Farm Bureau was organized in Broome county in 1911. The Ulster County Farm Bureau was organized in 1914.

Jelke's Defense Rests Its Case

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—The defense in the vice trial of playboy Mickey Jelke rested its case today, leaving the impression that a boy's best friend is still his mother.

Jelke, short, plump and 23 years old, never took the witness stand to answer the state's charges that he inducted three young women to become prostitutes and lived off the earnings of one of them.

An anticipated parade of witnesses in Jelke's behalf simply failed to appear. Possibly this was by defense design. But rumors persisted that some who were his friends in fair weather days had taken runout powders.

Mother Best Witness

Jelke's best witness was his mother, who appeared in his behalf yesterday. Black-garbed and quiet-voiced, she fought like any mother for her son's reputation.

The defense opened Tuesday in the general sessions courtroom of Judge Francis L. Valente. The prosecution took two weeks to present its case. The judge barred press and public from that phase of the case, saying it was too lurid for public consumption.

Both sides were expected to summarize their cases later today before an all-male jury.

The last witness called by the defense was the attorney for a girlhood chum of Pat Ward, 19, chief state's witness. The slender, copper-haired Miss Ward accused Jelke of inducing her to become a prostitute at $50 to $100 a night and then taking nearly all her earnings.

Girlhood Chum Missing

The girlhood chum of Pat Ward was Grace Appel, whom the defense said it had been unable to locate.

Miss Appel's lawyer, Sidney Steinhauer, told the court he didn't even remember the last time he saw his client.

On the stand earlier the defense placed Charles F. Salkeld of Pine Lake, N. J., in charge of a branch of the Bankers Trust Company where Jelke had an account. It was his second appearance on the stand. He discussed Jelke's bank accounts.

The obvious defense purpose has been to show that Jelke was so well heeled he never would have had to take money from Pat Ward or any other call girl.

Public Hearing Is Scheduled On State Divorce Law Bill

Albany, Feb. 26 (AP)—In a surprise move, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee today scheduled a public hearing on a measure that could lead to easing of the state's strict divorce law.

Committee Chairman William H. Mackenzie of Belmont called the hearing March 5 in the Assembly chambers here on a proposal by Mrs. Janet Hill Gordon, Norwich assemblywoman. To create a 23-member commission for a $50,000 survey of all laws relating to the family, marriage and divorce.

Mackenzie said his committee had "no pre-conceived notions" as to the merits of the proposal, but wanted to obtain "a full expression of the diverse points of view."

Cites Fraud Cases

Mrs. Gordon has contended that "widespread fraud, perjury and collusion are common now in most divorce and annulment actions."

"It is time that the shocking conditions revealed . . . be studied and remedial legislation adopted," she added.

In past years, similar proposals have died in committee in the face of stiff opposition from various quarters. The Roman Catholic Church has opposed the study plan vigorously.

Under present state law, adultery is the only ground for divorce.

In other action on Capitol Hill:

1. Gov. Dewey signed a bill reorganizating the State Civil Service Department, and said it "marks one of the most significant improvements in the structure of a state agency" in 25 years.

The new law continues the present three-member Civil Service Commission, but gives the chairman broader administrative power. It goes into effect next July 1.

To Study Costs

2. It was learned the administration planned to ask a special commission study of the rising costs of workmen's compensation coverage. The state commerce commissioner, Harold Keller, has said high costs are discouraging new industries from moving into New York.

3. The governor signed a bill designed to help officials crack down on cigarette smugglers. It requires cigarette dealers to specify in shipping tickets the names and addresses of purchasers and persons paying the state tax, plus the quantity of each brand in the shipment.

4. The social welfare board endorsed a measure to liberalize current restrictions against making public the names of persons in relief rolls. But the agency said studies of three states that had publicized their welfare lists had produced no evidence that this had helped reduce relief costs.

Clash Occurs Over

consumer into thinking that his gas tax money will go to repair the highways."

The proposal by Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, Senate Republican leader, that the tax be boosted from four to six cents a gallon drew strong protests earlier this week from legislative Democrats and the New York Petroleum Industries Committee.

Suggests Road Use

Wicks said his proposal was just a "feeler" for public sentiment on the question. He suggested that revenue from any such boost be earmarked for highways.

Some top Republican legislative leaders expressed doubt there would be any action on the proposal this year.

In a statement, Morehouse said that only two states—New Jersey and Missouri—had lower gasoline taxes than New York. Both states tax motorists three cents a gallon.

He added:

"There has been no change in the state's gasoline tax rate since 1937. But during this 15-year period the cost of building roads has more than doubled. Even the price of gasoline has risen over 40 per cent while the gasoline tax remained constant * * *.

Says Costs Too Great

"Obviously the state cannot catch up on its road construction needs in the face of sharply rising costs and vastly increased traffic volume unless it makes a corresponding increase in taxes."

In a letter to T. Norman Hurd, Dewey's budget chief, Van Duzer asserted that the governor's budget for the coming fiscal year "indicates a diversion of highway revenue withheld from highway purposes of $67,916,000 or 31.3 per cent."

The "contention of the Dewey administration that non-diversion would not provide sufficient funds seems to be in error," Van Duzer wrote.

Revenues collected on motor fuel taxes, vehicle registration fees and the new weight-distance truck tax go into the state's general fund, from which appropriations are made for highway work. State law does not require that highway revenues be used for any specific purpose.

Held as Spies

Berlin, Feb. 26 (AP)—West Berlin police headquarters today announced the arrest of three men on charges they were spies for Communist Czechoslovakia. Their names and nationality were not disclosed pending further investigation.

Conley Fined $25 On Driving Charge

Richard Conley, 53, of 285 North street, was fined $25 by City Judge Raymond J. Mino today on a reckless driving charge dating back to Sept. 13.

Conley, through consent of the district attorney's office, was allowed to plead to a charge of reckless driving instead of leaving the scene of an accident, which was originally lodged against him.

Charged also with driving while intoxicated, Conley went to trial on that Feb. 9 and a city court jury then returned a verdict of not guilty. He had also been charged with driving without a license, but this was dropped when he later produced a license. Police said he struck a parked car on East Strand at Gill street.

Attorney John Schick of the firm of Rusk & Rusk, Marlborough, appeared today for Conley and James Matthews represented the district attorney's office.

Mexican Actress

called the film "a new weapon for Russia" and said it was "being made under Communist auspices."

Both the union and the Hollywood group denied the accusation.

The Mine-Mill was expelled from the CIO because its leaders refused to sign non-Communist affidavits. Several of the Hollywood writers connected with the film have been barred from Hollywood studios for alleged Communist connections.

Wright said the immigration officials stated there were no subversive factors involved in the arrest, merely a violation of immigration regulations.

The immigration officers said there would be a preliminary hearing for the actress in El Paso today.

In Washington, the Justice Department would say only that the actress had "no documents valid for entry" into the United States.

Truckers Advised About Painting Weights on Sides

The necessity for having displayed on auto trucks, agricultural trucks, light delivery cars and trailers the unladen weight of the vehicle, the maximum load capacity and the maximum gross weight of the vehicle, is called to the attention of truckers by County Clerk Harry D. Sutton.

Under provision of the Vehicle and Traffic Law, as amended by the laws of 1953, it is necessary upon registration of any truck, light delivery car or trailer to have painted or otherwise displayed thereon the three weights. The form, which must be substantially followed, is as follows:

"N.Y.U.W." (in pounds).
"N.Y.M.L." (in pounds).
"N.Y.M.G.W." (in pounds).

Positions Specified

On auto trucks, agricultural trucks or light delivery cars this weight table must be displayed on the left side of the cab or engine hood (driver's side). On a trailer, on the front portion of the left side of the trailer.

Lettering and numerals of such markings must be on a contrasting background and at least three inches in height.

Such unladen weight, maximum load and maximum gross weight must correspond with the weights stated on the application for registration of the particular vehicle.

The display of the weight provided a quick method of weighing station operators to check the registered load capacity of a vehicle when it approaches a weighing station.

From there he will go to Japan, Korea, Formosa, Indo-China, Indonesia, and countries of the Middle East and Europe. Stevenson told a small group of newsmen, "this won't be a vacation."

Hanoi, Indochina, Feb. 26 (AP)—Marshal Alphonse Juin arrived here today on an inspection trip in Indochina. As he left his plane he was greeted by his son, Lieut. Andre Juin, now stationed in Indochina. The marshal was accompanied by Gen. Raoul Salan, French commander-in-chief in the battle against the Communist-led Vietminh.

Plans Surprise

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower is cooking up a surprise dealing with the portrait of Bobby Jones he painted. Murray Snyder, a White House press secretary, was asked whether the President was planning to take the oil painting of Jones—one of golf's immortals—with him to Augusta, Ga., today. Eisenhower was scheduled to fly there for a weekend of golf. At the Augusta National Golf Club Eisenhower will stay at Jones' cottage, which fronts on the 18th green. Snyder replied that "the President's plans regarding the portrait of Bobby Jones are in the nature of a surprise." He declined to say whether Eisenhower intended to present the painting to Jones, who will be on hand in Augusta.

Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear husband, Asa Clearwater, who died one year ago today.

But one year ago today you left me,
And my home seems sad and bare;
You left me broken-hearted and a lonely empty chair.
Your smile I miss so much and your voice seems so far away,
I am waiting for the coming of a bright and better day.
For I know your journey's ended
But I know I shall be united with you at the last
My loving husband.

Your wife,
MRS. ASA CLEARWATER

Memoriam

And sit with you and talk awhile.

The things you used to say and do.
Your memories are as dear today as in the hour you passed away.

Good Roads, Not Wicks, Asks Gas Tax Boost, Hatfield Says

Poughkeepsie, Feb. 26 (AP)—Two Dutchess county legislators, the Poughkeepsie Chamber of Commerce and gasoline dealers today voiced opposition to any increase in the state gasoline tax.

State Sen. Ernest I. Hatfield, Republican, said there was a false impression that the move for an increase of two cents a gallon in the state tax was started by Sen. Arthur Wicks, Kingston, Republican majority leader.

Hatfield said the move for the additional tax was started by organizations such as the Good Roads Association, which advocated bigger and better highways.

Doubts Source Good

"I don't think this (the tax increase) is the proper source for obtaining greater highway funds," Hatfield said.

Assemblyman R. Watson Pomeroy, Dutchess Republican, said "I certainly do not intend to vote for any new tax on gasoline during this session of the Legislature.

The Poughkeepsie Chamber of Commerce sent telegrams to the governor and legislators from Dutchess county terming the proposed increase unfair to motorists.

The Dutchess county petroleum industry, made up of representatives of gasoline dealers, said a two-cent increase in the gasoline tax would cost Dutchess county motorists $1,200,000 more a year in state taxes.

Approval Is Forecast

Albany, Feb. 26 (AP)—Assembly approval was forecast today for a bill that would permit the State Racing Commission to impose a $5,000 civil penalty, instead of a $200 fine, on violators of the racing law or regulations. The measure, approved by the Senate yesterday, also would give the commission power to impose the penalties on track operators. It now may fine only horse owners, trainers, jockeys and grooms. The bill also provides that each day a violation continues may be considered by the commission a separate violation in assessing the civil penalty.

Predicts Deep Cut

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) predicted today Congress will cut deeply into military spending in an effort to balance the budget—a task President Eisenhower has described as terrifically difficult. The Ohioan, the Senate's Republican leader, told reporters he doesn't believe the military can claim exemption from some sharp budget cuts in the year beginning July 1. Sens. Byrd (D-Va.), Ferguson (R-Mich.) and Dirksen (R-Ill.) agreed on that score.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—A great deal of difficulty was encountered by the stock market today as it inches its way forward.

With only a few exceptions, price changes were confined to fractions. Occasional changes of around a point were noted with one or two plus signs in the neighborhood of 2 points.

Right at the start of trading, low priced shares flashed on to the tape frequently. AVCO opened on a block of 11,000 shares unchanged at 8½, Pepsi-Cola 3,500 shares unchanged at 13⅞, and Willys-Overland 6,000 shares up ⅛ at 13¼.

Higher prices posted by the tobacco companies for cigarettes brought modest increases in tobacco company stocks without much activity. Coppers, well ahead yesterday after the two leading American producers raised their prices, were up small fractions in quiet trading. The price increases came on the heels of decontrol orders from Washington.

Today 50th Anniversary Of Farm Extension

Today has been proclaimed Agricultural Extension Day in New York state by Governor Thomas E. Dewey. The day marks the 50th anniversary of the first farm demonstration work in the state.

The first Farm Bureau was organized in Broome county in 1911. The Ulster County Farm Bureau was organized in 1914.

Jelke's Defense Rests Its Case

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—The defense in the vice trial of playboy Mickey Jelke rested its case today, leaving the impression that a boy's best friend is still his mother.

Jelke, short, plump and 23 years old, never took the witness stand to answer the state's charges that he inducted three young women to become prostitutes and lived off the earnings of one of them.

An anticipated parade of witnesses in Jelke's behalf simply failed to appear. Possibly this was by defense design. But rumors persisted that some who were his friends in fair weather days had taken runout powders.

Mother Best Witness

Jelke's best witness was his mother, who appeared in his behalf yesterday. Black-garbed and quiet-voiced, she fought like any mother for her son's reputation.

The defense opened Tuesday in the general sessions courtroom of Judge Francis L. Valente. The prosecution took two weeks to present its case. The judge barred press and public from that phase of the case, saying it was too lurid for public consumption.

Both sides were expected to summarize their cases later today before an all-male jury.

The last witness called by the defense was the attorney for a girlhood chum of Pat Ward, 19, chief state's witness. The slender, copper-haired Miss Ward accused Jelke of inducing her to become a prostitute at $50 to $100 a night and then taking nearly all her earnings.

Girlhood Chum Missing

The girlhood chum of Pat Ward was Grace Appel, whom the defense said it had been unable to locate.

Miss Appel's lawyer, Sidney Steinhauer, told the court he didn't even remember the last time he saw his client.

On the stand earlier the defense placed Charles F. Salkeld of Pine Lake, N. J., in charge of a branch of the Bankers Trust Company where Jelke had an account. It was his second appearance on the stand. He discussed Jelke's bank accounts.

The obvious defense purpose has been to show that Jelke was so well heeled he never would have had to take money from Pat Ward or any other call girl.

Cigarette Prices Gain

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. today boosted the wholesale price of its Chesterfield and other cigarettes. The hike is expected to result in an increase of about one cent a pack at the retail level. Reynolds Tobacco Co. and American Tobacco Co. increased their prices yesterday following decontrol of tobacco prices.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—The position of the treasury Feb. 24: Net budget receipts $288,137,526.16. Budget expenditures $247,476,562.35. Cash balance $6,296,988,469.60. Customs receipts for month $35,026,899.41. Budget receipts fiscal year July 1 $36,839,991,084.21. Budget expenditures fiscal year $46,528,001,015.31. Budget deficit $9,688,009,931.10. Total debt $267,459,181,889.54. Increase over previous day $21,365,039.46. Gold assets $22,722,282,851.59.

Public Hearing Is Scheduled On State Divorce Law Bill

Albany, Feb. 26 (AP)—In a surprise move, the Assembly Ways and Means Committee today scheduled a public hearing on a measure that could lead to easing of the state's strict divorce law.

Committee Chairman William H. Mackenzie of Belmont called the hearing March 5 in the Assembly chambers here on a proposal by Mrs. Janet Hill Gordon, Norwich assemblywoman. To create a 23-member commission for a $50,000 survey of all laws relating to the family, marriage and divorce.

Mackenzie said his committee had "no pre-conceived notions" as to the merits of the proposal, but wanted to obtain "a full expression of the diverse points of view."

Cites Fraud Cases

Mrs. Gordon has contended that "widespread fraud, perjury and collusion are common now in most divorce and annulment actions."

"It is time that the shocking conditions revealed . . . be studied and remedial legislation adopted," she added.

In past years, similar proposals have died in committee in the face of stiff opposition from various quarters. The Roman Catholic Church has opposed the study plan vigorously.

Under present state law, adultery is the only ground for divorce.

In other action on Capitol Hill:

1. Gov. Dewey signed a bill reorganizating the State Civil Service Department, and said it "marks one of the most significant improvements in the structure of a state agency" in 25 years.

The new law continues the present three-member Civil Service Commission, but gives the chairman broader administrative power. It goes into effect next July 1.

To Study Costs

2. It was learned the administration planned to ask a special commission study of the rising costs of workmen's compensation coverage. The state commerce commissioner, Harold Keller, has said high costs are discouraging new industries from moving into New York.

3. The governor signed a bill designed to help officials crack down on cigarette smugglers. It requires cigarette dealers to specify in shipping tickets the names and addresses of purchasers and persons paying the state tax, plus the quantity of each brand in the shipment.

4. The social welfare board endorsed a measure to liberalize current restrictions against making public the names of persons in relief rolls. But the agency said studies of three states that had publicized their welfare lists had produced no evidence that this had helped reduce relief costs.

Clash Occurs Over

consumer into thinking that his gas tax money will go to repair the highways."

The proposal by Arthur H. Wicks, of Kingston, Senate Republican leader, that the tax be boosted from four to six cents a gallon drew strong protests earlier this week from legislative Democrats and the New York Petroleum Industries Committee.

Suggests Road Use

Wicks said his proposal was just a "feeler" for public sentiment on the question. He suggested that revenue from any such boost be earmarked for highways.

Some top Republican legislative leaders expressed doubt there would be any action on the proposal this year.

In a statement, Morehouse said that only two states—New Jersey and Missouri—had lower gasoline taxes than New York. Both states tax motorists three cents a gallon.

He added:

"There has been no change in the state's gasoline tax rate since 1937. But during this 15-year period the cost of building roads has more than doubled. Even the price of gasoline has risen over 40 per cent while the gasoline tax remained constant * * *.

Says Costs Too Great

"Obviously the state cannot catch up on its road construction needs in the face of sharply rising costs and vastly increased traffic volume unless it makes a corresponding increase in taxes."

In a letter to T. Norman Hurd, Dewey's budget chief, Van Duzer asserted that the governor's budget for the coming fiscal year "indicates a diversion of highway revenue withheld from highway purposes of $67,916,000 or 31.3 per cent."

The "contention of the Dewey administration that non-diversion would not provide sufficient funds seems to be in error," Van Duzer wrote.

Revenues collected on motor fuel taxes, vehicle registration fees and the new weight-distance truck tax go into the state's general fund, from which appropriations are made for highway work. State law does not require that highway revenues be used for any specific purpose.

Held as Spies

Berlin, Feb. 26 (AP)—West Berlin police headquarters today announced the arrest of three men on charges they were spies for Communist Czechosolvakia. Their names and nationality were not disclosed pending further investigation.

Conley Fined $25 On Driving Charge

Richard Conley, 53, of 285 North street, was fined $25 by City Judge Raymond J. Mino today on a reckless driving charge dating back to Sept. 13.

Conley, through consent of the district attorney's office, was allowed to plead to a charge of reckless driving instead of leaving the scene of an accident, which was originally lodged against him.

Charged also with driving while intoxicated, Conley went to trial on that Feb. 9 and a city court jury then returned a verdict of not guilty. He had also been charged with driving without a license, but this was dropped when he later produced a license. Police said he struck a parked car on East Strand at Gill street.

Attorney John Schick of the firm of Rusk & Rusk, Marlborough, appeared today for Conley and James Matthews represented the district attorney's office.

Mexican Actress

called the film "a new weapon for Russia" and said it was "being made under Communist auspices."

Both the union and the Hollywood group denied the accusation.

The Mine-Mill was expelled from the CIO because its leaders refused to sign non-Communist affidavits. Several of the Hollywood writers connected with the film have been barred from Hollywood studios for alleged Communist connections.

Wright said the immigration officials stated there were no subversive factors involved in the arrest, merely a violation of immigration regulations.

The immigration officers said there would be a preliminary hearing for the actress in El Paso today.

In Washington, the Justice Department would say only that the actress had "no documents valid for entry" into the United States.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

From time to time I am asked about the old Emerson car which was built here around 1916. I do not know much about it. It seems that in October of 1916, through the Chamber of Commerce, the Emerson Motors Co., Inc., of New York was induced to come here. They took over the old auto plant on Grand street which now houses the Electrol plant. The Emerson people planned to build a $395 auto, a four and five passenger car. As I remember hear tell, the local police used one of their cars.

Going back further yet, Kingston made the local headlines May 28, 1910, when touring cars and commercial trucks were planned to be manufactured by W. A. Wood Automobile Co. at the same plant mentioned above. It seems that a model car and truck arrived in Kingston from Rhinebeck. The car and truck were driven from Columbus Circle in New York to Rhinebeck in five and a half hours. Of course, in those days the roads were bad. Folks only knew about open cars with window curtains, remember.

Back on Nov. 4, 1910, the Common Council adopted ordinances fixing speed limit of motor vehicles in city to 15 miles per hour. Later it was made 20 miles an hour and later even 25. Some day I will have to get some copies of various ordinances such as the above for this column. I understand there are to many ordinances to incorporate in a booklet so they are kept filed and can be looked up when needed.

I ran across a magazine called "Cars" put out by the editors of Mechanix Illustrated. One article called Car Fans' Holiday by Rex Lardner states, "There are about 40 public and private auto museums in this country . . . most of them in the northeast. . . . New Englanders are extremely historical-minded." Some of these museums sprinkled right through our section here have everything from old stage coaches, one-horse shays, old toys, antique furniture, to the world's largest collection of shoe buckles, (by which in Colonial times, you could spot a man's rank and how much money he had). Most of these museums are listed in the article so you can go from one to the other on a weekend tour.

For instance, how many folks know that Sears Roebuck & Co. manufactured a "Sears" auto back in 1906, which can be seen at Major A. Erland Goyette's Museum of Americana at Peterborough, N. H. He also has a 1900 three-wheel Knox which steered with a tiller. There was also the 1904 Knox, which was considered a luxury car, as it had a windshield, curtains on the top and side, a wicker basket to stuff luggage in, and a wicker golf bag placed on the left side where the driver could get it in a hurry.

The Museum of Antique Autos, in Princeton, Mass., even has a miniature R.R., a large circus wagon, a hand-carved mechanical village and a steam fire engine on view, as well as 125 antique autos. There you can see the 1906 Orient, body of which is made entirely of wood, a 1907 Pierce-Arrow with six cylinders and body made of aluminum. The requirements of most of these antique cars is that they are at least a quarter of a century old. Twenty-five years has certainly made a tremendous difference in the "horseless-carriage" as they were laughingly called in the early 1900's.

When you make an opening bid in no-trump your strength is so sharply outlined that you have no need to add a great deal to your story. This fact is clearly illustrated in today's hand, taken from the recent World Championship Match played in New York.

When George Rapee held the North hand for America, he opened the bidding with two no-trump. Such a bid usually shows a count of 22 to 24 points, with balanced distribution and stoppers in all suits.

North actually had only 21 points in top cards, and the diamond stopper was a bit tenuous. However, North had a strong five-card suit as compensation for the slightly deficient count, and his opening bid cannot be criticized.

John R. Crawford, the South player, promptly jumped to four hearts. This indicated that he had a good, long heart suit but that he could not make any independent slam try of his own.

North was glad to pass since his opening bid had told his full story. He might have made a slam try if his opening bid had been based on a full 24 points with a good fit for hearts and the strength made up largely of aces and kings. Since he did not have tha type of hand, he could safely pass without fearing the loss of a slam.

Four hearts was a very comfortable contract. The defenders began by taking two club tricks and the ace of diamonds. Declarer could then claim the rest of the tricks.

In the other room the Swedish pair got themselves into trouble. North did not tell his whole story with his opening bid, and had to carry the bidding to the level of five before he felt that it was proper to drop.

North opened with one spade, and South responded with two hearts. Not knowing what to do about this, North made the somewhat "fancy" rebid of three clubs. South rebid his seven-card heart suit.

At this stage of the proceedings North felt that he had not shown his full strength and had no way of knowing how good or bad the South had happened to be. North therefore jumped to four no-trump, the Blackwood Convention, asking South to show his aces. South showed no aces by bidding five clubs, and North retreated to five hearts.

Five hearts was not a safe contract. The American defenders took two clubs and a diamond, and the Swedish declarer was defeated.

Biscuits on the Shelf

Keep several tins of ready-made biscuits in the ice-box so that they will be handy in emergencies. These biscuits can be used in many ways — put them in the hot stew ten minutes before serving and you have some juicy dumplings, put them on top of the chicken casserole and you'll have a nice biscuit crust or cut them in half and wrap them around small sausages, anchovies, meats or fish and bake them in the oven for delectable hors-doeuvres.

He'll lick the platter clean!

. . . he'll love his Dog-licious KASCO AND WATER

Like a child with an ice cream cone or a man with a good steak, your dog won't stop eating until the last bite of his tasty Kasco is gone. He'll really love that dog-licious Kasco flavor.

And you won't have to tempt him with expensive extras, because Kasco mixed with water is all it takes to satisfy his appetite—and, to keep him in the pink of condition. Feed him Kasco and water—see for yourself.

Kasco can help your budget problems. No extras . . . no expensive meat or milk or vitamin supplements are needed. Everything your dog needs is in his meal of Kasco.

Kasco is the ideal food for puppies. Wean them on to Kasco. They need nothing but Kasco and water to grow into strong, active pets!

Kasco controls D.O. (Doggy Odor) from bad breath and body conditions. It contains chlorophyllin, miraculous deodorant to control objectionable doggy odors.

If your favorite store doesn't carry Kasco, write

National Debt Is 267 Times Higher Than U.S. Had in 1915

By FRANK O'BRIEN

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—The national debt now stands at nearly 267½ billion dollars as compared with a little over one billion dollars in 1915.

That is the cost of two world wars, one depression, and one cold war. It is the world's biggest financial structure. It is more than two-thirds the size of the nation's gross national product (the total price of all the country's goods and services) last year. It amounts to approximately $1,670 for every man, woman and child in the country.

It is probably the most potent single economic factor in the nation. The way it is handled can change the face of the nation's economy. The Republicans say the Democrats have been handling it the wrong way, bringing about inflation. The Democrats say they handled it as cheaply as possible, by keeping the interest rate down.

Average Rate 2.361 Per Cent

The average annual interest rate on the debt, on Jan. 31, before the new administration made any changes, was 2.361 per cent. That represented an annual cost of about $6,315,000,000 (about $40 per person) at the present debt level. A rise of one per cent would cost the taxpayers an additional $2,675,000,000 in a year (about $16.70 per person).

The treasury in its first debt operation under the new administration increased the interest rate on a nearly nine billion dollar issue which came due Feb. 15 and had to be refinanced. The increased interest (which for the most part brought the rate up to about going market levels) represented an annual cost of $34,304,200.

Sen. Murray (D.-Mont.) complained in the Senate that the new government, while preaching thrift, was at the same time raising the interest rate on the debt and thereby enriching the bankers.

Burgess Is Deputy

W. Randolph Burgess, formerly chairman of the executive committee of the National City Bank of New York, is Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey's deputy for debt management and monetary matters. Burgess is thus the chief architect of the new administration's debt management policies. His expressed policies would take the debt, and therefore direct profit on it, out of bankers' hands.

Burgess says now, and has said for years, that a large part of the national debt should be shifted into longer term obligations than is now the case. That almost certainly means a higher interest cost, because, generally, money borrowed for a long time pays a higher rate of interest than money borrowed for a short time.

Also, Burgess believes government securities should pay enough interest to take care of themselves in the market, without government support. He said before coming to the treasury that the rate should be 3 per cent or more on long term issues.

Will Cost Directly

The program will cost money directly, in terms of higher interest to be paid out of tax revenues. Additionally, present holders of long term government securities, including savings banks, might lose trading value as their low-interest bonds become less attractive in the face of other issues bearing higher interest. The debt program may also have the effect of pushing up private interest rates, as government interest rates become more competitive. Business rates must, in general, be somewhat above government rates, to compensate for the greater security of government issues.

A general interest rate increase could be reflected in higher prices, as businessmen added their increased costs to the prices of their products.

However, Burgess—and Humphrey and the other major treasury officials—believe the increased costs might not be as much as sometimes predicted and that they would be compensated.

This Is Theory

This is their theory:

Short term securities go mainly to banks or other investors who use them virtually as money, buying and selling them constantly. This increases the money supply, and is one of the most powerful of inflationary influences.

Inflation means rising prices. Also, inflation eats away the value of investments and savings, making for "get rich quick" investment and profligate instead of thrifty living. Persons living on pensions and annuities find their income less and less each year as inflation decreases the buying power of their fixed income.

Therefore, as much of the debt as possible must be placed in hands of long-term, non-bank investors, wso will hold it rather than using it to create credit. Such investors must be offered interest rates competitive with other possible investments.

Shifting to long-term issues clears the decks for emergencies. If the nation were confronted with all-out war, the present clutter of short term issues would hinder the process of raising huge new sums quickly.

The new administration's debt program, therefore, falls into line with its program for "normal crisis"—life with a crisis of indefinite length—in which emergency measures should be wiped out. Short term debt financing is emergency financing.

National Debt Is 267 Times Higher Than U.S. Had in 1915

By FRANK O'BRIEN

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—The national debt now stands at nearly 267½ billion dollars as compared with a little over one billion dollars in 1915.

That is the cost of two world wars, one depression, and one cold war. It is the world's biggest financial structure. It is more than two-thirds the size of the nation's gross national product (the total value of all the country's goods and services) last year. It amounts to approximately $1,670 for every man, woman and child in the country.

It is probably the most potent single economic factor in the nation. The way it is handled can change the face of the nation's economy. The Republicans say the Democrats have been handling it the wrong way, bringing about inflation. The Democrats say they handled it as cheaply as possible, by keeping the interest rate down.

Average Rate 2.361 Per Cent

The average annual interest rate on the debt, on Jan. 31, before the new administration made any changes, was 2.361 per cent. That represented an annual cost of about $6,315,000,000 (about $40 per person) at the present debt level. A rise of one per cent would cost the taxpayers an additional $2,675,000,000 in a year (about $16.70 per person).

The treasury in its first debt operation under the new administration increased the interest rate on a nearly nine billion dollar issue which came due Feb. 15 and had to be refinanced. The increased interest (which for the most part brought the rate up to about going market levels) represented an annual cost of $34,304,200.

Sen. Murray (D.-Mont.) complained in the Senate that the new government, while preaching thrift, was at the same time raising the interest rate on the debt and thereby enriching the bankers.

Burgess Is Deputy

W. Randolph Burgess, formerly chairman of the executive committee of the National City Bank of New York, is Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey's deputy for debt management and monetary matters. Burgess is thus the chief architect of the new administration's debt management policies. His expressed policies would take the debt, and therefore direct profit on it, out of bankers' hands.

Burgess says now, and has said for years, that a large part of the national debt should be shifted into longer term obligations than is now the case. That almost certainly means a higher interest cost, because, generally, money borrowed for a long time pays a higher rate of interest than money borrowed for a short time.

Also, Burgess believes government securities should pay enough interest to take care of themselves in the market, without government support. He said before coming to the treasury that the rate should be 3 per cent or more on long term issues.

Will Cost Directly

The program will cost money directly, in terms of higher interest to be paid out of tax revenues. Additionally, present holders of long term government securities, including savings banks, might lose trading value as their low-interest bonds become less attractive in the face of other issues bearing higher interest. The debt program may also have the effect of pushing up private interest rates, as government interest rates become more competitive. Business rates must, in general, be somewhat above government rates, to compensate for the greater security of government issues.

A general interest rate increase could be reflected in higher prices, as businessmen added their increased costs to the prices of their products.

However, Burgess—and Humphrey and the other major treasury officials—believe the increased costs might not be as much as sometimes predicted and that they would be compensated.

This Is Theory

This is their theory:

Short term securities go mainly to banks or other investors who use them virtually as money, buying and selling them constantly. This increases the money supply, and is one of the most powerful of inflationary influences.

Inflation means rising prices. Also, inflation eats away the value of investments and savings, making for "get rich quick" investment and profligate instead of thrifty living. Persons living on pensions and annuities find their income less and less each year as inflation decreases the buying power of their fixed income.

Therefore, as much of the debt as possible must be placed in hands of long-term, non-bank investors, wso will hold it rather than using it to create credit. Such investors must be offered interest rates competitive with other possible investments.

Shifting to long-term issues clears the decks for emergencies. If the nation were confronted with all-out war, the present clutter of short term issues would hinder the process of raising huge new sums quickly.

The new administration's debt program, therefore, falls into line with its program for "normal crisis"—life with a crisis of indefinite length—in which emergency measures should be wiped out. Short term debt financing is emergency financing.

300 Children Escape

Pavullo, Italy, Feb. 26 (AP)—Three hundred children escaped injury yesterday when half the roof of the Pavullo elementary school collapsed under the weight of tons of snow. The roof and snow crashed into the school's main corridor and auditorium minutes before the children were to leave their classrooms to assemble there. Over 100 homes in this north Apennine mountain area have been wrecked in the first few days by huge accumulations of snow on their roofs.

A little vinegar or ammonia on a damp cloth is better for cleaning mirrors than is soap.

Corridor Was Paced

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—Like any other anxious father-to-be, Bertram Fendrick paced the corridor—but with a difference. The corridor was in a Manhattan public school and Fendrick's wife, Sandra, 21-year-old first grade teacher, was giving birth to a five-pound boy in an adjacent room. Fendrick is a fifth grade teacher in the same school. Mrs. Fendrick left her own class to become a mother yesterday after telling her young charges: "Be good. There is something I must do."

Good flavor combination: Tiny pieces of semi-sweet chocolate added to orange tapioca pudding.

Snow No Problem

Glenwood Springs, Colo. (AP)—Snow may pile up to the eaves in this Western Colorado community, but the streets are always kept clear. After each storm, the city's tank trucks rumble down to the Yampah hot springs, take on loads of 180-degree mineral water and vaporize the snow. They also tie up traffic for a time. The hot water sprayed on the snow stirs up a thick fog.

Snyder Addresses Baptist Ladies' Night

Says Van Fleet's Talks on Korea Could Shock U. S.

Reminding his listeners to watch the letter V and the seas in the news headlines in 1953, Frederic Snyder, local lecturer and news analyst, told the First Baptist Church Men's Club Ladies' Night gathering Wednesday night that the forthcoming testimony by Gen. James Van Fleet, former Eighth Army commander in Korea, could shock Kingston and the rest of the nation.

"If he talks upon his return to this country," Snyder said "it won't be pleasant."

Snyder said he compiled his yearly news index this year on January 7 at which time he released what words or letters would be featured in the headlines during the current year.

On that date, he said, his prewriting of the news index led him to believe that the letter V and the seas would be vital in news headlines of the year.

Snyder went on to explain that since Jan. 7 the letter V has been very apparent in the headlines with such stories breaking as the sinking of the Victoria off the Scotland coast, the vice case of Mickey Jelke in New York, the scheduled return home of Gen. Van Fleet, the volcanic eruptions in Alaska and the recent death of Field Marshal Karl Gerd von Rundstedt in Germany.

Seas Bear Watching

His pre-writing of the news also indicated, he said, the watchful events on the seas in 1953. Since last month there have been several reports of sabotage on the high seas as well as in docks throughout the world. He specifically mentioned the fire aboard the Queen Elizabeth and the costly dock fire in Baltimore. "Crime pressure plus Red pressure started the Baltimore pier blaze," he said.

Saying that his view of the recent moon eclipse showing the first crimson eclipse, led him to believe that some disaster was near at hand and he added "we all know what happened to the beloved country of Holland a few weeks ago when the seas erupted bringing untold devastation to that country.

His warnings of the sea led Snyder to talk about the present submarine situation. He said the big hope of the United States lies in the new atomic sub. "Russia has more undersea craft than the U. S. but if the atomic sub becomes an actual reality our nation will be on top."

Comments on Rosenbergs

The local lecturer also commented on the nation's activity or the lack of it in the Rosenberg atomic spy case. He said "their death will be put down against the U. S. because of the lack of dispatch in their deaths."

Through the past administration's failure to condemn them once and for all, our nation has allowed them to be sentenced to the electric chair, whisked away and put back in jail and then face the chair again. "This is undue torture and if they should be finally put to death the act could have serious repercussions to U. S. soldiers in the event of another world conflict."

Snyder advocated punishment to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, not necessarily by death but by atomic obliteration. "They were convicted of an atomic charge and they should be sentenced to atomic obliteration. By this, their names would drop from civilization and they would be sentenced to some atomic reserve either in Alaska, Panama or Eniwetok in the Marshall Islands.

While claiming he was a great respector of the Queen of England and her loyal subjects, Snyder, however, warned that the United States in the future should be wary of British agents. "They have shown their disfaith to our country through their attacks on the U. S. and their continued shipping trade with Red China. He urged continued friendliness with British Christians but added we should be alert to British agents. "From now on we must stand on our own feet."

Snyder also touched upon the many air crashes in recent months and said that a new device, a pilot's voice, is now being experimented to help cut down the air disasters in the future.

Through this medium, he said, airplanes in trouble could relate their misfortunes through the pilot's voice and in case of a fatal crackup the voice would be available by a tape recording to help crash investigators prevent similar crashes.

Watch Four Words

Concluding his interesting talk Snyder told his audience that they should watch four particular words in the headlines of 1953—race, space, pace and grace.

He also urged the people of the country to show patience for the Eisenhower administration in Washington. "The President and his aides cannot make amends overnight for all the wrongs of the nation built up by the past administrations."

In conclusion he cautioned "watch your words for they may become the deeds of tomorrow."

Prior to Snyder's talk, a short community sing was led by Mrs. Donald E. Brown and Mrs. Albert O. Sonnenberg. Among those introduced were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, the Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor; and William W. Brady, Jr., president of the First Baptist Men's Club. Snyder was introduced by Albert Sonnenberg, program chairman.

To Conduct Meeting in City

COL. AND MRS. WILLIAM G. HARRIS

Field Secretaries Of Salvation Army To Visit Kingston

Col. and Mrs. William G. Harris, field secretaries of the 11-state Eastern Territory, Salvation Army, will conduct a meeting at the local corps center Sunday evening, March 1.

Col. Harris, who has been touring the Eastern Territory to inspect up-state corps centers, will make the Kingston stop on his way to New York. Accompanying Col. Harris will be Brigadier Emil Nelson, Capt. Dwight Schramm and their wives. Nelson is divisional commander and Schramm divisional financial secretary.

The public is cordially invited to attend the meeting which will begin at 7:45 p. m. and will feature a musical program and an address by Col. Harris.

Col. Harris, who supervises 357 corps and more than 1,000 field officers, has seen service throughout the world under the "blood and fire" flag. He was commissioned as an officer at the International Training College, London, shortly after World War 1, during which he had served in the Royal Air Force. His early assignments included work among the head-hunters of Central Celebes and among the lepers of Java, Indonesia. His duties have taken him to the countries of Scandinavia and Western Europe, as well as to all sections of the British Isles.

Born in Birmingham, England, Mrs. Harris received her training at the International Training College, London, was commissioned in 1919 and subsequently held two secretarial appointments which required extensive travel throughout Europe. Mrs. Harris served with her husband on missionary service among the lepers of Java and the head-hunters of the central Celebes. In this work she often visited with her husband districts in which no white women had traveled before. She returned to the United States in 1926. She holds the degree of bachelor of music and excels as a pianist, organist and composer.

"I was too fat to have a baby!"
Doctors say that overweight can be the sole cause of childlessness. Even 20 lbs. excess may reduce a woman's fertility. Williams Pleads Guilty to Larceny

New York, Feb. 26 (Special)—Vincent Williams, 40, of 307 Maverick road, Woodstock, originally indicted on a burglary charge, was permitted to plead guilty to a grand larceny charge by Judge Edward J. McCullen in General Sessions court Wednesday.

He was arrested last November and accused of breaking into the 11th-floor office of Irving Leib at 28 West 27th street, New York, and stealing five checks. When taken into custody, police said, he still had the checks in his possession and admitted that he gained entrance to the building through a rear window.

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Feb. 26 (AP)—The newspaper Politika said today neighboring Communist Bulgaria has set up a concentration camp holding 8,000 prisoners in Belane on the Danube river. The newspaper, official organ of President Tito's controlling party, said its account was based on information obtained from refugees. New Art Store Is Opened on Broadway

A new store handling art, craft and engineering supplies has been opened at 781 Broadway by Mrs. Lawrence Huston of Highmount.

Known as Huston's, the store will carry handicraft materials. Mrs. Huston, who has long been interested in various types of handicraft and art work, said that she would like to encourage persons with artistic interests, in any field whatsoever.

Ultimately she expects to install photostat and blueprint laboratories, kilns for pottery and ceramics, and to sponsor exhibitions of work by local artists, including special guest artist appearances, demonstrations, etc.

She has on exhibition now samples of the Gabby Hayes and Beanie wallpaper designed by Augustus Champanier, head of Saxton Fells Art School.

Says Van Fleet's Talks on Korea Could Shock U. S.

Reminding his listeners to watch the letter V and the seas in the news headlines in 1953, Frederic Snyder, local lecturer and news analyst, told the First Baptist Church Men's Club Ladies' Night gathering Wednesday night that the forthcoming testimony by Gen. James Van Fleet, former Eighth Army commander in Korea, could shock Kingston and the rest of the nation.

"If he talks upon his return to this country," Snyder said "it won't be pleasant."

Snyder said he compiled his yearly news index this year on January 7 at which time he released what words or letters would be featured in the headlines during the current year.

On that date, he said, his prewriting of the news index led him to believe that the letter V and the seas would be vital in news headlines of the year.

Snyder went on to explain that since Jan. 7 the letter V has been very apparent in the headlines with such stories breaking as the sinking of the Victoria off the Scotland coast, the vice case of Mickey Jelke in New York, the scheduled return home of Gen. Van Fleet, the volcanic eruptions in Alaska and the recent death of Field Marshal Karl Gerd von Rundstedt in Germany.

Seas Bear Watching

His pre-writing of the news also indicated, he said, the watchful events on the seas in 1953. Since last month there have been several reports of sabotage on the high seas as well as in docks throughout the world. He specifically mentioned the fire aboard the Queen Elizabeth and the costly dock fire in Baltimore. "Crime pressure plus Red pressure started the Baltimore pier blaze," he said.

Saying that his view of the recent moon eclipse showing the first crimson eclipse, led him to believe that some disaster was near at hand and he added "we all know what happened to the beloved country of Holland a few weeks ago when the seas erupted bringing untold devastation to that country.

His warnings of the sea led Snyder to talk about the present submarine situation. He said the big hope of the United States lies in the new atomic sub. "Russia has more undersea craft than the U. S. but if the atomic sub becomes an actual reality our nation will be on top."

Comments on Rosenbergs

The local lecturer also commented on the nation's activity or the lack of it in the Rosenberg atomic spy case. He said "their death will be put down against the U. S. because of the lack of dispatch in their deaths."

Through the "past administration's failure to condemn them once and for all, our nation has allowed them to be sentenced to the electric chair, whisked away and put back in jail and then face the chair again. "This is undue torture and if they should be finally put to death the act could have serious repercussions to U. S. soldiers in the event of another world conflict."

Snyder advocated punishment to Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, not necessarily by death but by atomic obliteration. "They were convicted of an atomic charge and they should be sentenced to atomic obliteration. By this, their names would drop from civilization and they would be sentenced to some atomic reserve either in Alaska, Panama or Eniwetok in the Marshall Islands.

While claiming he was a great respector of the Queen of England and her loyal subjects, Snyder, however, warned that the United States in the future should be wary of British agents. "They have shown their disfaith to our country through their attacks on the U. S. and their continued shipping trade with Red China. He urged continued friendliness with British Christians but added we should be alert to British agents. "From now on we must stand on our own feet."

Snyder also touched upon the many air crashes in recent months and said that a new device, a pilot's voice, is now being experimented to help cut down the air disasters in the future.

Through this medium, he said, airplanes in trouble could relate their misfortunes through the pilot's voice and in case of a fatal crackup the voice would be available by a tape recording to help crash investigators prevent similar crashes.

Watch Four Words

Concluding his interesting talk Snyder told his audience that they should watch four particular words in the headlines of 1953—race, space, pace and grace.

He also urged the people of the country to show patience for the Eisenhower administration in Washington. "The President and his aides cannot make amends overnight for all the wrongs of the nation built up by the past administrations."

In conclusion he cautioned "watch your words for they may become the deeds of tomorrow."

Prior to Snyder's talk, a short community sing was led by Mrs. Donald E. Brown and Mrs. Albert O. Sonnenberg. Among those introduced were Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, the Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor; and William W. Brady, Jr., president of the First Baptist Men's Club. Snyder was introduced by Albert Sonnenberg, program chairman.

COL. AND MRS. WILLIAM G. HARRIS

Field Secretaries Of Salvation Army To Visit Kingston

Col. and Mrs. William G. Harris, field secretaries of the 11-state Eastern Territory, Salvation Army, will conduct a meeting at the local corps center Sunday evening, March 1.

Col. Harris, who has been touring the Eastern Territory to inspect up-state corps centers, will make the Kingston stop on his way to New York. Accompanying Col. Harris will be Brigadier Emil Nelson, Capt. Dwight Schramm and their wives. Nelson is divisional commander and Schramm divisional financial secretary.

The public is cordially invited to attend the meeting which will begin at 7:45 p. m. and will feature a musical program and an address by Col. Harris.

Col. Harris, who supervises 357 corps and more than 1,000 field officers, has seen service throughout the world under the "blood and fire" flag. He was commissioned as an officer at the International Training College, London, shortly after World War 1, during which he had served in the Royal Air Force. His early assignments included work among the head-hunters of Central Celebes and among the lepers of Java, Indonesia. His duties have taken him to the countries of Scandinavia and Western Europe, as well as to all sections of the British Isles.

Born in Birmingham, England, Mrs. Harris received her training at the International Training College, London, was commissioned in 1919 and subsequently held two secretarial appointments which required extensive travel throughout Europe. Mrs. Harris served with her husband on missionary service among the lepers of Java and the head-hunters of the central Celebes. In this work she often visited with her husband districts in which no white women had traveled before. She returned to the United States in 1926. She holds the degree of bachelor of music and excels as a pianist, organist and composer.

Discipline's First Principle: It's 'Setting the Example'

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Usually, Carol Norman's high school Dramatic Club ignores the talents of sophomores. So when she was asked to make the display posters for the club's forthcoming show, she was deeply flattered.

Since then, poster production has been in full swing in the Norman living room. Carol spends every free moment at the card table in a welter of cardboard, paint rags, pots, brushes and glasses of smeary water. She does not clear them away at night.

At the end of last week, her mother took a deep breath and said, "Don't you think you could paint better in your bedroom, dear?"

Her obsessed child at the card table started violently. Then staring at Mrs. Norman in anguish, she wailed, "Oh, mother, no! I can't work without this north light!"

Last night, Mrs. Norman tried again. "The living room belongs to all of us, you know, Carol. Have you thought what it's like for the rest of us to live every day with a card table that looks like that?"

From the travail of her struggle to correct the blot that smudged the name of the play's leading lady, Carol emerged just long enough to cry impatiently, "Oh, mummy, hush, please. I can't talk now!"

In her nightly tub, Mrs. Norman sometimes finds she's able to think better. This time she really concentrated. And, as often happened when she did that, the concentration returned her to the First Prinple of Discipline.

So, to act upon it, she finished her bath, put on her robe, and returned to the living room.

There, she quietly gathered up a bunch of old magazines that had been accumulating. When she had deposited them on the back porch, she returned. Folding the pink bed-jacket she was crocheting for Carol's grandmother, she placed it carefully away in her work-bag. Then she emptied three ashtrays and straightened Mr. Norman's pipe rack.

As she stooped for the evening paper left crumbled beside the easy chair, Carol noted this unusual pre-bedtime activity.

"Why are you fussing so, mother?" she demanded. "It doesn't matter how the room looks tonight. Can't you straighten it up tomorrow morning?"

"No," said the parent, "I can't. I don't enjoy cleaning up when I'm tired; but I had to do it tonight to show you that it can be done. By straightening our share of this room, my dear, your mother has earned her right to tell you that you must straighten yours before you go to bed. We all want to like your posters, Carol, not be angry at them."

Then Mrs. Norman kissed her child goodnight and went to her room.

Even before she entered it the next morning, she knew that the mental and physical effort invested in Setting the Example had worked again.

Pfeiffer Discusses Patronage Angles

Washington, Feb. 26 (AP)—William L. Pfeiffer, New York state Republican chairman, has met with the state congressional delegation and assured members they would be consulted on patronage appointments.

Pfeiffer lunched with the delegation yesterday. He said House members and county chairmen would be consulted on their recommendations for a job, such as a postmastership.

If cleared by the congressman and the state committee, he said, the name then is to be relayed to Sen. Ives (R-NY) for approval. If Ives agrees, the name then goes to the national committee and to the postmaster general for nomination.

In cases where the county chairman and the congressman did not agree, Pfeiffer said, the state chairman would act as an umpire, and probably would make the final decision.

Woman's Club to Meet Thursday, March 12th

Rosendale, Feb. 26—Mrs. Arthur Mulligan, president of the Woman's Club of Rosendale, announced recently that the next meeting of the club will be held Thursday, March 12, instead of the first Thursday of the month. The place of meeting will be designated in notices mailed by the club secretary.

The club is working hard on a loan closet for the Town of Rosendale. They now have a wheel chair and crutches, and funds to purchase a bed as soon as space is located to house the various items in the closet. Members of the club have been working on this worthwhile project for some months, and when complete, the various units composing the loan closet will be available at no charge to residents of the Town of Rosendale.

Legion Session Set For March 5 at 8 P.M.

Rosendale, Feb. 26—The regular monthly meeting of Tillson-Rosendale Post, American Legion, will be held at the Legion Hall, Main street, Thursday evening, March 5, at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to attend, and to bring new members. Men who served in either World War One or World War 2, or the present Korean conflict, are eligible to join. It was announced recently that the local Legion has more than filled its quota of members.

The American Legion Post and the Rosendale Volunteer Fire Company recently jointly purchased a new collapsible wheel chair which they have donated to the town loan closet, a project sponsored by the Woman's Club of Rosendale.

Card parties are held under the auspices of the Legion at the hall the third Thursday of each month.

Rosendale Sportsmen To Hear Club Plans

Rosendale, Feb. 26—The regular monthly meeting of Rosendale Sportsmen's Club will be held Friday evening, March 5, at the Tillson fire hall. The building committee will report its progress on the location of a proposed site for erecting a clubhouse. Refreshments will be served following the business session. All members are urged to attend.

Representatives of the club attended a recent county meeting, and voted strongly against the opening of doe season in Ulster county in 1953. More details will be given at the next meeting.

Business Men to Meet

There will be election of officers at the dinner meeting of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association, Inc., Monday at 6 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel. The matter of pre-holiday store hours will be discussed, also the parking situation and the proposition of a five-day work week. Reservations must be made by February 27.

'Andor' Is Out

Atlanta, Feb. 26 (AP)—Georgia, the United States, and the English language generally will have to struggle along without a suggested new word—"andor." The Georgia House of Representatives voted to make "andor" a legal substitute for "and/or" but when the bill came up yesterday for consideration by the Senate, it was postponed indefinitely.

Four More Thefts Solved by Police

Detectives Clarence Brophy and Frank Sammons today claimed solution of four more petty thefts in the city following the questioning of four boys ranging in age from nine to 12 years old.

The four admitted taking small amounts of cash or bits of merchandise, and in some instances both, from the five places. These were the Rosenthal store on Murray street, the Walters store on Hone street, a gas station at Wurts and McEntee street, and the Gruberg electrical store on lower Broadway.

The detectives indicated that information obtained following the arrest of two boys who were found inside St. Mary's School Monday night with a flashlight, led to their picking up the other four. They will be dealt with in Children's Court.

Tax Limit Asked

Albany, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Legislature's Rules Committees have introduced a joint resolution that would urge Congress to call a constitutional convention to limit federal income tax rates. No specific limit was stated.

Three 'Chuters Injured

Camp Drum, Feb. 26 (AP)—Three paratroopers were injured slightly yesterday in a drop of 1,848 chutishts of the 82nd Airborne Division in an operation of Exercise Snowstorm. The army did not disclose the names of the injured trio, but said none was in serious condition. The jumps, made at Snow Ridge, a ski resort 28 air miles southeast of this northern New York post, were made onto a light covering of snow, officials said. They were halted at noon by high winds.

U. S. Presidents Rutherford Hayes and Andrew Jackson were born after the death of their fathers.

Wilson Prophesies 500-Billon Income

Los Angeles, Feb. 26 (AP) — Industrialist Charles E. Wilson says the United States can look forward to a 500 billion dollar economy in about 10 years.

The former president of General Electric and former war mobilization director told a news conference yesterday that he's tired of people who say our present economy, based on a 350 billion dollar national income, is a mature economy.

"It's a pioneer economy," he said. "Why, we haven't seen anything yet. If I were as young as some of you men, I could look forward to seeing a 500 billion dollar economy in our country."

Wilson said the vast increase in the production of hard goods for the armed forces is a good omen for peace.

"We are far ahead of Russia in military production, both in quantity and quality, and that's the best deterent for war I know," he said. "It's something that Stalin understands."

Wilson, now board chairman of W. R. Grace & Co., New York, also commented:

"I won't speculate, but if I were a betting man I'd bet they (Russia) haven't got the H-bomb. They apparently have fissionable material, but whether they've got the A-bomb, as we know it, I don't know."

Tillson

Tillson, Feb. 26—Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Shera and family of Garneryille were Sunday guests of Mrs. George Taylor and family.

Mrs. John Anderson and daughter Brenda of Poughkeepsie recently visited Mrs. George Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McFie and daughter Linda visited Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bagley, Jr., and family, Sunday.

The Tillson volunteer fire company was called to a grass fire opposite the home of O. Peterson. One truck and several men responded to the mid-afternoon blaze, which was extinguished before the truck arrived. This was the first alarm in several weeks.

Mrs. Rudolph Bornemann and sons Frederick and George, visited her sister in Glen Rock, N. J., over the week-end.

Miss Julia Shwarz recently visited friends in New York.

Terrence O'Donnell, attached to the USS Smalley, has returned to duty following a few days visit with friends. He recently returned from a Caribbean cruise, visiting such points as Puerto Rico, Cuba and the Virgin Islands.

The special World Day of Prayer service held Friday evening at Tillson Reformed Church was very well attended. Solos were sung by Miss Carol Clark, who sang I Walk Today Where Jesus Walked and Leslie Barringer, who sang The Light of the World Is Jesus. A total of $17 was raised for the Holland relief fund.

The Boys 4-H Club will meet Wednesday at Tillson School, with Nathaniel Phillips in charge.

The Tillson unit of the Home Bureau will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Evelyn Goss. The third lesson in woolen skirts will be studied. Miss Helen Rowe will be a special guest for the evening. Refreshments will be served.

Mr. and Mrs. L. LaSalle of Brooklyn were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Minnikine.

Mrs. Margaret Green and Miss Barbara Green of Kingston visited Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Keator Sunday.

Miss Ann Schultz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schultz, celebrated her 14th birthday on Feb. 11. A party held in her honor was attended by numerous friends.

Chinese Conserve Copper

Hong Kong (AP)—Chinese press reports say Communist authorities in Shanghai have banned the use of copper in factories making light bulgs, flashlights and bells to conserve the supply of the strategic metal for arsenals. The independent, pro-Nationalist newspaper Sing Tao Jih Pao also reports door knobs containing copper would be collected for use in war industries.

President at News Conference

President Eisenhower rubs his neck as he prepares to open his news conference in Washington. Picture-taking preceded the question-and-answer session with reporters. The President told newsmen he'd be willing to meet Prime Minister Stalin at some half-way point between Washington and Moscow, if he thought it would help the cause of world peace. (AP Wirephoto).

Worries Over Big Bill

Seneca Falls, Feb. 26 (AP)—A local bank today had back the $1,000 bill that restaurateur Frank Kukiela says "worried" him because he had asked for only $100. Kukiela returned the bill yesterday after, he said, 'it worried me all night, because I had never seen a bill that big." He said he noticed the error Tuesday after the bank had closed. He did not identify the bank in this upstate New York village.

As Pegler Sees It

India, where he set up a New Deal propaganda rag, at the invitation of the discredited Park avenue political mountebank, Ambassador Chester Bowles. The purpose was to teach the people of India the Dannenberg version of American ethics, morals and decency.

This character himself said the budget for this squandering of the taxes of the unfortunate schoolteacher whose letter forms the burden of this essay, was $1,000,000 a year. The State Department said it was $300,000. Dannenberg may have been exaggerating and the State Department trimming, each for obvious reasons. Dannenberg got $35 a day plus travel allowances, paid by the taxes and penalties of this tired old schoolma'm for his expert service in indoctrinating the Indians in the Dannenberg culture, also at her expense.

Three 'Chuters Injured

Camp Drum, Feb. 26 (AP)—Three paratroopers were injured slightly yesterday in a drop of 1,848 chutishts of the 82nd Airborne Division in an operation of Exercise Snowstorm. The army did not disclose the names of the injured trio, but said none was in serious condition. The jumps, made at Snow Ridge, a ski resort 28 air miles southeast of this northern New York post, were made onto a light covering of snow, officials said. They were halted at noon by high winds.

U. S. Presidents Rutherford Hayes and Andrew Jackson were born after the death of their fathers.

Wilson Prophesies 500-Billon Income

Los Angeles, Feb. 26 (AP) — Industrialist Charles E. Wilson says the United States can look forward to a 500 billion dollar economy in about 10 years.

The former president of General Electric and former war mobilization director told a news conference yesterday that he's tired of people who say our present economy, based on a 350 billion dollar national income, is a mature economy.

"It's a pioneer economy," he said. "Why, we haven't seen anything yet. If I were as young as some of you men, I could look forward to seeing a 500 billion dollar economy in our country."

Wilson said the vast increase in the production of hard goods for the armed forces is a good omen for peace.

"We are far ahead of Russia in military production, both in quantity and quality, and that's the best deterent for war I know," he said. "It's something that Stalin understands."

Wilson, now board chairman of W. R. Grace & Co., New York, also commented:

"I won't speculate, but if I were a betting man I'd bet they (Russia) haven't got the H-bomb. They apparently have fissionable material, but whether they've got the A-bomb, as we know it, I don't know."

President at News Conference

President Eisenhower rubs his neck as he prepares to open his news conference in Washington. Picture-taking preceded the question-and-answer session with reporters. The President told newsmen he'd be willing to meet Prime Minister Stalin at some half-way point between Washington and Moscow, if he thought it would help the cause of world peace. (AP Wirephoto).

Worries Over Big Bill

Seneca Falls, Feb. 26 (AP)—A local bank today had back the $1,000 bill that restaurateur Frank Kukiela says "worried" him because he had asked for only $100. Kukiela returned the bill yesterday after, he said, 'it worried me all night, because I had never seen a bill that big." He said he noticed the error Tuesday after the bank had closed. He did not identify the bank in this upstate New York village.

As Pegler Sees It

India, where he set up a New Deal propaganda rag, at the invitation of the discredited Park avenue political mountebank, Ambassador Chester Bowles. The purpose was to teach the people of India the Dannenberg version of American ethics, morals and decency.

This character himself said the budget for this squandering of the taxes of the unfortunate schoolteacher whose letter forms the burden of this essay, was $1,000,000 a year. The State Department said it was $300,000. Dannenberg may have been exaggerating and the State Department trimming, each for obvious reasons. Dannenberg got $35 a day plus travel allowances, paid by the taxes and penalties of this tired old schoolma'm for his expert service in indoctrinating the Indians in the Dannenberg culture, also at her expense.

Chinese Conserve Copper

Hong Kong (AP)—Chinese press reports say Communist authorities in Shanghai have banned the use of copper in factories making light bulgs, flashlights and bells to conserve the supply of the strategic metal for arsenals. The independent, pro-Nationalist newspaper Sing Tao Jih Pao also reports door knobs containing copper would be collected for use in war industries.

Why We Say--

. . . First salesmen

At one time it was the custom for a salesman to beat a drum or ring a bell upon reaching a town. When a crowd gathered he would tell the story of his product and make sales.

Rotary Honors Arthur G. Carr

Arthur G. Carr, Kingston Rotary Club's lone charter member, was honored by his fellow Rotarians at the luncheon-meeting held Wednesday at the Hotel Stuyvesant. President Ernest Steuding presented him with a citation, which expressed the esteem of the club.

Rotarian Carr was one of the founders of the Kingston Rotary Club in 1916 and has been an active member down through the 37 years.

A representative of the New York State Association for Crippled Children outlined the work of the association and explained how the funds raised through the Easter Seal are expended.

The funds maintain in part or full 20 service projects and rehabilitation centers in the state. Last year Easter Seals made possible treatment and training for more than 10,000 handicapped children and adults. The Easter Seal contributions also made possible 27,543 physical therapy treatments, 16,034 speech therapy sessions, 3,002 medical examinations and 1,901 functional therapy sessions.

Accused Japs Face Trial

Sao Paulo, Brazil (AP)—One hundred fifty-four Japanese, all accused of Brazilian security violation during World War 2, still must stand trial, although a new law has supplanted the one under which they were indicted, a criminal courts judge here has ruled. Defense attorneys had sought to have the charges quashed, arguing that the old law no longer could apply. The cases have been pending since 1944-45. The government claims that the Japanese, members of the secret society Shindo-Remei, sought to intimidate other Japanese into supporting the empire's war aims.

To Hold Blood Bank At Firehouse Friday

New Paltz, Feb. 25—The blood bank which is to be held at the firehouse on Friday, Feb. 27, is sponsored by the firemen of the Town of New Paltz. The bloodmobile will not be there. This is a local bank to be kept in Kingston and used for Town of New Paltz residents only. The firemen hope to have 40 pints donated to the bank on Friday as the supply is almost exhausted. Arthur Pritchet is chairman and you may call him if you can give a pint.

Village Board Holds Its Monthly Meeting

New Paltz, Feb. 25—The village board held its regular monthly meeting at the municipal building Monday. All members were present. Treasurer Frank V. Slack reported that water bills past due amounted to $750 and the board voted to send notices to those in arrears for the past quarter (more than 60 days)—notices to shut off services unless paid. Slack said that some of the taxes on property had been paid since public notices were published last week.

New rates for electric services were sent to the board by Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corp. The new rate will not be effective until the present contract expires but on the period from Dec. 1, 1953 to June 1, 1954 which will need to be included in the new budget, the increase for street lighting will be approximately $260. Notice was being given so that it could be included in the new budget.

Gregory Rheude brought up the need for street lights on the northern limits of North Chestnut street. Two lights are to be placed, one near Van Gonsic's garage and one by the Ashton property.

A preliminary budget will be prepared for the first week in April. The public hearing which is an annual meeting will be held on April 6. The second meeting that month will be the regular monthly meeting (the last Monday of the month) April 27 when the budget is adopted.

Clerk Fredenburgh called attention to the fact that money to pay on the $9,000 bond, not due until Oct. 1953, had been already raised by taxes. First bond due is $1,800 and $2,025 has been raised. This amount is frozen and can only be used for the bond. Anticipatory notes were voted but the bonds were not sold until after the fiscal year started.

Signs have been placed along the business streets announcing the one hour parking regulation. Residents are reminded that the regulations will be enforced. Congestion has made it necessary to regulate parking. There are two parking lots around the municipal building which will accommodate approximately 100 cars. Parking on Plattekill avenue will be restricted to one side only, at certain places to be measured and marked by signs near Main. On the curve by Osterhoudt's property there will be no parking on either side. A sign is to be placed on Academy street to show one-way traffic as one enters Church street. On Church street to Academy there will be one hour parking on both sides. From Academy to North Front parking will be allowed on the west side only.

The village trucks will all have to be marked by three-inch letters showing the weight as required by a new state law. The weight of the truck, the weight plus load and the maximum must all be indicated, Supt. of Public Works Sutherland reported.

Mayor Reid said that the delay on the pump house for the water will be ended on Thursday. The consulting engineer Mr. McCaffery said Mr. Grunner will move his equipment here on Thursday to hook up the wells to the main line at the pump house. The delay was due to illness and absence.

Mrs. John Jacobson and Mrs. Leonard O'Hara were visitors to the board meeting. Mrs. Jacobson extended an invitation to the board members to attend an open meeing of the League of Women Voters Thursday, Feb. 26, 8 p. m. in the municipal building to hear Dr. Edgar Beebe speak on The Assessor's Job.

Fredenburgh Explains Caucus Operation

New Paltz, Feb. 25—Winning at the New Paltz village caucus is tantamount to election, it is said. How the caucus operates is not generally understood. Village Clerk Wilbur Fredenburgh explains it this way. Any two people may call a caucus. In this case the mayor and two trustees who are up for reelection made the request that a caucus be held for the People's Party. The caucus will be held at the municipal building March 3, 8 p. m. The election will be on March 17 two weeks later.

Other candidates have announced their intention of seeking election. These candidates must be nominated and seconded at the caucus and 50 names of eligible voters presented at the caucus supporting them. If the candidates are satisfied with the results of the caucus they must then present a petition of 50 additional names to have their names appear on the ballot. They may not be the names signed to the petition at the caucus. In the event that a candidate does not make a satisfactory showing at the caucus he does not petition to appear on the ballot.

Announces Candidacy Against Mayor Reid

New Paltz, Feb. 25—Jesse C. Pilch has announced that he will seek the office of mayor in opposition to Dr. Robert Reid the incumbent. Robert Jansen is running against the incumbent Gregory Rheude and Marinus Petersen seeks the trusteeship held at present by Roland Will. While other names have been spoken of as possible candidates no other candidates have publicly announced their candidacy. Fredenburgh said he was not running for mayor.

The village caucus is not of a partisan nature. Arthur Jorgensen, chairman of the Democratic Club steering committee, said that the organization is too new to be in a position to endorse any candidate and did not wish to suggest any changes in the non-partisan nature of the village caucus at this time.

The Holland relief offering amounted to $59.96.

The Wurlitzer organ, placed in the church for a trial by the Poughkeepsie Music Shop, will be there Sunday. The committee, Clifford Hotaling, chairman; William Topping, choir leader; Mrs. George Boyce, organist; and Mrs. Edwin Nelson would like to have an expression of opinion concerning organs heard on trial.

A large attendance was at the union Lenten services held in the New Hurley Church on Sunday evening. The guest minister, the Rev. Peter Vanden Berge, delivered an interesting sermon. The offering amounted to $100.53. Sunday evening, March 1, the union Lenten services will be held in Shawangunk Reformed Church with the Rev. Lester Alberts as the guest minister.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet Wednesday, March 4, at 2:30 p. m. at the parsonage.

The Young People will attend the union Lenten services as a group each Sunday evening during Lent.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pope of Newark, N. J., spent Monday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Denniston and family.

Mrs. Elsie Baker and niece of Marlborough were recent callers at the home of their cousins Mr. and Mrs. Roy Denniston.

A fine baked ham supper was served by the men of the church at the church hall on Monday evening with Charles Garrison as chairman and Laurence Dolan as assistant. The young men acted as waiters.

There were no suspensions in the Kingston area, but four Ulster county drivers, two from the city, suffered revocation of their licenses, according to Macduff.

The four were:

Elron Pray, 25, of 179 Green street, for driving while intoxicated.

Robert Saulpaugh, 25, 136 Second avenue, for leaving the scene of an accident.

John J. Mckilligan, 22, Box 32, Tillson, for driving while intoxicated.

Roger A. Boyce, 30, New Paltz road, Highland, for driving while intoxicated.

There were no suspensions in the Kingston area, but four Ulster county drivers, two from the city, suffered revocation of their licenses, according to Macduff.

The four were:

Elron Pray, 25, of 179 Green street, for driving while intoxicated.

Robert Saulpaugh, 25, 136 Second avenue, for leaving the scene of an accident.

John J. Mckilligan, 22, Box 32, Tillson, for driving while intoxicated.

Roger A. Boyce, 30, New Paltz road, Highland, for driving while intoxicated.

Macduff said a list would be issued twice a month "in the interests of safe driving and as an aid to enforcement."

State Tax Help To Be Provided

Assistance with state income tax problems will be available at the county court house from March 24 through April 15, George P. Klein, director of the Income Tax Bureau, announced today.

Tax experts will be available for similar service in cities throughout the state and examiners will also be available at the state office building in Albany.

State income tax returns and payments are due on or before April 15 from single persons, who had net income and net capital gain of $1,000 or more in 1952, and from married couples, who had joint net income and net capital gain of $2,500 or more last year.

The rate of tax on 1952 returns is pending. Gov. Dewey has recommended that the tax be continued at 90 per cent of the normal rate as last year.

Klein urges taxpayers to make full use of the free service given by the state tax men.

Taxpayers Must Send Enough

Albany, Feb. 26 (AP) — Some early fliers of 1952 state income tax returns will be billed to increase their initial payments—because they are disregarding a new law on installment amounts.

The State Tax Commission today reminded taxpayers that the law, effective on returns due April 15, raised the minimum first installment from $5 to $10.

If the state tax is $10 or less the entire amount must be paid when the return is filed.

If the tax is $40 or more, it may be paid in four equal installments. If it is more than $10, but less than $40, it may be paid in installments, but no installment except the last may be less than $10.

The new law also changes payment dates for the third and fourth installments from Oct. 15 to Nov. 15 and from Jan. 15 to Feb. 15, respectively. The initial payments date of April 15 and the date for the second installment, July 15, are unchanged.

Leopards normally fear as well as detest man and will avoid his company whenever possible.

Girl Helps Fight Drugs

Los Angeles, Feb. 26 (AP)—Narcotics enforcement officers, fortified with revelations of a girl former addict who became an undercover operative, kept a stepped up drive against the dope traffic in high gear today. In the last 24 hours there have been nine arrests of suspected narcotics users. Among them was a 16-year-old Compton girl turned over to officers by her father. She told police she had been smoking marijuana the last four months. The heroin heroine of the current campaign is Patricia Williams, 19, of Pasadena, who gave herself up to police to rid herself of the habit. Dist. Atty. Ernest Roll said she then worked undercover to break up a million dollar international auto theft ring which paid drivers of stolen cars with heroin in Mexico.

Marsh Sculptures Fountain of Youth Story in Florida

Woodstock, Feb. 26—Fred Dana Marsh, noted sculptor and painter, and summer resident of this village, is at present completing an ambitious piece of sculpture titled Tomokie slated to be placed in Tomoka State Park, Daytona Beach, Fla. The statue, which will tell the whole story of the Fountain of Youth, will be 45 feet tall. Marsh has been working on the project at his home and studio in Orlando for the past three years.

Recently, Marsh was the subject of a feature story by Robert Vance in the Daytona Beach Morning Journal, who reported that the sculptor "has taken large quantities of 'local mud' and breathed life into the most fascinating of all Florida legends—the fountain of youth.

Story Was Inspiration

"Under Marsh's creative hands, Tomokie, the giant Indian chief, has emerged from the mists of dim remembrance to a stately figure 15 feet high — unquestionably a monarch.

"The artist's inspiration for the project stemmed from what is believed to be one of the first, if not the first, published accounts expounding the origin of the fountain by Mrs. Mary Boyd, now of Flagler Beach.

"One time long ago, the Indians regarded a certain spring of water with lots of superstition. They thought a messenger of the Great White Spirit went to this spring at dusk daily to drink of this 'water of life', venerated for its healing powers.

"What made the water so potent was the dew from the messenger's wings falling into the spring.

"Into this pleasant arrangement steps Tomokie, who's actually both villian and hero of the piece.

"Well, Tomokie wouldn't have any truck with what he thought was absolute nonsense.

"The Chief of the Caribs went too far, though when he unceremoniously seized the sacred cup at the springs never before touched by human hands, and ceremoniously drank from it.

"So infuriated by this act were the superstitious Seeloose and Yotameto tribes that they at once waged war with the Caribs.

"Tomokie led the Caribs, and Mrs. Boyd says, 'every bow and arrow of the combined Seeloose and Yotametoes seemed aimed at him.'

Chief Is Slain

"But into the fray springs the beauteous Oleeta, a Seeloose maiden, who unlooses an arrow at the great chief, piercing him in the heart, dead center.

"Determined to carry the thing through, Oleeta rushes forward and grabs the cup from the fallen Tomokie, only to get hit herself with an arrow dipped in poison. She falls dead, still clutching the sacred relic .

"But so worked up did Seeloose and Yametoes get at this that they did not desist in their annihilation designs until every last one of the hated Caribs lay dead.

"Oleeta was buried in state near the spring and it's believed that a certain tribe of Florida Indians still have the cup that caused it all in their possession.

"As for Tomokie, Mrs. Boyd says his remains were unearthed many years ago on Anastasis Island, off St. Augustine.

"And that, in brief, is how Marsh came to undertake the statue which in its finished form will include the bodies of Oleeta and other principal persons of the drama, as well as the cup and other utensils involved.

"Marsh says the Tomokie figure had to be designed in 10 separate blocks. They are all held together by gravity. There are no metal fastenings.

"Marsh did everything with his own hands, as no molds were ever made.

"The red skin of the 650 pound giant is done in terrazzo chips held together with dried mud from Tomoka river.

"Tomokie's belt was made from shells gathered from the beach.

"Marsh is doing it all for $10,000. Dirt cheap, for as he says, if he were doing it strictly on a commercial basis, the work would have cost 10 times that much.

Can Be Exploited

"But Marsh is far from blind to the monetary gain to be derived from the development of Tomoka State Park, captivated as he is by the beauty of Florida and its fascinating history.

"As he once pointed out to members of the State Board of Parks, 'we who are so fortunate as to live in the region where this (Fountain of Youth) drama enacted, have never exploited its monumental value, either as a motive for the arts or as a superb business proposition. . . . I fear the good people of this community do not realize the neglect and waste of this noble region. . . .'

"It was with all this in mind that Marsh undertook the project. Moreover, he fears inroads of the 'beer garden' type of attraction, which could deface the region.

"And it was also with this in mind that the Advisory Council of Tomoka State Park has been laboring for years to develop the area commensurate with the historical importance of what Marsh calls 'Tomoka—a world apart.'"

Divine Orders His Followers Off Pike

Philadelphia, Feb. 26 (AP)—Negro religious leader Father Divine, self-styled god and director of a network of "heavens" has ordered his followers to boycott the New Jersey Turnpike.

In a statement issued by a spokesman at his headquarters here last night, Divine said his ban resulted from "the rude and discourteous treatment and a complete lack of recognition" by an officer who stopped Divine's chauffeur-driven limousine last Friday.

The state policeman charged Divine's driver with violating the Turnpike's 60-mile per hour speed limit and the religious leader said he paid "under stern protest" a fine of $15 for each of four cars in his caravan making a trip from Newark, N. J., to Philadelphia.

Police Checking Baby Smuggling

Toronto, Feb. 26 (AP)—Canadian and American authorities today investigated an alleged baby adoption racket that police said may have arranged the smuggling of hundreds of infants into the United States in the past year.

Announcing the probe into a baby farm reported operating here for would-be parents unwilling to wait out the long process of legal adoption, police said last night that at least 20 babies have been smuggled across the U. S. border from Toronto in the last three months.

The investigation was touched off with the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shinder, both 29, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The couple, carrying a five-day-old boy who police said was not their own, was taken off a New York-bound plane yesterday at Toronto's Malton Airport.

Charge Certificate Fraud

They were held under $5,000 bail on charges of obtaining a birth certificate by fraud.

Police said the baby with them was born last Friday in St. Mary's Hospital. Its mother left the hospital without her child but the baby was taken out Tuesday and registered the same day at city hall by a man and women.

Say Doctor Is Involved

Authorities said they had evidence that a Toronto doctor and four or five other persons were involved in the suspected baby farm. They added that they believed headquarters of the ring were in the U. S.

Detectives said forged birth certificates were furnished the pseudo-parents. Findings so far indicate the ring's price was $250 per baby, male or female, authorities said.

FBI agents, who are cooperating with Canadian police, said they believe New York city is the center of the organization which arranges sale and delivery of Canadian-born infants.

Toronto police said they believed further arrests will be made as more details are uncovered.

They said the alleged racket works this way: U. S. couples who want a child without going through a long process of legal adoption are approached by representatives of a Toronto baby market and directed here. Forged birth certificates are supplied to the pseudo-parents, the authorities said.

Girl Helps Fight Drugs

Los Angeles, Feb. 26 (AP)—Narcotics enforcement officers, fortified with revelations of a girl former addict who became an undercover operative, kept a stepped up drive against the dope traffic in high gear today. In the last 24 hours there have been nine arrests of suspected narcotics users. Among them was a 16-year-old Compton girl turned over to officers by her father. She told police she had been smoking marijuana the last four months. The heroin heroine of the current campaign is Patricia Williams, 19, of Pasadena, who gave herself up to police to rid herself of the habit. Dist. Atty. Marsh Sculptures Fountain of Youth Story in Florida

Woodstock, Feb. 26—Fred Dana Marsh, noted sculptor and painter, and summer resident of this village, is at present completing an ambitious piece of sculpture titled Tomokie slated to be placed in Tomoka State Park, Daytona Beach, Fla. The statue, which will tell the whole story of the Fountain of Youth, will be 45 feet tall. Marsh has been working on the project at his home and studio in Orlando for the past three years.

Recently, Marsh was the subject of a feature story by Robert Vance in the Daytona Beach Morning Journal, who reported that the sculptor "has taken large quantities of 'local mud' and breathed life into the most fascinating of all Florida legends—the fountain of youth.

Story Was Inspiration

"Under Marsh's creative hands, Tomokie, the giant Indian chief, has emerged from the mists of dim remembrance to a stately figure 15 feet high — unquestionably a monarch.

"The artist's inspiration for the project stemmed from what is believed to be one of the first, if not the first, published accounts expounding the origin of the fountain by Mrs. Mary Boyd, now of Flagler Beach.

"One time long ago, the Indians regarded a certain spring of water with lots of superstition. They thought a messenger of the Great White Spirit went to this spring at dusk daily to drink of this 'water of life', venerated for its healing powers.

"What made the water so potent was the dew from the messenger's wings falling into the spring.

"Into this pleasant arrangement steps Tomokie, who's actually both villian and hero of the piece.

"Well, Tomokie wouldn't have any truck with what he thought was absolute nonsense.

"The Chief of the Caribs went too far, though when he unceremoniously seized the sacred cup at the springs never before touched by human hands, and ceremoniously drank from it.

"So infuriated by this act were the superstitious Seeloose and Yotameto tribes that they at once waged war with the Caribs.

"Tomokie led the Caribs, and Mrs. Boyd says, 'every bow and arrow of the combined Seeloose and Yotametoes seemed aimed at him.'

Chief Is Slain

"But into the fray springs the beauteous Oleeta, a Seeloose maiden, who unlooses an arrow at the great chief, piercing him in the heart, dead center.

"Determined to carry the thing through, Oleeta rushes forward and grabs the cup from the fallen Tomokie, only to get hit herself with an arrow dipped in poison. She falls dead, still clutching the sacred relic.

"But so worked up did Seeloose and Yametoes get at this that they did not desist in their annihilation designs until every last one of the hated Caribs lay dead.

"Oleeta was buried in state near the spring and it's believed that a certain tribe of Florida Indians still have the cup that caused it all in their possession.

"As for Tomokie, Mrs. Boyd says his remains were unearthed many years ago on Anastasis Island, off St. Augustine.

"And that, in brief, is how Marsh came to undertake the statue which in its finished form will include the bodies of Oleeta and other principal persons of the drama, as well as the cup and other utensils involved.

"Marsh says the Tomokie figure had to be designed in 10 separate blocks. They are all held together by gravity. There are no metal fastenings.

"Marsh did everything with his own hands, as no molds were ever made.

"The red skin of the 650 pound giant is done in terrazzo chips held together with dried mud from Tomoka river.

"Tomokie's belt was made from shells gathered from the beach.

"Marsh is doing it all for $10,000. Dirt cheap, for as he says, if he were doing it strictly on a commercial basis, the work would have cost 10 times that much.

Can Be Exploited

"But Marsh is far from blind to the monetary gain to be derived from the development of Tomoka State Park, captivated as he is by the beauty of Florida and its fascinating history.

"As he once pointed out to members of the State Board of Parks, 'we who are so fortunate as to live in the region where this (Fountain of Youth) drama enacted, have never exploited its monumental value, either as a motive for the arts or as a superb business proposition. . . . I fear the good people of this community do not realize the neglect and waste of this noble region. . . .'

"It was with all this in mind that Marsh undertook the project. Moreover, he fears inroads of the 'beer garden' type of attraction, which could deface the region.

"And it was also with this in mind that the Advisory Council of Tomoka State Park has been laboring for years to develop the area commensurate with the historical importance of what Marsh calls 'Tomoka—a world apart.'"

Alma Louise Brown Weds J. A. McCormick In Wallkill Church

Miss Alma Louise Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles White of Wallkill, was married to James Arthur McCormick of Mobile, Ala., Sunday afternoon, Feb. 15, in St. Benedict's Church, Wallkill. The Rev. William O'Brien performed the double ring ceremony. A reception was held at the home of the bride.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride wore a white ballerina length gown, having a long sleeved jacket and nylon tulle skirt trimmed with lace. Her shoulder-length Chantilly lace veil was attached to a sweetheart-type headpiece of satin, sequins and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds, stephanotis, and bits of blue lace.

Mrs. Doris Ross was her sister's matron of honor. She was attired in a blue lace ballerina length gown, and a pink headpiece. She carried pink rosebuds and carnations.

John Repke was best man. Serving as ushers were Donald Ross of Miami, Fla., and Jack Ross, Jr., Wallkill.

The bride was graduated from Wallkill Central School, and joined the Women's Army Corps, in October, 1949. Following her basic training at Fort Lee, Va., she was assigned as an office clerk. In November, 1951, she went overseas to Salzburg, Austria, where she served until her discharge at Camp Kilmer in January, this year.

The bridegroom attended McGill High School, Mobile, Ala., and entered service in 1949. After completing basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C., he was assigned to duty at Camp Roeder, Austria, and served as tank commander with the 350th Infantry. He returned to the United States in January and received his discharge at Fort Jackson.

The couple left for a wedding trip to New York city, and Mobile, Ala., where they will make their home.

Mrs. McCormick is the daughter of the former Miss Annabelle Crans of New Paltz.

SURELY NOT NEGLECTED

A reader tells me: "My mother-in-law, who lives with us, has been seriously ill, and still is. And now comes a dance on the social calendar that is the biggest affair of the year in this town. My husband and I would like to go but wonder if people will criticize us unpleasantly for taking part in any frivolity under the circumstances."

I cannot imagine that anyone will criticize you for going to this especial dance. I, of course, take it for granted that you are leaving your mother-in-law in the care of one who is thoroughly capable.

Build-Up of Approval

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please set me straight on this matter? I am a widow in the mid-forties. I live alone in a three-room apartment. Last Sunday afternoon a man friend took me for a drive in his car. We got back to my house about six and I asked him to come in for a bite to eat. He stayed until about 10 o'clock and left. I've been told by a friend that such behavior was improper and would lead to unpleasant gossip.

Answer: What one can do really depends very much upon the reputation that one has built up for oneself. If you are a highly respected person in your community, I see no evidence of impropriety in having a man friend spend an occasional evening with you.

Where Does He Sit?

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband has been asked to give his niece in marriage (her father is dead). After he gives her away, where does he sit—in the front pew beside the bride's mother, or next to me?

Answer: Usually he sits next to the bride's mother, but this is not a definite rule.

The Name Parents Prefer

Dear Mrs. Post: My little girl's name is Mary Margaret and I would like everyone to call her that. But invariably they say Mary without the Margaret. Is there some way we can impress her name on them?

Answer: If you yourselves always speak of her as Mary Margaret, it is most likely that in time everyone will do the same.

What entertainment should take place at a housewarming or "open house" party? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-28 suggests a tea, cocktail party, or a buffet supper. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, c/o The Freeman, P.O. ABC Standings Due For Change Today

Chicago, Feb. 26 (AP)—The team standings in the ABC appear in for a reshuffling today as bowling's world series enters its sixth day of competition in the Chicago Coliseum.

Going to the firing line tonight are three clubs whose league marks warrant them a fine chance of overtaking the leaders, Howard Sales, of Minneapolis. The Minneapolis five took over the top spot Sunday with 2961.

One of the teams is WXYZ-TV, of Detroit, which finished sixth last year at Milwaukee with 3004. And has an average of 995, second highest to hit the ABC lanes thus far.

The other two of the select trio are Greenfield Arcade, of Milwaukee, 970, and Right-Way Pin Co., of Berwyn, Ill., 950.

All all, there'll be 120 teams going to the line today, half of them working in the booster division. There also will be the customary three squads of singles and doubles during the day.

Davis Gains Split Win, Wants Crack at Title

St. Louis, Feb. 26 (AP)—Teddy (Red Top) Davis, having shown Charley Riley why he is ranked No. 5 among the featherweights, now wants to get at Percy Bassett or Sandy Saddler.

Saddler, the official featherweight champion now in the army, can come later, says Davis.

The Hartford, Conn., scrapper didn't have too much trouble with Riley, a St. Louisan who had questioned his own National Boxing Association ninth-place ranking as compared to the fifth spot awarded Davis. Yet Davis didn't have much room to spare in winning the rubber match in three fights with Riley.

The two judges gave the fight to Davis. Howard Hess saw it 52-48 while Fred Connell had it 51-49. Referee Jim Parker, however, held out for Riley, 51-49.

Long Hitters Favorites

Houston, Feb. 26 (AP)—Long hitters were favorites today as the $20,000 Houston Open golf tournament got off to a soggy start over the water-logged Memorial Park course. One of the finest collections of professional golfers assembled since last year's National Open was among the field of 150 competitors. Except for the 53 lesser-knowns who qualified Tuesday, few had had an opportunity to get as much as nine holes of practice on the 7150-yard, par 72 municipal course. Rain kept the sprawling layout closed Monday and most of yesterday.

Yanks to Try Again Today To Break Holdout Log Jam

(By The Associated Press)

Smooth talking Roy Hamey goes to bat for the second time today in his efforts to break the log jam of New York Yankee holdouts.

Hamey connected on four for five in his first attempt Tuesday when he got agreements from Allie Reynolds, Hank Bauer, Mickey Mantle and Joe Collins.

His only failure was Eddie Lopat and Lopat is first on his list today.

Wants Straight Contract

The Yankees want Lopat to sign a provisional contract calling for a maximum 25 per cent cut in his 1952 figure of $28,000. If he can show that he has regained his old form they'll pay him $28,000 again. Lopat wants a pact without the ifs and ands.

Hamey also plans to try his luck with Vic Raschi, who pulled down $40,000 last season, and outfielder Gene Woodling

Woodling was hanging around yesterday waiting to talk with Hamey only to discover the money man was out of town. Gene is expected to come in easy.

Others still on the Yankees' unsigned list are Phil Rizzuto, who like Raschi drew $40,000 last season; pitcher Whitey Ford; first baseman Johnny Mize; second baseman Billy Martin, and infielder Kal Segrist.

Trade Rumors Fly

Segrist's name figured yesterday in trade rumors at the Clearwater, Fla., camp of the Philadelphia Phils. The word was that the Phils are trying to get waivers on first sacker Eddie Waitkus in order to ship him to the Yankees. The Phils are supposed to be interested in Segrist and Andy Carey and Bill Skowron, a couple of other Yankee youngsters. Carey is an infielder, Skowron an outfielder.

Cleveland reduced its holdout ranks to six with the signing of pitcher Lou Brissie but the absentees include such vital regulars as pitchers Bob Lemon, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia; outfielder Larry Doby, and second baseman Bob Avila.

Manager Paul Richards picked three White Sox pitchers for the first spring exhibition series with the Chicago Cubs a week from Saturday. The three are Tommy Byrne, who toiled for the St. Louis Browns last season, Lou Kretlow and Harry Dorish.

Sicklers Oust Villagers; Rec Finals Slated Monday

Five Berths Remain for Tourneys

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—There are only five spots still open in the two major post-season basketball tournaments with the National Invitation competition needing four to complete its 12-team bracket and the NCAA one for a 22-team affair.

Of course, there is the matter of 12 conference championships that will need be decided before the actual lineup for the NCAA tourney is completed. But the NCAA officials are not concerned since the conference titleholders automatically qualify for the championship play opening March 9. NIT play gets underway in Madison Square Garden, March 7.

Acceptance yesterday by St. John's of Brooklyn and the formal announcement that Tulsa will join the Garden brigade brought the NIT field to eight. The octet also includes unbeaten Seton Hall, the nation's top ranking team; La Salle's defending champions; Manhattan; Western Kentucky; Louisville and Duquesne.

Field Gets Smaller

The group from which the NIT hopes to get the remaining four drew smaller as Oklahoma City accepted an invitation from the NCAA and promptly was passed through the preliminary round into the first round of the regional play against the Big Seven winner at Manhattan, Kans., March 13. Oklahoma City then went out and beat Creighton, 79-58, for a 16-4 record.

Villanova turned down a bid and reports had Holy Cross as the most probable choice to represent the New England area in the NCAA. But Coach Eddie Hickey announced his St. Louis Billikins had received an invite to the NIT after they beat Tulsa 63-56. Hickey said university officials had taken no action as yet on the invitation.

For its remaining choices the NIT was expected to dig into a dwindling group that includes Georgetown, Niagara, Iona of New Rochelle.

Skyline Is Watched

The NIT also is interested in the runner-up in the Skyline Conference, Wyoming or Brigham Young, and the second team in the Southwest Conference, Rice or Texas.

Oklahoma City's decision to cast its lot with the NCAA left only one at-large team to be selected from the west—the one which will oppose the Border Conference champion in the preliminary round. The team probably will be Santa Clara or San Francisco. They meet Saturday.

Hialeah Records Seen

Miami, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—With favorable weather in prospect, Hialeah race course officials expect a record Flamingo Day Saturday—on both sides of the rail. Twenty-three thoroughbreds are regarded as prospective starters for the $100,000 added mile and a furlong Flamingo stakes for three-year-olds and the starting field probably will be between 16 and 20—largest since the race was first run in 1926. A crowd of 33,000 is expected, well ahead of the 32,209 who saw the race last year.

Sickler's Delivery and St. Joseph's will meet in the finals of the Recreation Senior League Shaughnessy playoffs next Monday night at the MJM School court.

St. Joseph's, meanwhile, earned the right to appear in the post-season playoffs with their second straight victory over the Violets Monday night. Sicklers had tied the series with the Villagers Monday night with a 62 to 58 triumph.

Both Sicklers and the Villagers played excellent ball for three periods last night, Sicklers holding a five-point edge at the quarter. The Villagers were on top by three at the half and Sicklers fought back taking a one-point margin of victory going into the final stanza.

The score see-sawed throughout the game but in the final chapter Ron Kozlowski cut loose for 15 points and settled the dispute for Sicklers. Kozlowski did a yoeman's job under the boards, going in for layups or following his teammates' shots and converting them into deuces.

Van Bramer Scores 21

Vince Van Bramer of the Villagers was high man in the game with 21 points. He was particularly effective from the foul line where he converted seven out of seven tries.

Herm Sickler and Bob Bondar kept the Deliverymen in the game in the first three quarters with their stellar performances. Sickler scored from the side court and converted layups that even some of the better pros cast an envious eye. Bondar did another of his outstanding jobs off the boards while scoring 19 points. Eddie Van Loan had 12 for the Village five while Vince Ward and Don Ferraro each furnished nine points apiece for the losers.

Monday's final series between Sicklers and St. Joseph's will start at 8:15 p. m. in the MJM gym in the first of a best two out of three series. Village Rest and the Violets will meet in a consolation game at 7:15 p. m.

These two young ski enthusiasts captured a pair of victories in last weekend's area skiing competition. Thirteen-year-old Caroline Draper, left, of the Belleayre Ski Club, won the women's division of the fifth annual Catskill Mountain downhill race at Highmount and took the girls' trophy for first place in the junior giant slalom race at Belleayre. ABC Standings Due For Change Today

Chicago, Feb. 26 (AP)—The team standings in the ABC appear in for a reshuffling today as bowling's world series enters its sixth day of competition in the Chicago Coliseum.

Going to the firing line tonight are three clubs whose league marks warrant them a fine chance of overtaking the leaders, Howard Sales, of Minneapolis. The Minneapolis five took over the top spot Sunday with 2961.

One of the teams is WXYZ-TV, of Detroit, which finished sixth last year at Milwaukee with 3004. And has an average of 995, second highest to hit the ABC lanes thus far.

The other two of the select trio are Greenfield Arcade, of Milwaukee, 970, and Right-Way Pin Co., of Berwyn, Ill., 950.

All all, there'll be 120 teams going to the line today, half of them working in the booster division. There also will be the customary three squads of singles and doubles during the day.

Davis Gains Split Win, Wants Crack at Title

St. Louis, Feb. 26 (AP)—Teddy (Red Top) Davis, having shown Charley Riley why he is ranked No. 5 among the featherweights, now wants to get at Percy Bassett or Sandy Saddler.

Saddler, the official featherweight champion now in the army, can come later, says Davis.

The Hartford, Conn., scrapper didn't have too much trouble with Riley, a St. Louisan who had questioned his own National Boxing Association ninth-place ranking as compared to the fifth spot awarded Davis. Yet Davis didn't have much room to spare in winning the rubber match in three fights with Riley.

The two judges gave the fight to Davis. Howard Hess saw it 52-48 while Fred Connell had it 51-49. Referee Jim Parker, however, held out for Riley, 51-49.

Long Hitters Favorites

Houston, Feb. 26 (AP)—Long hitters were favorites today as the $20,000 Houston Open golf tournament got off to a soggy start over the water-logged Memorial Park course. One of the finest collections of professional golfers assembled since last year's National Open was among the field of 150 competitors. Except for the 53 lesser-knowns who qualified Tuesday, few had had an opportunity to get as much as nine holes of practice on the 7150-yard, par 72 municipal course. Rain kept the sprawling layout closed Monday and most of yesterday.

Yanks to Try Again Today To Break Holdout Log Jam

(By The Associated Press)

Smooth talking Roy Hamey goes to bat for the second time today in his efforts to break the log jam of New York Yankee holdouts.

Hamey connected on four for five in his first attempt Tuesday when he got agreements from Allie Reynolds, Hank Bauer, Mickey Mantle and Joe Collins.

His only failure was Eddie Lopat and Lopat is first on his list today.

Wants Straight Contract

The Yankees want Lopat to sign a provisional contract calling for a maximum 25 per cent cut in his 1952 figure of $28,000. If he can show that he has regained his old form they'll pay him $28,000 again. Lopat wants a pact without the ifs and ands.

Hamey also plans to try his luck with Vic Raschi, who pulled down $40,000 last season, and outfielder Gene Woodling.

Woodling was hanging around yesterday waiting to talk with Hamey only to discover the money man was out of town. Gene is expected to come in easy.

Others still on the Yankees' unsigned list are Phil Rizzuto, who like Raschi drew $40,000 last season; pitcher Whitey Ford; first baseman Johnny Mize; second baseman Billy Martin, and infielder Kal Segrist.

Trade Rumors Fly

Segrist's name figured yesterday in trade rumors at the Clearwater, Fla., camp of the Philadelphia Phils. The word was that the Phils are trying to get waivers on first sacker Eddie Waitkus in order to ship him to the Yankees. The Phils are supposed to be interested in Segrist and Andy Carey and Bill Skowron, a couple of other Yankee youngsters. Carey is an infielder, Skowron an outfielder.

Cleveland reduced its holdout ranks to six with the signing of pitcher Lou Brissie but the absentees include such vital regulars as pitchers Bob Lemon, Early Wynn and Mike Garcia; outfielder Larry Doby, and second baseman Bob Avila.

Manager Paul Richards picked three White Sox pitchers for the first spring exhibition series with the Chicago Cubs a week from Saturday. The three are Tommy Byrne, who toiled for the St. Louis Browns last season, Lou Kretlow and Harry Dorish.

A crowd of 33,000 is expected, well ahead of the 32,209 who saw the race last year.

Sickler's Delivery and St. Joseph's will meet in the finals of the Recreation Senior League Shaughnessy playoffs next Monday night at the MJM School court.

Sicklers won their way into the finals Wednesday night with a 78 to 66 victory over the Village Rest.

St. Joseph's, meanwhile, earned the right to appear in the post-season playoffs with their second straight victory over the Violets Monday night. Sicklers had tied the series with the Villagers Monday night with a 62 to 58 triumph.

Both Sicklers and the Villagers played excellent ball for three periods last night, Sicklers holding a five-point edge at the quarter. The Villagers were on top by three at the half and Sicklers fought back taking a one-point margin of victory going into the final stanza.

Cage Scoring Higher

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—College basketball teams are scoring more points than ever—and the whole increase has been at the free throw line. Weekly statistics issued today by the NCAA Service Bureau, covering major college teams, show that the average score this year is ten points a game—five for each team—higher than a year ago. But there hasn't been any increase in baskets made, with the average for both teams stable at about 47 a game. The average number of free throws made, however, has jumped from 31 to 41.

Sports of the Day

(IN BRIEF)
(By The Associated Press)

New York—St. John's of Brooklyn and Tulsa accepted bids to participate in the National Invitation Tournament, leaving four teams still to be selected.

Kansas City — Oklahoma City was chosen as a western at-large team for the NCAA tournament.

Ormand Beach, Fla. — Polly Martin, former Ohio State student, upset Edean Anderson, Helena, Mont., 2 and 1, in first round of the Women's South Atlantic tournament.

Charlotteville, Va.—Jack Kramer beat Frank Sedgman, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 to go ahead, 19 matches to 18, in their pro tennis tour. Pancho Segura increased his lead over Ken McGregor to 30-8 by winning in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4.

1-2 Finish Seen By Steve O'Neill For His Phillies

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—Steve O'Neill, getting ready to start his first full season with the Philadelphia Phillies, picks his club to win the National League pennant or finish second to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"The Phillies will finish 1-2," he said flatly. "The club that beats us will win the pennant. I see no reason why we cannot win."

The husky Irishman who took over command of the Phillies from Eddie Sawyer in the middle of last season, said the end of the race will find his club, Brooklyn, the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals in the first division.

Declining to forecast the exact order in which the four teams will finish, Steve put it this way:

Brooks Team to Beat

"The Brooklyn Dodgers are the club for us to beat. But I don't think they can win the pennant again. Last year—a freak year—they won the championship by defeating the second division clubs in overwhelming fashion. It isn't in the books for them to do it again. They can't be that lucky."

"We will have the best pitching staff in baseball," said Steve, "with Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and Karl Drews as our big three."

And O'Neil said he didn't feel the club was hurt any of the loss of Meyer.

"Meyer not only hurt himself but also upset the players behind him by his antics on the field (Russ is reputed to have a quick temper). I don't think he will help Brooklyn either," he added.

Cage Scoring Higher

New York, Feb. 26 (AP)—College basketball teams are scoring more points than ever—and the whole increase has been at the free throw line. Weekly statistics issued today by the NCAA Service Bureau, covering major college teams, show that the average score this year is ten points a game—five for each team—higher than a year ago. But there hasn't been any increase in baskets made, with the average for both teams stable at about 47 a game. The average number of free throws made, however, has jumped from 31 to 41.

Sports of the Day

(IN BRIEF)
(By The Associated Press)

New York—St. John's of Brooklyn and Tulsa accepted bids to participate in the National Invitation Tournament, leaving four teams still to be selected.

Kansas City — Oklahoma City was chosen as a western at-large team for the NCAA tournament.

Ormand Beach, Fla. — Polly Martin, former Ohio State student, upset Edean Anderson, Helena, Mont., 2 and 1, in first round of the Women's South Atlantic tournament.

Charlotteville, Va.—Jack Kramer beat Frank Sedgman, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5 to go ahead, 19 matches to 18, in their pro tennis tour. Pancho Segura increased his lead over Ken McGregor to 30-8 by winning in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4.

1-2 Finish Seen By Steve O'Neill For His Phillies

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 26 (AP)—Steve O'Neill, getting ready to start his first full season with the Philadelphia Phillies, picks his club to win the National League pennant or finish second to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"The Phillies will finish 1-2," he said flatly. "The club that beats us will win the pennant. I see no reason why we cannot win."

The husky Irishman who took over command of the Phillies from Eddie Sawyer in the middle of last season, said the end of the race will find his club, Brooklyn, the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals in the first division.

Declining to forecast the exact order in which the four teams will finish, Steve put it this way:

Brooks Team to Beat

"The Brooklyn Dodgers are the club for us to beat. But I don't think they can win the pennant again. Last year—a freak year—they won the championship by defeating the second division clubs in overwhelming fashion. It isn't in the books for them to do it again. They can't be that lucky."

"We will have the best pitching staff in baseball," said Steve, "with Robin Roberts, Curt Simmons and Karl Drews as our big three."

And O'Neil said he didn't feel the club was hurt any of the loss of Meyer.

"Meyer not only hurt himself but also upset the players behind him by his antics on the field (Russ is reputed to have a quick temper). I don't think he will help Brooklyn either," he added.

Allies Raid Lines

souri steamed into battered Wonsan harbor just before dawn and pounded Communist postions with shrieking, 16-inch shells. Navy carrier planes made their customary heckling rails along the east coast.

Only one B-29 Superfort hit North Korea last night. It dropped 10 tons of bombs on the Red front lines.

In other ground action, allied raiders rammed a Chinese Red position southwest of Old Baldy on the west-central front. Killing at least 12 Communists. Light patrol activity was reported elsewhere in the west.

On the central front, allied infantrymen and artillery fire drove 200 Reds off UN positions along the Hantan river valley southwest of Pyonggang. Another 10 Chinese were wiped out in an early morning clash northwest of Kumhwa.

An allied patrol killed or wounded 18 Communists in a brief battle last night south of the Soyang river in the eastern front.

Bunker-busting tanks, firing from fixed positions, yesterday smashed 137 Communist bunkers, 12 caves, 12 observation posts, 36 gun positions and 400 yards of trenches along the front.

Minister's Salary Survey

Fremont, Neb. (AP) — Ministers receive about the same cash payment for their work as other workers, reports Dr. J. Emory Ackerman, Midland College professor in an article in "The Lutheran," official publication of the United Lutheran Church in America. The median cash salary without parsonage is approximately the same for ministers as the median income for families in all occupations, he says. His findings were based on a study of the seven largest denominations in the National Council of Churches of Christ in America. The survey included replies from 1,300 congregations.

Davey's Ranking Skids to Ninth; Gavilan Honored

Gil Turner, Billy Graham, Johnny Bratton, Johnny Saxton, Joe Miceli, Art Aragon, Lester Felton and Danny (Bang Bang) Womber all are ranked ahead of Davey in Editor Nat Fleischer's list of welterweight contenders.

Gavilan, incidentally, was chosen as the fighter of the month.

Roland La Starza's victory over Rex Layne sent the New Yorker to third and dropped Rex to fourth among the heavies.

Pierre Langlois' triumph over Rocky Castellani vaulted him from tenth to fourth, Castellani's old berth, in the middleweight ranks. Castellani slumped to fifth. Ernie Durando, inactive since Oct. 27, fell from fifth to seventh. Durando meets Paddy Young of New York in an elimination bout March 27. Young, inactive since last March, is not ranked. Ralph Jones of Yonkers moved into 10th position.

In the lightweight division, Georgie Araujo, Henry Davis, Johnny Gonsalves and Paddy De Marco were listed 1-2-3-4 in that order.

Angels Triumph Over Woodstock By 125-79 Score

Harry's Angels of the YMCA Basketball League went over the century mark with a 125 to 79 verdict over the Woodstock Varsity at the Woodstock Central School gym Monday night.

Ward Dunham hit for 21, Eric Goercke added 17, Champ Holstein 15 and 0. Smith 16 for the Angels.

Kleine Buckets 31

Big Bill Kleine of the Woodstock five emerged as the top scorer of the game with his 31 points on 13 fields and five charity points. Waterous followed with 19 while Harder collected 14.

The Angels held a 29-13 lead at the first quarter and doubled their lead to 60-26 at halftime.

Woodstock found the range in the final two quarters with 23 points in each period while the Angel's best scoring splurge came in the last session with 42.

Blue Devils Win, Tied for First; Accord Trips KPA

The Blue Devils, first round champions of the "B" Division of the YMCA Basketball League, eked out a 78 to 75 victory over Cerasaro Brothers Wednesday night to gain themselves a first place tie with Waterous Lumber and Village Rest.

All three clubs have now won three and dropped one game during the second round of play.

Kaplan Scores 35

The Blue Devils suddenly pulled away however with an eight-point spurt and went on to win despite a last-minute rally by Cerasaros.

Jerry Kaplan was the outstanding player in all-round play. Besides pushing in 35 points, Kaplan set up many baskets on bounce passes and was effective in getting the ball off the defensive backboards. Joe Gardiner also played a stellar game, scoring 30 points.

Trailing Kaplan in the scoring ledger for the Devils was Bruce Hinkley with 16 markers. Jack Graney pushed in 24 and Bob Cahill 15 to trail Gardiner's 30 pointers.

Chevies Nip KPA

In another close duel, the Accord Chevies pulled out a squeaker victory over the KPA by 62 to 61.

The game went ragged in the second period when the KPA outscored Accord 24-13 and led at half time by 39-26. Accord rallied and out scored the KPA in the third period by 18-10 and in the fourth stanza 18-12 to take the game by a single point margin.

However, before it was settled, it was anybody's ball game.

With 55 seconds left, the police team held a three point margin when John Gilleran intercepted a pass and dribbled the length of the floor for a layup, cutting the KPA lead to one point.

When the KPA took the ball and tried to freeze it, John Gilleran cut in fast and stole another pass, drove in for a shot but missed. Gilleran retrieved the ball and let go with an underhand shot which clicked for the margin of victory in Accord's favor. The game ended as the KPA took possession of the ball.

Schoonmaker was high for Accord with 17 points while Gilleran, the star, scored 15. Lowell Baker and Milford Ebert followed with 11 and 10 points respectively. John Letus sparked the KPA with 19 points. Tony Altamore hit for 14, Bill Fitzgerald 12 and Earl Schoonmaker 10.

Build Up Your Bowling By
Knockin' 'Em Down
With STEVE NAGY, Bowler of the Year

I think bowlers are a great deal like golfers.

Steve Nagy

A bowler averaging 160 is like a golfer who shoots in the 90s. A golfer in the 90's would be very happy to chop 10 strokes off his game, and a bowler averaging 160 would be quite happy to add 10 pins to his game.

If the golfer has a weakness he will go out and practice that one shot for an hour at a time, either on the course or at a driving range.

Yet bowlers seldom practice one specific phase of their game which is robbing them of at least 10 pins a game.

In short, in your practice sessions, practice turning in the spares which are most difficult for you.

If you can pick up that one extra spare a game, you have accomplished your purpose of adding 10 points to your score.

Preview in Miniature

No Clue Is Found

State police of the Ellenville station are still without a clue to the identity of the man whose body was found in a stream at Greenfield Park on Monday afternoon, the troopers said today. The man apparently was between 56 and 80 years of age, was about five feet, eight inches tall and weighed about 180 pounds.

Teen-Agers Oppose Ban

Milwaukee (AP)—In spite of the objections of three ten-age members, the Youth Commission voted in favor of county and statewide laws forbidding sale of beer to persons under 21. Five adult members and one teen-ager supported present laws. One teen-ager put his objections in this way: "If you should marry at 19 and your husband was 21, would you like it if you went bowling and you couldn't have a beer with him?" The lone teen-ager voting with the adults replied, "I wouldn't want beer. I like milk instead."

Allies Raid Lines

B-26 light bombers roared over North Korea last night and blasted Red Transport and front-line positions.

Only one B-29 Superfort hit North Korea last night. It dropped 10 tons of bombs on the Red front lines.

In other ground action, allied raiders rammed a Chinese Red position southwest of Old Baldy on the west-central front. Killing at least 12 Communists. Light patrol activity was reported elsewhere in the west.

On the central front, allied infantrymen and artillery fire drove 200 Reds off UN positions along the Hantan river valley southwest of Pyonggang. Another 10 Chinese were wiped out in an early morning clash northwest of Kumhwa.

An allied patrol killed or wounded 18 Communists in a brief battle last night south of the Soyang river in the eastern front.

Minister's Salary Survey

Fremont, Neb. (AP) — Ministers receive about the same cash payment for their work as other workers, reports Dr. J. Emory Ackerman, Midland College professor in an article in "The Lutheran," official publication of the United Lutheran Church in America. The median cash salary without parsonage is approximately the same for ministers as the median income for families in all occupations, he says. His findings were based on a study of the seven largest denominations in the National Council of Churches of Christ in America. The survey included replies from 1,300 congregations.

Davey's Ranking Skids to Ninth; Gavilan Honored

Gil Turner, Billy Graham, Johnny Bratton, Johnny Saxton, Joe Miceli, Art Aragon, Lester Felton and Danny (Bang Bang) Womber all are ranked ahead of Davey in Editor Nat Fleischer's list of welterweight contenders.

Gavilan, incidentally, was chosen as the fighter of the month.

Roland La Starza's victory over Rex Layne sent the New Yorker to third and dropped Rex to fourth among the heavies.

Pierre Langlois' triumph over Rocky Castellani vaulted him from tenth to fourth, Castellani's old berth, in the middleweight ranks. Castellani slumped to fifth. Ernie Durando, inactive since Oct. 27, fell from fifth to seventh. Durando meets Paddy Young of New York in an elimination bout March 27. Young, inactive since last March, is not ranked. Ralph Jones of Yonkers moved into 10th position.

In the lightweight division, Georgie Araujo, Henry Davis, Johnny Gonsalves and Paddy De Marco were listed 1-2-3-4 in that order.

Philadelphia's Percy Bassett moved to the No. 1 spot among the featherweight contenders by stopping France's Ray Famechon, who fell from first to fourth. Tommy Collins and Willie Pep now rate above Famechon.

Ward Dunham hit for 21, Eric Goercke added 17, Champ Holstein 15 and O. Smith 16 for the Angels.

Kleine Buckets 31

Big Bill Kleine of the Woodstock five emerged as the top scorer of the game with his 31 points on 13 fields and five charity points. Waterous followed with 19 while Harder collected 14.

The Angels held a 29-13 lead at the first quarter and doubled their lead to 60-26 at halftime.

Blue Devils Win, Tied for First; Accord Trips KPA

The Blue Devils, first round champions of the "B" Division of the YMCA Basketball League, eked out a 78 to 75 victory over Cerasaro Brothers Wednesday night to gain themselves a first place tie with Waterous Lumber and Village Rest.

All three clubs have now won three and dropped one game during the second round of play.

Kaplan Scores 35

The Blue Devils suddenly pulled away however with an eight-point spurt and went on to win despite a last-minute rally by Cerasaros.

Jerry Kaplan was the outstanding player in all-round play. Besides pushing in 35 points, Kaplan set up many baskets on bounce passes and was effective in getting the ball off the defensive backboards. Joe Gardiner also played a stellar game, scoring 30 points.

Trailing Kaplan in the scoring ledger for the Devils was Bruce Hinkley with 16 markers. Jack Graney pushed in 24 and Bob Cahill 15 to trail Gardiner's 30 pointers.

Chevies Nip KPA

In another close duel, the Accord Chevies pulled out a squeaker victory over the KPA by 62 to 61.

The game went ragged in the second period when the KPA outscored Accord 24-13 and led at half time by 39-26. Accord rallied and out scored the KPA in the third period by 18-10 and in the fourth stanza 18-12 to take the game by a single point margin.

However, before it was settled, it was anybody's ball game.

With 55 seconds left, the police team held a three point margin when John Gilleran intercepted a pass and dribbled the length of the floor for a layup, cutting the KPA lead to one point.

When the KPA took the ball and tried to freeze it, John Gilleran cut in fast and stole another pass, drove in for a shot but missed. Gilleran retrieved the ball and let go with an underhand shot which clicked for the margin of victory in Accord's favor. The game ended as the KPA took possession of the ball.

Schoonmaker was high for Accord with 17 points while Gilleran, the star, scored 15. Lowell Baker and Milford Ebert followed with 11 and 10 points respectively. John Letus sparked the KPA with 19 points. Tony Altamore hit for 14, Bill Fitzgerald 12 and Earl Schoonmaker 10.

Build Up Your Bowling By
Knockin' 'Em Down
With STEVE NAGY, Bowler of the Year

I think bowlers are a great deal like golfers.

Steve Nagy

A bowler averaging 160 is like a golfer who shoots in the 90s. A golfer in the 90's would be very happy to chop 10 strokes off his game, and a bowler averaging 160 would be quite happy to add 10 pins to his game.

If the golfer has a weakness he will go out and practice that one shot for an hour at a time, either on the course or at a driving range.

Yet bowlers seldom practice one specific phase of their game which is robbing them of at least 10 pins a game.

In short, in your practice sessions, practice turning in the spares which are most difficult for you.

If you can pick up that one extra spare a game, you have accomplished your purpose of adding 10 points to your score.

Preview in Miniature

No Clue Is Found

State police of the Ellenville station are still without a clue to the identity of the man whose body was found in a stream at Greenfield Park on Monday afternoon, the troopers said today. The man apparently was between 56 and 80 years of age, was about five feet, eight inches tall and weighed about 180 pounds.

Teen-Agers Oppose Ban

Milwaukee (AP)—In spite of the objections of three ten-age members, the Youth Commission voted in favor of county and statewide laws forbidding sale of beer to persons under 21. Five adult members and one teen-ager supported present laws. One teen-ager put his objections in this way: "If you should marry at 19 and your husband was 21, would you like it if you went bowling and you couldn't have a beer with him?" The lone teen-ager voting with the adults replied, "I wouldn't want beer. I like milk instead."

Hercules Honors Retired Employes at Dinner

Peekskill Mechanic Given Suspended Term

White Plains, Feb. 26 (AP)—Robert Lent, 33, a Peekskill auto mechanic, has been given a suspended sentence on a charge growing out of rioting that followed a concert appearance of Negro singer Paul Robeson near Peekskill in September, 1949.

Lent pleaded guilty yesterday in county court to a charge of carrying a knife strapped to his leg.

More than 100 persons were injured in the rioting—a clash between a group, protesting the left wing singer's appearance and concert goers.

Visiting Judge John P. Donohue, of Putnam county, announcing sentence would be suspended, told Lent he apparently was laboring under a mistaken idea of patriotism at the time of his arrest.

Most Weather Is Fair

(By The Associated Press)

There were wet spots in the eastern half of the nation today but generally fair and mild weather was the outlook for most other areas. The precipitation belt extended from the Mississippi river and Great Lakes region eastward. The only snow fall was in the Great Lakes region. Most rainfalls were light except for sections of the Gulf which reported moderate amounts. The fall at Montgomery, Ala., measured 1.34 inches. Skies were clear from the Great Plains and West Gulf westward to the Pacific coast. Temperatures were near or above normal readings, varying early today from the 20s in the northeast, central Rockies and plains to the 60s in the Florida area.

Colchester, in Essex, England, is said to have been the home of the mythological Old King Cole.

Thomas Turck, 39 Ponckhockie street, receives from Edmund P. Rochford, works manager of Hercules Powder Company, Port Ewen, a certificate of membership in the Wise Owl Club of America sponsored by National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Turck is the eighth Hercules employe to receive the award made to workers in industry whose one or both eyes are saved by wearing proper eye protection at time of an accident. (Kinkade and Hutton photo)

Britain Builds Boats

London, Feb. 26 (AP)—Britain is rushing work on a fleet of high-speed torpedo boats powered by jet-like engines and capable of destroying the most modern submarines. An admiralty announcement today also disclosed the Royal Navy is building minesweepers on a "super-priority" basis to strengthen British coastal defenses and guard ocean lifelines. It showed clearly that Britain is girding against any all-out attack by Russia's vast submarine fleet, which includes speedy long-range craft of the latest design.

Boorstin Declares

scholar he said was openly known at the time as a Communist.

5. Another of Boorstin's reasons for joining the group was because the Communist Party at that time "was supporting liberal views and taking a position against anti-Semitism."

Questioned on Hicks

Rep. Walter (D.-Pa.), senior Democrat on the committee, questioned Boorstin closely about Granville Hicks. Davis named Hicks, too, as a former Red in his testimony yesterday.

Boorstin said the presence of Hicks, who was employed by Harvard as a counsellor of American studies, "lent a certain glamor to the group."

In reply to a question by Walter, Boorstin said Hicks' Communist connections were known publicly because of his writings.

"It was a well known fact, then, when Harvard got him as a counsellor?" asked Walter.

"Yes," replied Boorstin, who added that Hicks was retained only one school year.

Boorstin said:

"In those days of the so-called united front the Communist Party was supporting liberal views and taking a position against anti-Semitism. As a Jew that had a natural appeal for me."

He testified that two of his roommates while at school in England were also members of the Red Cell at Harvard. He identified them as Richard B. Schlatter and Richard M. Goodwin. They were also named in yesterday's testimony by Davis.

Boorstin said his interests were chiefly in the study aspect of the group. "I was not particularly active and never held a position of leadership."

Davis named 21 persons as former Communists. He described Boorstin as one of his fellow intellectuals who eventually disagreed with the policies of Stalinism and broke his ties with the Communists.

The Amish, who have several fairly large centers in the United States, are believed to have split away from the Mennonites, a related religious sect in Europe between 1693 and 1697.

Novick Is Appointed

Albany, Feb. 26 (AP)—Abraham Novick, assistant superintendent of the State Agricultural and Industrial School for Boys at Industry, today was appointed superintendent of the State Training School for Girls at Hudson. Novick succeeds Miss Harriet L. Goldman, assistant superintendent, who has been acting as superintendent since the retirement of Miss Inez B. Patterson last May. The post carries a base salary of $10,138 a year. Novick's appointment was announced by Henry Root Stern, chairman of the State Board of Social Welfare.

John Adams, who died at 90, lived longer than any other man who has been U. S. President.

Peekskill Mechanic Given Suspended Term

White Plains, Feb. 26 (AP)—Robert Lent, 33, a Peekskill auto mechanic, has been given a suspended sentence on a charge growing out of rioting that followed a concert appearance of Negro singer Paul Robeson near Peekskill in September, 1949.

Lent pleaded guilty yesterday in county court to a charge of carrying a knife strapped to his leg.

More than 100 persons were injured in the rioting—a clash between a group, protesting the left wing singer's appearance and concert goers.

Visiting Judge John P. Donohue, of Putnam county, announcing sentence would be suspended, told Lent he apparently was laboring under a mistaken idea of patriotism at the time of his arrest.

Most Weather Is Fair

(By The Associated Press)

There were wet spots in the eastern half of the nation today but generally fair and mild weather was the outlook for most other areas. The precipitation belt extended from the Mississippi river and Great Lakes region eastward. The only snow fall was in the Great Lakes region. Most rainfalls were light except for sections of the Gulf which reported moderate amounts. The fall at Montgomery, Ala., measured 1.34 inches. Skies were clear from the Great Plains and West Gulf westward to the Pacific coast. Temperatures were near or above normal readings, varying early today from the 20s in the northeast, central Rockies and plains to the 60s in the Florida area.

Colchester, in Essex, England, is said to have been the home of the mythological Old King Cole.

Thomas Turck, 39 Ponckhockie street, receives from Edmund P. Rochford, works manager of Hercules Powder Company, Port Ewen, a certificate of membership in the Wise Owl Club of America sponsored by National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Turck is the eighth Hercules employe to receive the award made to workers in industry whose one or both eyes are saved by wearing proper eye protection at time of an accident. (Kinkade and Hutton photo)

Britain Builds Boats

London, Feb. 26 (AP)—Britain is rushing work on a fleet of high-speed torpedo boats powered by jet-like engines and capable of destroying the most modern submarines. An admiralty announcement today also disclosed the Royal Navy is building minesweepers on a "super-priority" basis to strengthen British coastal defenses and guard ocean lifelines. It showed clearly that Britain is girding against any all-out attack by Russia's vast submarine fleet, which includes speedy long-range craft of the latest design.

Boorstin Declares

scholar he said was openly known at the time as a Communist.

5. Another of Boorstin's reasons for joining the group was because the Communist Party at that time "was supporting liberal views and taking a position against anti-Semitism."

Questioned on Hicks

Rep. Walter (D.-Pa.), senior Democrat on the committee, questioned Boorstin closely about Granville Hicks. Davis named Hicks, too, as a former Red in his testimony yesterday.

Boorstin said the presence of Hicks, who was employed by Harvard as a counsellor of American studies, "lent a certain glamor to the group."

In reply to a question by Walter, Boorstin said Hicks' Communist connections were known publicly because of his writings.

"It was a well known fact, then, when Harvard got him as a counsellor?" asked Walter.

"Yes," replied Boorstin, who added that Hicks was retained only one school year.

Boorstin said:

"In those days of the so-called united front the Communist Party was supporting liberal views and taking a position against anti-Semitism. As a Jew that had a natural appeal for me."

He testified that two of his roommates while at school in England were also members of the Red Cell at Harvard. He identified them as Richard B. Schlatter and Richard M. Goodwin. They were also named in yesterday's testimony by Davis.

Boorstin said his interests were chiefly in the study aspect of the group. "I was not particularly active and never held a position of leadership."

Davis named 21 persons as former Communists. He described Boorstin as one of his fellow intellectuals who eventually disagreed with the policies of Stalinism and broke his ties with the Communists.

The Amish, who have several fairly large centers in the United States, are believed to have split away from the Mennonites, a related religious sect in Europe between 1693 and 1697.

Novick Is Appointed

Albany, Feb. 26 (AP)—Abraham Novick, assistant superintendent of the State Agricultural and Industrial School for Boys at Industry, today was appointed superintendent of the State Training School for Girls at Hudson. Novick succeeds Miss Harriet L. Goldman, assistant superintendent, who has been acting as superintendent since the retirement of Miss Inez B. Patterson last May. The post carries a base salary of $10,138 a year. Novick's appointment was announced by Henry Root Stern, chairman of the State Board of Social Welfare.

John Adams, who died at 90, lived longer than any other man who has been U. S. President.

Second Navy LCU Launched at Island

Island Dock Inc., today launched the second of 17 LCU steel, self-propelled landing craft it is building for the U. S. Navy.

The 120 by 34 feet vessel went into the Rondout creek at 11:30 a. m. The first one was launched Jan. 8.

Seven of the craft are now under construction at the shipyard. The one launched last month is expected to be completed late in April and that, which went into the creek today, will be finished in May.
